SUMMARY.

The British, after intense artillery preparation, have captured the whole of the German defence system over an extended front south of Ypres.

Field-Marshal Haig reports that the operations in the Wytschaete salient were completely successful.

"We captured the villages of Messines and Wytschaete," he says, "and also many strongly organised positions."

"Later," he continues, "we again advanced and carried the village of Oosttaverne, and also the enemy's defences east of the village."

The British artillery broke up an attempted counter-attack against the southern portion of our new positions.

The enemy's casualties are heavy. By 4.30 in the afternoon over 5000 prisoners had been brought in.

English, Irish, Australians, and New Zealanders took part in the new offensive.

There had never been such mining, 1,000,000lb of explosives having been laid during the past year. This was used.

The British gas shells silenced the German batteries. Everything is said to be going well.

The ground won by the British includes the ridge between Wytschaete and Messines, which for over two years has defied the British.

The German batteries are no longer able to dominate Ypres and watch every movement in the British trenches.

Prisoners state that they never experienced anything like the British artillery. The Ypres salient has been wiped out.

Mr. Percival Phillips says that considering the importance of the operations our casualties are light.

Seldom has a great victory, it is declared, been more cheaply won.

The victory is said to be a triumph for the Anzach Australian and New Zealand battalions.

The Germans are massing towards Warneton, north-east of Armentieres, for a counter-attack.

The Australians and New Zealanders are delighted with the result of the battle.

They captured Messines in an hour and 40 minutes, despite a desperate German defence.

A German official report states that an artillery battle has raged since Wednesday between Ypres and Armentieres.

Strong British attacks at Hulluch, Loos, Lievin, and Roeux are asserted to have failed.

The German report continues: The enemy broke into our foremost position in the salient of the Wytschaete salient.

"Fighting battle continues violently," the report adds.

A violent fire by the French nipped in the bud a strong German attack on a front of 400 metres north-west of St. Quentin.

Lively reciprocal artillery actions are in progress south of Erilain, north of Chemin-des-Dames.

The Allies' air raids are said to have done serious damage at Zeebrugge and Ghent.

The Austrians, with reinforcements, delivered violent attacks on the Carso front from Hill 247 to Hill 21, east of Jamiano.

After fighting all day long with varying fortune the enemy was completely repulsed.

An Austrian official message says: Enemy massed attacks in the Jamiano region broke down with heavy losses.

Official reports from Petrograd are optimistic. There is a stricter discipline in the army.

It is believed by officials that the revolution will yet prove one of the greatest triumphs of the war.

The P.L.L. Conference last night discussed the report of the committee upon the attitude of the Labour movement towards the war.

The report urged that immediate negotiations be initiated for an international peace conference.

Sir Matthew Harris died at a private hospital at Potts Point yesterday morning.

Additional receipts to the Red Triangle Day Fund bring the total amount in band up to £6,176 9s 6d.

Three batches of sick and wounded soldiers will arrive in Sydney by train on Sunday.

A large batch of men who have been engaged for munition work in England will leave Sydney shortly.

Owing to the shortage in fitters the Railway Department has refused leave to such workmen to go to England for munition work.

About 120 men who were engaged in the electric light department of the City Council are out of employment.

A deputation waited upon the Acting Treasurer yesterday to point out certain grievances in regard to the State income tax.

Mr. Fitzpatrick could not hold out the slightest hope in the direction of remitting the supertax.

He thought, however, there was some justification for a new tribunal to hear appeals.

The Minister promised to consider a suggestion that the Federal land tax should be deducted from the State assessment.

An appeal has been issued setting out the objects of the collection on July 13 in aid of France's Day.

Contributions have already been sent in, the amount in hand being £6700.

The Lord Mayor, addressing the delegates to the Comforts Fund Conference, referred to conscription in the United States.

He refused to believe that the 25,000 Australians who had fallen would remain unavenged.

The 298th Australian casualty list records the names of 206 killed and 1014 wounded.

At the request of the Rugby League liquor is not to be allowed on the Sydney Cricket Ground except in the bars, etc.

At the annual meeting of the Queen's Jubilee Fund it was stated that the council had made the most of the money at its disposal.

At a meeting at the Australia Hotel a testimonial to Alderman Meagher, M.L.C., Lord Mayor of Sydney, was initiated.

The council of the Stockowners' Association has decided to urge the construction of the railway from Dubbo to Werris Creek.

The report of the University Extension Board makes special reference to the work of the study circles for working class women.

The estate of the late Mr. John Lonergan, of Kayuga, near Muswellbrook, has been valued for probate at £22,313 18s 8d.

A fire broke out in the operating box of a picture theatre at Coogee, resulting in damage to the extent of £200.

Mails for the United Kingdom will close at the General Post Office at 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

The Macquarie poll was declared yesterday as follows:—Carr (Nat.), 13,557; Nicholls (P.L.L.), 13,566; majority for Nicholls, 9.

Mr. Carr intends to appeal to the High Court for a decision on the validity of certain absentee votes declared informal.

At a meeting of the Teachers' Guild Mr. A. Coffey favoured the establishment of a Chair of Art at the University.

The Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson visited Culcairn on Thursday, and were accorded a civic reception.

At the Public school his Excellency presented the Scottish Standard received from Culcairn, in Scotland.

An interstate conference in connection with the Australian Comforts Fund was commenced at the Town Hall yesterday.

The principal matters discussed were the freight question, and the feasibility of working with the Overseas Tobacco Fund.

An official report states that 1727 nurses have left Australia for service abroad, while 304 are about to embark.

There was a fair amount of activity in the Real Estate market during the week.

A good deal of attention was paid to steam ventures in the investment section of the Stock Exchange yesterday.

The market for mining scrip opened brightly, and business was on fairly extensive lines.

Barriers attracted most attention, and copper stocks improved. Westonias were firm.

Forecast.—Fine generally, with more frosts and some fogs; variable winds.

GARDEN NOTES FOR JUNE, FROM OUR CALENDAR.

Proceed with all digging and trenching operations at once, and be careful in removing the refuse of any previous crop to DESTROY ALL INSECTS and other GARDEN PESTS which may have found a home there. It will save much future trouble to have the digging finished some considerable time in advance of planting, for the soil will be sweetening, mellowing, and crumbling into finer particles than can ever be the case with land which is cultivated to-day and cropped to-morrow.

STAINLESS STEEL

POCKET KNIVES.

SOMETHING QUITE NEW.

A Stainless Steel Pocket Knife may be called a knife of almost perpetual use. It will not rust—it will not stain. Furthermore, it may be used as a fruit knife, the steel having no more effect on the fruit than if it were silver. And, of course, may be used for all purposes to which one regularly puts a good Pocket Knife.

I have these Knives in several patterns and various haftings. Prices range from 5/6, 6/6, 8/6, to 10/6.

Name engraved, 1/ extra.

WILL NOT STAIN; WILL NOT RUST.

AUSTRALIAN TWEEDS.

MADE BY

VICARS, OF MARRICKVILLE.

From the Sheep's back to yours.

At first glance the intimate relationship between the raw material and finished product of Australian Wool does not appear so striking.

But those who have worn all-Australian Wool Fabrics know from experience that all the virtues the finest wool staple in the world is known to possess are to be found in Australian-made Tweeds and Worsteds and other Woollen Goods.

For this Winter Season's Wear we show a splendid range of Australian Wool Fabrics, patterns of which we send to any address on request.

City Men, see the Special Display of Australian Woollens in our George-street Windows at Headquarters.

YOU NEED A SAFIX MILLER IF YOU WEEK-END WAY UP THE RIVER. Ten minutes after you reach the Boatshed this afternoon you may be away in the Safix Miller, making 6 miles an hour against a strong tide, revelling in head winds, while your friends tug at the oars long after you are ashore and settling down for the finest week-end you ever had. Just think of all the distant places you would like to reach quickly and easily each week-end, instead of being forced to potter about where you won't have far to row home when the tide turns. The Safix Miller Outboard Motor will open up possibilities for your week-ends that you have not dreamt of. Price is £25, complete with Dixie 111 Magneto. 2½-h.p., speed 8 miles. Costs next to nothing to run. Quite easy to understand. Will run all day without any trouble and very little attention. J. L. Scott's Show Rooms, 80 Hunter-st. Booklet H. p. free fr. PUBLIC NOTICES.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SYDNEY.

RESTRICTION ON THE CONNECTION OF ELECTRIC INSTALLATIONS.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the City Council will not until further notice connect to its electricity supply mains except as hereunder mentioned installations:—

(1) In premises the frontage of which is not passed by existing distributing mains.
(2) In premises which have been already occupied and in which another system than electric for producing artificial light, heat, or motive power has been provided.

EXCEPTION:—

The districts of Roseville, Lindfield, Killara, and Gordon having been provided with distributing mains during the last few weeks only, the restriction No. 2 does not apply in those districts, and further, after the 30th September, 1917, until further notice, the City Council will not connect any additional installation of any kind. This applies to all areas and districts without exception.

It is to be particularly noted that the mere application for a supply by the 30th September next will not insure an installation being connected. No connection of additional installations will be carried out after the 30th September.

N.B.—The above restrictions do not apply in cases in which installations have been connected by the Council and for some reason disconnected.

Dated this sixth day of June, 1917.

GLOVE SATISFACTION.

The LADIES' GLOVE DEPARTMENT at the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM is POPULAR with PATRONS who EXPECT FULL VALUE for the MONEY they EXPEND. The REASON is that the GLOVES stocked are SATISFACTION GIVERS. GOODS which COME WELL WITHIN that CATEGORY are LADIES' MOTOR and DRIVING GLOVES. These are EXTREMELY SCARCE owing to the war, but we were FORTUNATE in OBTAINING a SUPPLY of WELL-MADE and SERVICEABLE GLOVES which will COMMEND themselves to THOSE LADIES who INDULGE in MOTORING or DRIVING. Washable CHAMOIS LEATHER GLOVES for SPORTSWOMEN are BOUND to be POPULAR, also FABRIC GLOVES in large variety, both lined and unlined.

LADIES will ALSO FIND MUCH to INTEREST them in the MILLINERY DEPARTMENT, where a LARGE DISPLAY of MILLINERY ACCESSORIES is on view. These, in COMMON with the GLOVES, COME UNDER the MONEY-SAVING INFLUENCE of

ANTHONY HORDERNS'

FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

TO THE ELECTORS OF PARKES.

LADIES and GENTLEMEN,

Being unable to attend in person the formal declaration of the poll for the recent Federal Election, I adopt this wider means of acknowledging the magnificent support which you accorded to me as the champion of the Nationalist cause. I desire to thank you, one and all, for enabling me to record one of the largest majorities in the Commonwealth. I shall do my best to support the National Government in carrying out a just and rational policy of legislation and administration most conducive to the winning of the war, and to the general welfare of all classes of the community.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS.

If any reader is a sufferer from this blemish I can cure them. It does not matter how bad the growth is, for I can prove I have removed

FIVE, SIX, SEVEN, AND UP TO THIRTEEN THOUSAND HAIRS.

These being individual cases, this may seem to many an exaggerated statement, but to women who have tried for possibly six or seven years applications sold as home cures, depilatories, etc., it will be understood. They know that all of these cures have gradually increased the growth from hundreds to thousands, for they remove the tops of the hairs and leave the roots, but I remove what they leave. Of course, my treatment has to be given personally, and the expediency depends upon the lady to be treated and her skin. I will give full details and a

RECIPE FOR COLD AND WHOOPING COUGH REMEDY.

A Special Mixture for Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, and Sore Throats may be made by anyone without any trouble or fussing. All you need do is get a bottle of HEENZO (registered name for Hean's Essence) from your chemist or store, and add to it warm water and sweetening matter (such as sugar, treacle, or honey) as per easy directions printed on the label. This will produce a pint of splendid soothing, healing, phlegm-loosening mixture—as much as you can get of ordinary remedies for 12/.

HEENZO COSTS ONLY 2/
(BY POST 2/3).

MORAL:

MAKE YOUR OWN HEENZO COUGH MIXTURE, AND SAVE 10/.

N.B.—If you do not require a large supply of Cough Mixture, ask for HEENZO COUGH DIAMONDS. Price, 1/ per tin. They are fine for the voice, and a good mouth disinfectant.

BALDNESS,
A GREAT DRAWBACK.

Conditions of 20th Century life are bringing about an increasing tendency to BALDNESS in men comparatively young. Such an acknowledged drawback is sought to be overcome by all sorts of Hair Restorers, and with little permanent success. Wisdom takes the "short cut" in this matter, and calls in the aid of Art to hide the deficiency. In other words,

CRAIG and AITKEN'S
SCALPS OR TOUPEES

settle the question once for all. They are so closely akin to nature's covering, and fit the wearer's head so perfectly, that your most intimate friend is deceived by it.

THE INDIVIDUAL PHOTOGRAPH.
THE INDIVIDUAL PHOTOGRAPH.
THE INDIVIDUAL PHOTOGRAPH.

To-day everyone has been more or less educated in art, and are keen critics of the lighting, posing, and general build-up of a good photograph; they easily discern the difference between the artistic and the crude.

As a great musician delights to play before a keen critic, so we cater for those who know the best.

Our patrons return to us time after time, and are living advertisements for our skill.

There are photographs that do not appeal to you. There is no soul in them. The sitter has been photographed without expression, and the lack of animation would suggest a statue rather than an individual.

OUR Portraits are noted for faithfulness of the likeness of the sitter. They seem to utter that personality of yours known to your friends.
Charges to meet Every Purse.

THE CROWN STUDIOS,

448 GEORGE-STREET (NEXT ROBERTS' HOTEL).

YOUR FRIENDS CAN BUY anything you can give them—except your Photograph.
It is therefore necessary that your Photograph should be superior, if not unique. Superior in light, superior in shade, superior in finish, superior as a work of art. A Photograph that will impress the recipient and cause the expression "That is good."
That is the kind of Photograph you get at THE PEEL STUDIOS,

EGGLO. EGGLO. EGGLO.

THE GREAT MEAT FOOD.

The wonderful results obtained in the series of Laying Competitions just concluded demonstrate the absolute necessity of a Meat Food in the ration.

EGGLO is the tried and proved Meat Food used by the great majority of Poultry Farmers, and if you are not using it, the quicker you give it a trial the quicker you will get more satisfactory returns from your birds.

Egglo 10 per cent., Pollard 60 per cent., Bran 30 per cent., will give you a practical balanced ration equivalent to what is used at the Laying Competitions.

For those who prefer a ready mixed Mash Food, THORPE'S LAYING MASH will be found a great result-producer, and is sold at a price not very little in advance of what the different feeds can be bought for.

BROODER EQUIPMENT.

Efficient Brooding of the Chickens is the determining factor of your future profits.

Large numbers of the leading breeders have installed "Newtown" equipment for the coming season.

As there will be only a limited number of Machines available, early application is necessary if you desire one of these Modern Brooders.

You will not appreciate the cheapness, the freedom from worry, the ease, that this equipment means to you until you give it a trial.

Newtown Brooders will positively raise every healthy chick put under them.

Just reckon out what your chick losses meant to you last year, and see if it would not pay you to instal a machine that would cut out these losses.

DEAD CALVES WON'T PAY.

The shortage of Cattle is becoming so critical that to let a single Calf die is worse than waste.

Don't do things in Grandfather's way. Be progressive, and get acquainted with the modern method of doing things, and use
KING CALF FOOD.

If you are willing to be shown the benefits of this wonderful, true milk substitute, ask your storekeeper or write direct to us for particulars and sample. King Calf Food has ten times the sale of any other calf food, and is ten times better, too.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

OUR UNUSUALLY EASY TERMS will enable anyone to secure his own Home. Fifteen Pounds (£15) is not much to save up, yet is all the Deposit required on a £550 Cottage, or, say, £20 on a Cottage worth £800.

REMEMBER,
TENANCY means so much rent OUT OF POCKET EVERY WEEK,
BUT,
OWNERSHIP on our Easy Terms means that no more is paid weekly than under tenancy for a similar property, yet the House is your own, and as it will soon be paid for in full, you are money IN POCKET every week.
MONEY IS LOST TO YOU every week that this opportunity is neglected
We do not push you to buy, but wish you to know that such an opportunity is at present available.

ARCHITECTURE AND ECONOMY.

Come First

HABERFIELD GARDEN SUBURB.

Our Building Operations during the past 15 years at Haberfield have placed us in the enviable position of knowing to a nicety the requirements of home buyers. Our efforts are always concentrated on the idea of producing the latest and the best that can be offered at reasonable prices.

These times, more particularly than any other, require the strictest view of economy. It will be observed that ownership of property is preferable to renting, and conjointly with this is the necessity that the property you buy is not only sound in construction but reasonable in price.

With its developments under Town Planning Principles, Haberfield, with its array of cottage homes (each with its artistic garden and fronting avenue-like streets), presents a pleasing picture, alike to the resident as to the visitor.

Our recent examples will show you the true Haberfield type of residence, and we would very much like you to inspect

OUR £1165 BUNGALOW.

Its position is most convenient, and it has also an elevation sufficient to command views of the surrounding neighbourhood. A wide entrance hall gives access to spacious drawing and dining rooms. The 3 bedrooms are roomy and artistic. The interior These are tiled bathroom, domestic offices, electric furnishings throughout are of the latest style. light, and there is a lounge verandah in front and wide one at rear suitable for sleeping out. The land with this Bungalow is quite sufficient to set it off to advantage.

OUR HABERFIELD TERMS are a decided advantage on the principle of a small deposit and convenient instalments, either weekly or monthly, to suit purchaser. Rarely are better terms obtained than those that we are able to offer in connection with Haberfield.
Your convenience is ours, and appointment to inspect these homes could be arranged at any time. Call on us this afternoon—our office will be open until 6 o'clock—and our Manager, in attendance with motor car, will give you all particulars that you would require.

HOMESEEKERS, RENTPAYERS.
RENTPAYERS. HOMESEEKERS.

Why do you go on paying rent year after year, with nothing to show for it, when you can OWN YOUR HOME with the money you are now paying as rent every week? We will build a Cottage in any suburb of Sydney cheaper than anyone else, and we use only FIRST-CLASS MATERIALS. If you own the land, we will BUILD WITHOUT DEPOSIT, according to the value of your land. Or, if you have a reasonable deposit, we will buy the land in any suburb you choose and build to your own design. The repayments as rent are very easy, being from 5/4 per week. This includes interest and principal, and you have the right to pay off at any time. There are no legal expenses of any kind, and your rent does not commence until your home is completed. It is a duty every married man owes his wife and family to provide them with a home; something to fall back on if anything happens to the wage-earner, more particularly in these times of stress. We have made SPECIAL PROVISIONS for sickness and misfortune, and if you have saved enough to buy the land, you cannot do better than call and see us about the home to go on that land. Furthermore, we have a list of Estates in almost every suburb from which you can select your home site. You can purchase your land on easy terms if you wish, and when paid off we will build your home without further deposit. We have placed many satisfied clients in their OWN HOMES during the past seven years, and there is no reason why you should not get yours on the same easy terms. WE ARE SPECIALISTS IN HOME BUILDING, and employ a competent staff of trained workmen, able to carry out all classes of work, and although others may copy our advertisements, they cannot quote you our prices or offer you our easy terms. We are prepared to erect any kind of building, from a two-roomed W.B. Cottage upwards, and if you are thinking of building, remember it costs you nothing to call and obtain all particulars of prices and terms first from LANDHOLDERS. LANDHOLDERS.

WHY NOT RESOLVE AT ONCE TO CEASE PAYING RENT, AND LET US ERECT YOU a Cottage Home on your vacant land, the payments for which only equal what you have previously paid as rent. The following are our terms, and which we know are the best obtainable in SYDNEY:—NO DEPOSIT, land is sufficient, and we will in some cases pay off balance owing on land. NO LEGAL EXPENSES or CHARGES of any kind. PLANS and SPECIFICATIONS FREE. WEEKLY PAYMENTS at rate of 1/4 for each £25 expended on building, which covers principal and interest, and pays off debt in 10½ years. PAYMENTS SUSPENDED if needed through sickness or loss of work or any other unavoidable reasons. RIGHT TO PAY OFF AT ANY TIME. ALL work performed by our own staff under supervision of qualified architect. We are an established company, and have earned a reputation that we are proud of, and you cannot do better than entrust your business to us. Call at any time and obtain our prices, which we guarantee are the lowest obtainable. PLANS and SPECIFICATIONS can be inspected at our office of homes already erected by us.

NOTICE UNDER REAL PROPERTY ACT.

APPLICATION having been made to bring the land hereunder described under the provisions of the Real Property Act, a Certificate of Indefeasible Title will issue, unless Caveat be lodged in accordance with the Third Schedule to the said Act on or before the 27th July, 1917.—

No. 20,518. APPLICANTS:—Arthur Smith, Mosman; Harold Trotman Howard, Chatswood; and Frances Smith, Lawson. LAND:—Municipality Newtown, 12¼ perches and 11¼ perches, in Fitzroy-street,—lots 13, 14, 28, and 29, J. J. Kettle's subdivision, and part 240 acres granted to William Bligh; adjoining properties of C. Robinson, Lawson Brothers, Limited, A. and F. Smith, H. T. Howard, — Hutchinson, F. J. Smith, and E. Riley. [Lots 28 and 29 of J. J. Kettle's subdivision are the subject of a mortgage dated 13th August, 1872, Registered Book 132, No. 665, from James Bodkin to W. H. Pigott and W. J. Trickett. Such mortgage was transferred to Frederick Smith, whose executors are the present applicants. It is alleged that a title against the James Bodkin in whom the title to the equity of redemption appears by the deeds to be vested has been acquired by long-continued adverse possession. The said lots 28 and 29 were formerly owned by Joseph Bodkin, innkeeper, who died at Nundle on 8th November, 1860, and applicants claim title through the abovementioned mortgage deed executed by James Bodkin, who is stated to have been heir-at-law of the said Joseph Bodkin. Applicants have supported their claim to title of the subject land by evidence of long-continued undisturbed possession.]

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, 1916.

Special attention is invited to the above Act, which comes into operation on the 1st July next, and which considerably enlarges the scope of the law relating to compensation of workmen for injuries suffered in the course of their employment.

The new Act repeals the Employers' Liability Act, 1897, and the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1910, but expressly preserves the civil liability of the employer at common law (i.e., in cases where the worker is injured by the personal negligence of his employer). Under the new law, compensation will be payable to employees (not receiving remuneration in excess of £312 per annum) of all classes and in all occupations, with the exception of outworkers and employees who are both casual and employed otherwise than for the purposes of the employer's trade or business. Domestic servants in regular employment and casual employees for trade or business purposes are therefore covered. But employers will not be liable in respect of accidents occurring to an employee by reason of his serious and wilful misconduct. Coincidently with the Act coming into operation the repeal of the Miners' Accident Relief Acts, 1900 to 1912, takes effect.

The new law throws liabilities on the employer which offer him considerable inducements to make safe his ways, works, and machinery, to employ only efficient and careful superintendents, managers, and foremen, and otherwise to consult the welfare of the rank and file of his employees. A very important feature of the Act is the provision that persons suffering from certain industrial diseases shall, subject to prescribed conditions, be entitled to compensation as if suffering from permanent injury by accident.

The compensation benefits to which injured employees and their dependents are entitled by the scheme of the Act are:—

(1) DURING INCAPACITY: A weekly payment to the person injured, not exceeding half his average weekly rate during the preceding twelve months, but not exceeding £2 a week nor a total of £750.

(2) IF DEATH RESULTS: A lump sum payment.
(a) To persons wholly dependent upon victim of an amount equal to his earnings for the previous three years or £200 (whichever sum is larger), but not exceeding a total of £500.
(b) To persons partly dependent upon victim of an amount reasonable and proportionate to the injury sustained by them, to be determined by arbitration, subject to the same limitations.

Provision is made for safeguarding the rights of employees who work for a sub-contractor; also, in the event of bankruptcy of an employer. Notice of the accident must be given to the employer as soon as practicable. The method provided for the settlement of disputes is by arbitration. The Department of Labour and Industry may be referred to for further information as to the general effect of the new law and as to individual rights and liabilities under it.
G. S. BEEBY,
(3d-51) Minister for Labour and Industry.

Postmaster-General's Department.
ATTENTION is drawn to the notice in the Commonwealth Gazette of the 7th June inviting Tenders, to close on the 19th idem:—Victoria, Packing Boxes, General Stores, Obliterating Ink, and Sealing Wax and Jute Twine.

SENTINEL STEAM TRAPS, AND THEIR USE.

Many large power users, while recognising the necessity for keeping their steam pipes free of water, are still ignorant of the value of an efficient Steam Trap. Though they have taken great care to provide drain connection, separators, etc., these methods cannot be classed as satisfactory. The money saved by a good Steam Trap is considerable.

HIGH PRESSURE, for pressure up to 250lb.
LOW PRESSURE, for pressure up to 75lb.

Both Traps are of the float type, with restricting valve, which is a special feature, ensuring tightness, even with gritty steam. Have renewable valves and seats, and many other advantages all described in our Steam Trap Catalogue. Send for copy.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

A Flight of Canards.—Lord Kitchener.—The Shelving of Lord Fisher.—The Battle off Jutland.—The True Story.

WESTMINSTER, March 31.

The week has been remarkable for a sudden storm of alarming rumour. Its range was as wide as its variety was diverse. Among other reports, coming from no one knew where, spreading with lightning-like celerity, was one describing a German invasion at two points on the East Coast, one in Scotland, the other at Lowestoft. A second alleged the roar of heavy firing off Dover, indicating a naval battle. A third changed the venue to London, where it was circumstantially affirmed workers at a munition factory had broken into riot, necessitating the calling out of a large military force. There was not the slightest foundation for any one of these rumours. Nevertheless, the accumulated effect of their currency created a feeling of wide-spread alarm.

The origin of the scare may be traced to two sources. One was the circulation on magisterial authority of a printed circular giving minute instructions to inhabitants of towns and villages on the coastline as to what they were to do in the event of an invasion. The other was the unfortunate coincidence that on this particular day the War Office, in pursuit of organised method of keeping officers on the alert, by way of practice in period of emergency, had telegraphed to those on temporary leave, ordering them forthwith to rejoin their units. This was the solitary matter-of-fact in the confused murmur of the flight of canards.

Lord Kitchener and Lord Fisher, supreme men of action, had little patience and no liking for what one called "the talking shop at Westminster." Their appearance in the House of Lords was rare, and their stay brief. From time to time Lord Kitchener, in grudging response to request from his Cabinet colleagues, came down and read from a typed sheet of half-foolscap what was announced beforehand as an important statement. In every case it turned out to be a more or less full summary of news which had passed the censor on its way to the newspapers during the preceding week or fortnight. No fresh disclosure relating to the past or forecasting the future lent interest to the performance. As soon as he had read his paper the War Secretary folded it up, thrust it in the breast pocket of his coat, and hurried back to his office, where he was at work late and early and all day long.

Since he went to the House of Lords Admiral Fisher has maintained even fuller measure of silence. Although his name does not figure in set debate, he has achieved unique Parliamentary distinction. Of prepared speeches he has made the two briefest to be found in the limitless columns of "Hansard." They were both on the same lines, animated by the same spirit, and called for any analogous circumstances. The first was delivered at the time of Winston Churchill's retirement from the headship of the navy, the second following close upon debate in the House of Commons on publication of the Dardanelles report. In both cases the First Sea Lord's name was freely dragged into the controversy. On both occasions his speech was a dignified refusal to justify his own conduct. The time when the country was fighting for life and liberty was, he said in effect, not a proper one for indulging in self vindication. He was content, as Mr. Asquith said on his own behalf, to leave his conduct to the judgment of the historian.

That is a safe conclusion of the matter. The creator of a navy that has swept the seas of the enemy fleet, and holds Germany's vaunted battleships safely tucked up in a home port, was "Jack" Fisher. That at a time like the present he, still in the prime of mind and body, should be shelved is a marvel and mystery to foreign nations. Explanation is obvious in home quarters. A man of imperious will, impatient of incapacity, on the lookout for the best men for high command—Jellicoe was one of his discoveries—he made a host of personal enemies, who rejoice in his retirement from the quarter-deck, and, as a recent deplorable ebullition of frenzied spite revealed in the House of Commons, are determined that he shall not tread it again. Lord Fisher's brevity of speech in the House of Lords is, by the way, not due to incapacity to hold the attention of an audience for the average duration of a discourse. Some years ago he varied the flow of formal oratory at a Royal Academy banquet by delivery of a sparkling speech in reply to the toast of the navy, which by common consent won and held the honours of the evening.

The forthcoming (April) number of "Cornhill" contains a vivid account of the naval battle off Jutland. It is contributed by a fleet surgeon who watched the scene from one of the battle cruisers under the general command of Admiral Beatty. It would be worth a squadron if the simple story, which in every sentence carries the stamp of truth, could be translated and circulated throughout Germany, where to this day a deluded people honestly believe that in a fair stand-up fight with a superior force of British ships they came off victorious. The ship on which the fleet surgeon served he describes as "the largest, fastest, most heavily armed, best armoured, best equipped, highest horse-powered, best arranged engine of destruction of her time." Her crew mustered well over a thousand men. For over an hour, practically single-handed, she fought the fleeing German battle-cruisers. A sunlit summer day was becoming overcast with clouds when on the port bow the enemy ships were sighted, heading straight for the little British squadron. Behind them, faintly seen in the distance, which rapidly lessened, was a squadron of the Dreadnoughts of the German High Sea Fleet. Jellicoe, with a detachment of the Grand Fleet was coming down from the north-west to take part in the fight. Meanwhile Beatty, with his comparatively tiny cruisers, unhesitatingly proceeded to hold the German battleships till help arrived.

Feigning fear, and making believe, what was not difficult to understand, that he was bent on showing a clean pair of heels to the overwhelming force in front of him, Beatty flashed a signal to go about. The Germans, falling into the trap, put on top speed, which would presently have led them under the guns of Jellicoe's speeding fleet. That would have been the end of the day, and the end of the High Sea Fleet. Unfortunately, towards 5 o'clock in the afternoon the horizon became misty, and the outlines of the enemy's ships were no longer sharply defined. The Grand Fleet was now in sight. Deployed into line it brought its guns to bear on the enemy, but found for target only an occasional wraith-like hull. At sight of Jellicoe's squadron the Germans were in full flight for home and safety. When morning broke the British fleet for ten hours cruised over the battle area, but no trace of a German ship was visible. "They had," as the fleet-surgeon writes, "gone home to celebrate their victory by getting the wounded into hospital, their dead buried, their sunken ships renamed."

A TRADES UNIONIST'S OPINION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a trades-unionist of many years' standing, it would be very amusing, if it were not so disgusting, to me to read of the great things that the P.L.L. conference proposes to compel unions and unionists to do, and to coerce all and sundry who fail to fall in with the views and obey all the foolhardy orders of this Johnny-come-lately mob. They will realise later on that all true unionists are not to be driven like a lot of sheep to their political slaughter by disloyalty, and they will find that, after all their blast and blither, and anti-conscription roaring, that all true loyal unionists will do the right thing, as they did at the last election in the interests of our country, and our glorious Empire. Let unionists be true to themselves and their country; Australian Britons first and before anything.

I am, etc.,
AN AUSTRALIAN UNIONIST.

KALLARA PICTURES AND MEMORIES.

(BY T. W. HENEY.)

To pass an hour with Mr. Edward Officer's paintings given for Red Cross objects is to renew associations—some agreeable, some melancholy. For, if to a man who has spent some years in the Middle Darling, and has long gone thence, it means a host of pleasant memories, it also brings thought of those others who lived there once and live there no longer. The complement of

The vision splendid
Of the sunlit plains extended,

is

The touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still.

These paintings bring strongly back to the mind of a man who has lived the spacious life of the other side of the Darling in the years when the whole province was in the making many ports and happy havens of the past. How very good they are as evocations of that past! Place yourself before the great empty sunlit picture of the Darling as it was in 1902, the awful year when in the stout hearts of men out there visible chaos had come again upon them and theirs. An endless drought had taken hold of the land. Across a thousand miles of human occupation the accustomed kindliness of nature had failed utterly, and the whole vastness was hurrying back into the state when only the aborigine inhabited there. Men held on from habit, and hardly dared to hope that somehow, somewhen, they would ever pull through. Look up along that huge gulf of sunbaked alluvial to where the redgums are golden in sunlight and dark in shade. Will ever there come again in those empty channels the march of flood-time waters? Look upon the shallow pool, stupid, yet heavy as oil, with strange reflections and colours upon it, where a few sheep drink amongst the skeletons of their kind, and think can the daily rising tide pour upon that empty waste and fill the chasm with the voice of many waters. To gaze into the shadowy scene that is called a bend of the Darling recalls many a walk through the police paddock below Wilcannia, haunt of "Darling Whalers" and scene of many a squalid ending of a life far otherwise begun, before one comes out on Old Moorabin House. Go across and look upon the "Plains of the Darling," bought for a national possession by the trustees of the Art Gallery of New South Wales. There is a different order and effect of imagination. All is on the great scale—distance, height, light, perspective, so that the drover's flock in the middle distance is but an accident that touches hardly at all the immense loneliness of the landscape, that is yet full of colour, poetic, and most admirably true. Look alongside. There is the great picture of the exhibition, "Frosty Morning," full of pale pure colour, and early light and dim outline, and firm mass of ancient trees, beside the full cold surface of the flooded stream. That is an achievement wholly Australian, and worthy of place amongst our acknowledged masterpieces of the painter's art. And so in less degree of a dozen others. Each one does not so much recall as renew the things seen—the red unmade roads that wander as if by chance by claypan and up little hillsides, and beside single wild orange trees and leopard woods, and groups of mulga and emu bush, the amethystine hills, the marching mass of river gums, the grey saltbush, the grey flats, where lignum grows along the winding billabongs, and amidst these ancient inhabitants of the waste the emus and the even more sparse men and horses and stock that pursue their endless tasks in that land of vast distances and unclouded skies.

Of that great pastoral holding, which Mr. Officer's folk have long owned, and which today Mr. H. S. Officer manages, his soul vexed with wild dogs, I have abundant memories. And first of that great western squatter of the past, David Brown, for many years manager of Kallara Station, and a man of great mark in the pastoral world of his time. Most of the station men outback, in my time, were men of wide travel and fine minds. David Brown was one of the foremost. In his own range of observation and experience, he was encyclopedic in knowledge. He seemed as by instinct to gather up whole masses of related facts and theories, and they fell in his trained and ordered mind into systems of wide theoretic range and severe practical utility. He was never rash in adventures, but he pioneered the artesian movement in the Middle West. Though geologists declared no artesian or sub-artesian water could ever be looked for south of Bourke, he sank his wells on Kallara and got the water. And when he was sometimes asked why he sought for subterranean supplies when the Darling flowed miles long by his boundaries, he declared the Darling was a bugbear. It drowned his sheep when in flood; it bogged them when it was low. He had to keep extra labour on his frontage all the year. When he had wool to send away and supplies to get in, there was no river at all. He would have been far better without that unaccountable stream, for which a paternal Government surcharged him. He had a great garden at Kallara homestead, where he grew date palms. On rabbits he was profound—but that is a subject which unlocks whole volumes, each even as the prophet's scroll that was written within and without with mourning, lamentation and woe. He had views on all earthly things of the West—the locking and regimen of the ancient waterways and the employment of new courses, the use of water for irrigation, the reduction of evaporation in his tanks and dams, the conservation of natural and introduced forage, the profitable use of rabbits, the improved building of houses for the climate, the making of roads without metal, the growth of gardens, and plantations of shade and timber trees—all these things concerned him, and he read and talked and thought and wrote of them incessantly. To listen to him for a sunny afternoon in his station or in a buggy or on a river steamer on his constant journeys was to gather up in one survey all things knowable about the problems of the West, and in spite of droughts and pests and Governments David Brown was great enough of soul, be it said in all reverence, like the Creator, when he looked upon the work of his hands, behold He saw that it was very good. In due season he laid down his tasks and retired to Melbourne, and there he died—I doubt not fretted to the last, as an old squatter often is, by empty days and long, long thoughts of the hard land he had served with a Scot's far purposefulness—not to wring the uttermost farthing out of men and sheep and acres, but to give each his due so that the long, slow usufruct of work, well and faithfully done, should be to those who might follow and inherit his labours. A wise, tireless, patient man, David Brown, of Kallara, one of the Makers of Outback Australia.

Another of the men trained on Kallara I came to know very well indeed—Thomas William Barnes, better known to the irreverent generation of the West as "Cocky" Barnes, one-time manager of Goorimpa, which to the end he pronounced as it is spelled, though all men beside spoke it Goorimpy. A short, spare, erect, soldierly man, North of Ireland in race and speech and temper—"lofty and sour to them that loved him not, but to such men as sought him sweet as summer." They said he had seen service in the Austrian Army, which we willingly believed, for he walked always as if on parade and moved stiffly, all of a piece. A fine horseman and driver of horses, and a capable manager of Western men. He had come into Wilcannia as Inspector of Watering Places. He was a tireless traveller of the Outer West, welcome in half a hundred stations, good company everywhere, a lady's man and a gentleman, and the leading Freemason beyond the Darling. He was a great official, and as Silverton declined and Broken Hill rose his area widened. But the pastoral industry of the West was his first and chiefest love, and the last service he rendered to the country before an attack of pneumonia ended his indefatigable days was to organise the Crown Tenants' Association of the West. He and I worked long together. I remember spending a night with him at his place outside Wilcannia, when we went together over the draft of the first manifesto of the Crown Tenants' Association, and I still retain admiration of his grasp of the whole extent of the pastoral case, and his swift, lucid survey of a national issue, so worded that he who ran might read, and if he read would surely understand. It was in the late 'Nineties that things out west came to a crisis. I had long been perturbed by the signs and portents of ruin in that whole province of the State. My letters, particularly from Barnes, the series of telegraphed reports from district centres of crushing losses, the ampler reports from local papers, the anxiety of the pastoral companies and the banks interested in the West, all filled me with concern. I went to Mr. Curnow, the editor of the "Sydney Morning Herald." I showed him my letters, laid before him a rough summary of the telegrams from the west for three months, and a more extended precis of district reports and directors' meetings and pastoral intelligence. He was so impressed that he commissioned me to write for the "Herald" a series of articles on the threatened ruin of the pastoral industry of the west. It would ill-become me to claim for these articles, though supported by the great authority of the "Herald," always the chief pastoral paper in Australia, more than they sought to achieve. Their purpose was to direct the minds of men in Parliament in Sydney to the then conditions of the West; to sum up the causes, droughts, pests, falling prices of wool and stock, diminishing confidence in the pastoral industry, labour troubles, and withdrawal of capital, which threatened the only possible industry out back with collapse; to suggest remedies, and to set out the hard case of a whole class of investors and squatters.

IN THE GARDEN.

BEAUTIFUL CLIMBING PLANTS.

Anyone who desires to cover with evergreen vegetation an unsightly wooden fence or a bare brick or stone wall which is out of harmony enclosing a beautiful and well-kept garden can do so most effectively by planting suitable climbing and twining plants. In sunny and sheltered positions preference should be given to these plants that produce a fine floral effect when well established; but in dense, shady situations the common and variegated ivies and similar vegetation give the best results. Where a considerable length of fencing or wall space is available a variety of climbers can be planted, and, if judiciously arranged as regards the colours of their flowers, a charming and beautiful floral effect will be produced at the flowering period. For training over trellis work many climbers can be used most effectively. In the warmer and more favoured districts climbing plants may be set out any time from now till August, but in the colder parts, where only the hardy ones will thrive, it is not advisable to plant them in the open till spring. Most climbers thrive in well-drained, fertile soil, which should be deeply worked. Some easily cultivated and desirable perennial climbing and twining plants are briefly referred to below, and should be a useful guide to those who are contemplating planting this season. Antigonon leptopus, the mountain rose of Mexico, is of slender growth, producing in profusion lovely deep pink flowers intermixed with beautifully coloured bracts (modified leaves). Bignonias, of which there are several kinds, are rapid-growing plants, having large flowers of various colours, the prevailing ones being pink, lavender, orange, purple, red, and golden yellow. Bougainvilleas, when trained to walls having a north-easterly aspect and fully exposed to the sun, produce a magnificent effect in bloom. The large bracts which surround the flowers are rich and varied in colour. Canavalia bonariensis, the necklace bean vine, has shining green leaves and pea-shaped, bright purple flowers. Dolichos lignosus is a slender, elegant plant, producing a profusion of rose and lilac flowers, and one variety has white ones. Ipomoea-learii is the most beautiful of the so-called "morning glories." It is a rapid-growing plant, freely producing its large bright blue flowers. Loniceras, popularly called honeysuckle, of which there are many kinds, are very hardy, some producing highly fragrant flowers of various colours. Passifloras, passion vines, have singularly beautiful flowers—crimson, pink, purple, scarlet, white, violet, and yellow, being the prevailing colours. The allied Tacsonias also have very showy and attractive flowers. Stigmaphyllon ciliatum, the golden vine, has ornamental foliage, and very pretty yellow flowers, which are produced in profusion. Tecomas, including the native ones, have trumpet shaped, very showy flowers of various colours. Thunbergias are vigorous-growing plants, requiring plenty of room to display their variously-coloured flowers to advantage.

CONCERNING LILIES.

Lilies have often been described as the queen of bulbous plants, and they certainly deserve that title. They have a stately habit, large and varied, often richly coloured flowers, which are freely produced, and place them in the front rank of bulbous plants for garden decoration. Most of them can be successfully cultivated in the open, but a few, as, for example, the golden-rayed lily of Japan, Lilium auratum, do best when grown in large pots or tubs in the bushhouse. Lilies are more easily cultivated than is generally supposed, but to attain perfection they should be grown in a partially shaded situation, and their surface roots protected from direct sunlight. They thrive in well-drained, deep, friable, fertile soils, the more vigorous ones doing better on rather strong than light loams. It is the seasonable time of the year to plant the bulbs of the different kinds of lilies in the warmer districts, but August will be soon enough to set them in the open in the colder parts. If grown in groups, and they produce the best effect in bloom when cultivated in that way, the larger bulbs should be planted quite one foot apart, and covered with six inches of soil, and the smaller ones nine inches apart, and four inches deep. A few very fine and easily cultivated lilies are referred to below. The early spring flowering ones are Lilium candidum, Madonna lily (sometimes called St. Joseph's lily), white and fragrant; and L. thunbergianum, scarlet, of which there are many beautiful varieties. Those that flower in early summer are L. croceum, orange lily, yellow tinged with scarlet; L. longiflorum, and its variety harrisi, locally called November lily, pure white and fragrant. The summer flowering ones are L. auratum, ivory white, freely spotted with crimson, and with a bright golden band through the centre of each petal. There are several varieties of this remarkable fine lily differing principally in the markings of their flowers; L. pardalinum, leopard lily, bright orange-red, with dark purple spots; and L. tigrinum, tiger lily, orange-red, freely spotted with black. There is a very fine double-flowering variety of this species. The best autumn-flowering lily is L. speciosum, white spotted with red. There are a few beautiful flowering varieties of this species with pure white, rose coloured, and spotted blooms.

NOTES.

Conspicuous amongst several varieties of bouvardia that are now flowering are Salmon Queen, with salmon coloured blooms, and Vreelandii, with pure white ones. These two bouvardias are comparatively hardy, have a robust habit, and produce flowers all the year round in favourable situations.

Vigorous young seedling cinerarias that were planted in sheltered positions in March last are already beginning to flower, and if they receive an occasional watering of weak liquid manure at the roots not only will it benefit the plants, but will enable them to develop fine flowers over a long period. When applying the liquid fertiliser care must be taken that the foliage is not wetted. Violets that are beginning to flower will be greatly benefited by similar attention in the way of watering, more especially if the soil in which they are growing is lacking in fertility.

Many of the seedlings of hardy annuals and perennials raised from seeds sown in beds and boxes in March last are now sufficiently advanced for transplanting to the beds and borders. With a little care and attention such plants will produce flowers freely in late winter and early spring, and help to make the garden gay at that season.

The tall-growing, spring-flowering sweet peas resulting from seeds sown early in the season now need supports for their climbing stems. More seeds may now be sown to provide plants for succession. In favourable situations the winter-flowering sweet peas are beginning to freely produce their beautiful blooms. In order to prolong their flowering period remove all the seed pods as soon as they form. Sparrows are reported to be eating the leaves of the sweet pea in some gardens, and it will be advisable to use a remedy to protect the plants from further molestation. A weak solution made from quassia chips and gently syringed over the plants will leave a bitterness on the foliage that will protect them from further injury by birds.

Delicate flowering plants, such as certain kinds of begonia, and those with brightly coloured foliage, as, for example, alternantheras, that have been growing in the open during the warmer months, and are likely to suffer from cold or frosty nights, usually experienced at the end of this month and next, should be protected or carefully lifted and placed in a glass frame until the return of more congenial weather, when they may be replanted in the open.

FRUIT GARDEN.

Ground that was thoroughly prepared in the autumn is now in excellent condition for planting deciduous fruit trees, and although the planting season extends through the winter till early in August the sooner well-rooted, vigorous young trees are planted the better. On rich land such fruit trees as apples, apricots, peaches, pears, and plums may be set out 30ft apart, but on inferior soils 20ft apart will be ample.

All young trees should be in a healthy condition, and in the case of apples grafted upon blight-proof stocks. Each young tree should be carefully examined before being planted, and all the severely injured roots removed, and the bruised extremities of others cut off with a sharp knife. Place the roots in the earth in as natural a position as possible, and distribute the soil evenly amongst them, finally leaving it firm about each tree. The young trees should be firmly tied to neat stakes to keep them upright. If the primary branches are not formed, each young tree should be cut back to the height fixed upon for the future trunk, which may be anything from 18 to 24 inches. In the cooler districts, where bush fruits, such as black, red, and white currants, gooseberries, raspberries, etc., are grown, they may also be planted any time from now till the end of August, provided the ground is in a good condition to receive them. Where a number of have to be planted it will be advisable to set them in rows, from 5 to 7 feet apart, and the same distance apart in the rows, according to the fertility of the land. Planting in this way will facilitate the necessary cultivation and gathering the crop. Great care must be taken not to plant the trees and bush fruits too deeply in the ground, otherwise unsatisfactory growth will be the result.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

There was a fair amount of activity in the real estate market this week. In fact, in some quarters business was brisk, and at the present time there are several big sales of city property in the balance. This is considered good, for, generally speaking, the winter months comprise the slack period of the year. The present month is also the last of the financial year, and property owners, investors, and others were engaged this week in paying their quota both to the Federal and State income tax. These matters all influence the property market.

The indoor auctions were held this week with a fair amount of success. There was a large attendance at each centre, and the bidding as a whole indicated that there was business to be done if the price was made suitable.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had an attractive list of 15 properties to submit at their sale on Thursday, and Mr. Rabett managed to dispose of two properties outright and four he sold subject to approval. Sales will probably be completed in nearly all of these cases. A block of land at North Sydney he disposed of for £1060, and 100 feet frontage to Forest-road, Bexley, he sold at £3 5s per foot. Subject to approval he disposed of 40 feet frontage at Randwick at £2 per foot; a cottage at Chatswood at £150, and cottages at Rozelle, one at £145, and the other at £120. For two houses at Redfern £2200 was refused. A property at Double Bay was passed in at £1350. An offer of £1550 was rejected for a residence at Chatswood. There was an offer of £550 for the lease, license, goodwill, furniture, etc., of the Post-office Hotel, at Mudgee, but it was declined. There was good bidding for building land at Bellevue Hill. The offers ranged from £6/10/ to £10 per foot, and from £350 to £610 for blocks. One or two of these will likely be sold. By private treaty the firm disposed of two allotments in the Station Estate, Normanhurst, at 35/ and 40/ per foot, and three blocks at Tuggerah from £25 to £45 per lot.

The sale by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench yesterday was well attended. The list was a small one of eight properties, but there was bidding for seven of the items on the list. Mr. Little disposed of a cottage at Waverley for £700, and he had a bid of £850 for portion of a property at Epping, which he offered to take £900 for. A sale may be effected in this case. There was good competition for a cottage at Annandale, but it was passed in at £520. Four cottages at Pyrmont were also passed in at £1650. During the week the firm sold a residence, Boyle-street, Mosman, for £1130; a house, Bourke-street, Woolloomooloo, £565; a cottage, Lower Campbell-street, city, £290; two blocks, Parramatta-road, South Annandale Estate, at £14 per foot (£560); a lot, Allen Estate, Wentworth Falls, £60; and an allotment at Ryde at 20s per foot.

Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves had a fairly busy week. They sold the cottage, Lorraine, Kissing Point-road, Turramurra, for £975; also a 4½-acre block at Turramurra at £80 per acre; several farm blocks near Sutherland and the Woniora River at from £3 10s to £8 per acre; and an allotment, Jamieson Estate, Belmore, at 45s per foot.

Arthur Rickard and Co., Limited, report keen inquiries for home-sites, and good sales resulted through the week. The district mostly in favour was Concord, where a number of lots were secured on the Connor Estate. This is due, no doubt, to the fact that this district will be the location of large industries in the near future. Some fine lots were also disposed of at Five Dock, Auburn, Kogarah, and Bellevue Hill. A good business was done in farmlets at Toongabbie, Ingleburn, and Bankstown.

Messrs. Stanton and Son, Ltd., report having sold the following properties during the week:—100ft of land, Parramatta-road and Orpington-street, Ashfield, £600; brick cottage, Selbourne-street, Burwood, £860; brick cottage, Tressider-avenue, Haberfield Garden Suburb, £910; vacant land at Rosebery Model Suburb, 440ft to Rothschild and Mentmore avenues, £1540; brick cottage, Cheltenham-road, Burwood, £1225; brick cottage, Wattle-street, Punchbowl, £595; and three blocks of the Goodland Estate, Thornleigh, for £.....

At the Real Estate Association Auction Rooms on Thursday Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co., Ltd., had a very successful sale. It was a good gathering, and Mr. Horning disposed of two houses in Darlington for £350; a pair of cottages at Belmore, £900; a small cottage property, Campsie, £335; whilst close offers for three of the other properties offered are now under consideration.

The firm also sold by private contract cottage property at Kiliara for £2300; a residence at Abbotsford, £850; sundry lots in the George's Hall Estate, Bankstown, £549; small cottage at Kurnell, £235; three allotments at Chatswood, £174; and an allotment at Abbotsford for £112.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have an interesting list of properties to submit at their auction next Wednesday, the pleasure grounds at Mortlake, comprising 8½ acres, will be offered in one line. Another block of 22½ acres at Botany will be submitted. There are also 15 houses at Newtown, residences at Mosman and Double Bay, and choice building sites at Coogee to come under the hammer at the same sale.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. this week sold a cottage, Boundary-street, Chatswood, £1050, and two allotments, Paradise Estate, Roseville, £375. The firm will conduct a sale next Thursday in their rooms. The list includes four cottages at North Sydney, cottages at Petersham, and land at Manly, with an ocean frontage.

The special sale of city and other properties in the estate of the late Mrs. Walter Hall will take place on Monday week, in the rooms of Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, who are acting in conjunction with Messrs. Raine and Horne and Hardie and Gorman. The properties, which are fully advertised, and are beautifully described and illustrated in a specially arranged booklet, now in the hands of the auctioneers, embrace several of Sydney's leading buildings, and also one or two attractive homes at Potts Point, as well as business premises in the heart of the busy centre of the Glebe. There has already been a good deal of inquiry respecting these properties, and the sale is likely to be an interesting one.

Subdivision work is drawing to a close as far as 1916-17 is concerned. There are but few sales remaining on the list, but those which are being held are in most cases proving very successful. As an instance, the sale conducted by Messrs. Raine and Horne last Saturday, in conjunction with Messrs. Phillips, Wheeler, and Co., of the Cremorne Heights Estate, proved to be a highly successful one. Nineteen allotments out of a total of 23 were disposed of at prices ranging from £7/10/ to £11 per foot. The aggregate sales were £5859/12/9. The balance of four allotments can be treated for.

There are one or two subdivision sales fixed for this afternoon. One is at Manly, where Messrs. Backhouse and Goyder will offer four choice lots at the corner of Osborne-road and Marshall-street. This land is but six minutes from the wharf, and it commands very fine harbour views. Each allotment has 40ft frontage. It is situated on the heights towards the Cardinal's Palace. It is an opportunity to secure one of the few remaining lots in Manly.

Another sale this afternoon will be held at Bulli, where Mr. H. F. Cotterell will submit properties at Thirroul, Corrimal, and Woonona.

A sale of Crown land is to be held at La Perouse. There are 21 portions to be submitted by Mr. H. Dudley, on behalf of the Minister for Lands, on Monday, June 25 (public holiday). The frontages range from 30ft to 54ft, and the upset price is from 25/ to £7 per foot. On one allotment there are improvements valued at £575. The upset price of that allotment is £19/7/6 per foot.

Next Saturday Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will submit a subdivision at Lindfield. These are ideal cottage sites fronting good roads, and they are right opposite Lindfield Park. On the following Saturday, June 23, the same firm will offer a subdivision at Arncliffe in the estate of the late F. J. Gibbins.

A sale next Saturday, which should prove attractive, will be conducted at Lewisham. The land is known as Mobbs' Estate, but it is really portion of Bryson's paddock. It forms good building land, and ought to sell well.

On June 23 Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves will offer Russell's subdivision at Campbelltown, where 15 residential and business sites will come under the hammer. The land adjoins the railway station.

SALES OF THE WEEK.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Limited, report the following sales for week ending June 8, 1917:—Auburn, Heart of Auburn Estate, 26, sec. 1, £122; Bondi, Bondi Beach View Estate, 48, sec. 2, £[illegible]; 22, sec. 4, £210. Bellevue Hill, Kambala Heights Estate, 17, sec. 1, £195; Bankstown, Greenacre Park Estate, 72, sec. A, £67/13/; Sydney Park Estate, 151 and 51, F, £48; 26/27, F, £35. Concord, Terrabara Estate, 58, £106/15/; Connor Estate, 180, £[illegible]; [illegible], £32; 160/161, £175; 191, £85/12/9. Five Dock, Fairlight Estate, 17, sec. 6, £112. Hornsby, Asquith Estate, 2, £104/0/6. Kogarah, Carroll's No. 4 Estate, 10, £84. Mosman, Sirius Beach No. 1 Estate, 2, £124/8/9. Narrabeen, Superb View Estate, 81, sec. 2, £20. Pittwater, Floods Peninsula Estate, 20, £67/10/. Ingleburn, Raby Estate, 87, £63/11/6. Toongabbie Park Estate, 677, £239/16/; 417, £[illegible]. Woy Woy, Merritt's Wharf Estate, 11, £16.

Defy the winter weather by keeping Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery on hand, ready to pounce on the first cold that makes its appearance.—Advt.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE PERILS OF PEACE.

"The Mark of the Beast, by Sir Theodore Cook, is a warning against the dangers of a premature peace, or rather of a peace that does not give effective guarantees against the recrudescence of war. The terms hinted at by Bethmann-Hollweg in 1916 showed a profound misunderstanding of the temper of the Allies—"he had as little idea, in 1916," the author observes, "of what we mean by 'Peace' as he had of the results, to him and all of us, of the war he deliberately roused in 1914"—but the mere fact that any proposal, however insincere and preposterous, came from the enemy's camp was apt to stimulate the activity of well-intentioned but misguided doctrinaires. Among all the Allies there are two classes of "thinkers," whose co-operation, unconscious, one hopes, has been sedulously cultivated by Germany. The first contains those who never understood why we had to fight in 1914, or why we are fighting now. These, says Sir Theodore Cook, may be neglected, for "if they are not ashamed of themselves, they ought to be, and they will never influence any important section of their fellow-countrymen, either in war or peace again." The second contains those who wonder why we go on fighting after Germany has professed her willingness to treat for peace.

This element has claims on our respect; we may at least admire their qualities of heart if not of head. Their attitude proceeds from a certain lofty idealism which is excellent in its time and place. But their sincerity makes them the more dangerous. Their virtues do not include the faculty of learning from the past or safeguarding the future by the exercise of common prudence. "These cannot too early learn that German promises in 1916 (or 1917) will have even less value than she attached to her signed word in 1914." These folk would not carry their idealism to the ordinary affairs of life concerning their person or their business. They would not take out an insurance policy covered only by a verbal agreement; they would demand guarantees for performance in any contract that vitally affected their welfare. Yet when it comes to international relations they are willing to take the pious affirmations of a recidivist thrice stained with every extremity of perjury, murder, and atrocious violence in all its forms. It is all very well to say "let bygones be bygones"; common sense demands that we should take precautions to ensure them being bygones in fact as well as in name.

To these Sir Theodore Cook's book is chiefly addressed. His purpose is to remind them of Germany's delinquencies since 1914, and to tell them how it is possible to overlook these in any settlement. This war has been a bitter one, defaced by atrocities which make it impossible for the victor and the vanquished to shake hands in the sportsmanlike fashion of many other wars and go their ways without rancour. So many promises, expressed as in the treaty with Belgium, or implied as in the adherence to international law, have been broken by the Germans that pledges have lost their value; they must be reinforced by the removal of the power to break them again. The author's catalogue is in some ways a twice told tale, but needs no apology, for when the time for peace comes peace cannot be arranged on the assumption that these sins have been purged. Although he is emphatic, he is not unjust. For instance, in discussing the execution of Nurse Cavell he freely admits that she was guilty of a military offence which could be punished. But such punishment! He compares her case with that of female spies caught in Britain, who were sentenced to a term of imprisonment, and with that of Ahlers, a man in official position, who had avowedly done exactly what Nurse Cavell had done, and was acquitted on a technical point of law. Sir Theodore Cook is prepared to distinguish between the criminality of the authorities and of the people as a whole. In the former case he would recommend personal retribution where responsibility can be proved. But he holds that the people cannot escape liability for the sins of their rulers and leaders. In this connection he aptly quotes M. Maeterlinck's words:—"Nations have the government that they deserve; or, rather, the government which they have is no more than the magnified and public projection of the private morality and mentality of the nation. If 80 million innocent people select and support a monstrous king, those 80 million people merely expose the falseness and superficiality of their innocence. If our enemies prove that they were deceived and corrupted by their masters, they prove at the same time that they are less intelligent, less firmly attached to justice, honour, and humanity, less civilised, in a word, than those whom they have claimed to enslave in the name of a superiority which they have proved themselves not to exist." If the fortune of war brings a day when the Allies are in a position to "dictate" terms, Britain, at least, is in honour bound to raise her voice for terms which include substantial reparation. She need not make claims for herself, but she is a trustee for others. Is Germany to be allowed to "cut her losses" and say no more about it? There are wrongs done to belligerents which cry aloud for expiation. There are wrongs done to neutrals which must be redressed. Norway, for instance, has lost a third of her shipping, destroyed by German mines and submarines. Is she to have no indemnity?

There is one matter in which the reader will join very emphatic issue with Sir Theodore Cook. He makes the customary jibe at German diplomacy, which, he says, "has become the laughing stock of the world where it has not degenerated into the eternal shame of its own leaders." This, of course, is the usual view; but surely in the light of what has happened, it is incorrect. German diplomacy has made some big mistakes, but in many of its calculations it has been singularly acute. Its anticipations have not all been falsified. Take three of them which are said to have largely influenced her decision that 1914 was the best time to throw down the gauntlet. France was decadent; this proved to be a grievous error. Russia's internal dissensions would cripple her belligerent activities; Germany knew more than we did, and though her expectations have not been fulfilled entirely, they cannot be said to have been altogether vain. Parts of the British Empire would not support Britain in the war; here again disillusionment was not unqualified by a measure of satisfaction. The rebellion in South Africa, engineered by Germany, postponed operations against the two biggest German colonies in the continent. The acuteness of the Irish question not only prevented the enlistment of much splendid fighting material, but also immobilised a considerable number of troops on garrison duty. We cannot afford to laugh at German anticipations when we remember how, in the easy confidence of 1914, we prophesied that the people of Germany (who, forsooth "did not want the war") would bring about a revolution. Apart from diplomatic anticipation there is substantive diplomatic achievement, and here, too, Germany seems to have been well-served by her chancelleries. She failed in Italy, but inveigled Turkey, when every consideration of gratitude and common sense should have maintained Turkish neutrality. She made Bulgaria blind to her traditional association with Russia. She "played" Roumania until Roumanian intervention could be turned definitely to the advantage of the Central Powers. She kept Greece neutral. By the cleverest stroke of all, she postponed a definite break with America until such time as she thought that her submarine campaign would end the war before America could effectually throw her weight into the scale. When we remember all this, and remember some of our own failures, can we afford to jeer at German diplomacy? (John Murray; G. Robertson.)

HOW HISTORY IS MADE.

"The manufacture of Historical Material," by Mr. J. C. Jeudwine, is not, as its title might suggest, an analysis of the methods of the German Foreign Office, but a dissertation on the dangers that beset the most [illegible] historian when he deals with [illegible]. With the invention of printing [illegible] easier, but before that the [illegible] relied for his information are so vitiated that hardly anything can be accepted without reserve. There are important periods of which no original contemporary record exists. We have no originals of any of the great creative works of ancient times, of the book of Genesis, of Homer, of Aristotle. The M.S.S. of the Saxon chronicle that we possess are copies of an original that has perished. Wherever one turns, there is the same difficulty. Records may have been deliberately falsified; they may have been unconsciously coloured by the prejudices of the compiler. In either case, the result is the same, and Mr. Jeudwine believes that in practically all history that relates to ancient and medieval times we should be sceptical of the details and the characterisation.

Take, for instance, the early history of Ireland, or England, the material for which is largely supplied by chronicles written by monks. From the nature of the case, these are likely to give quite a misleading impression of the society of the day. The monk, in the seclusion of his monastery, would be inclined both to emphasise things that concerned his own order, though they might not bulk very large in the affairs of the day, and also to look out for sensational events, scenes of violence, acts of Kings, unusual occurrences which would relieve the monotony of his circumscribed life. If he did not find them, he was not above inventing them. Then it should be remembered that the old chronicler had, as a rule, no actual knowledge of what he recorded. Often he was merely the one who put down oral tradition in writing for the first time, or received a thrice-told tale from the lips of the traveller. Apart from that he had "what is called news: the current rumour which is circulated from hour to hour only to be contradicted." One has only to imagine the value of a history of these days, which depended solely on the reports spread by the man in the street to appreciate the value of such material. And as a further disability, the historian of old was as often as not a lawyer or a poet, sometimes both. No more dangerous combination could be conceivable; the poet with his fine frenzy, the lawyer with his sophistication and skill as a special pleader, are not, perhaps, the persons from whom impartial testimony should be sought. When the functions of both are combined in the one person, as was the case in many early cultures, their records must be taken with qualification. When, as often happened, the poet-lawyer was also the priest, with caste privileges which he was concerned to defend in Christendom, or heathendom, as the case might be, the difficulty of dissociating fact from prejudice is trebled. Partisanship, says Mr. Jeudwine, is not only inevitable, but desirable where it is avowed. "History which is not partial is impossible. If a historian, ancient or modern, makes protest of impartiality, you will be wise to distrust his conclusions and statements of fact. But where two accounts of the same matters are written by two men who do not disguise their opinions, such as Froude or Freeman, you may regard both as able advocates stating their case, and may pass judgment upon them without the bias of either." The author illustrates this from early English and Irish history. Take, for instance, the figure of John, whose reign saw the grant of the Magna Charta. This was a tremendous constitutional advance, but Mr. Jeudwine complains that in almost every history the assumption is that the charter was designed to curb some innate iniquity in John. As we interpret the incident nowadays, John was made the buffer between the feudal lords on the one side and the increasingly powerful bourgeois on the other. But John has been given a bad name, and it has clung. In school books he is still held up as a malevolent monarch, who died a victim to his own sensual indulgence. In point of fact the evidence goes to show that he died not of "gluttony and debauch," but either of indigestion or poison, the fate, says Mr. Jeudwine, of most medieval kings.

The book is very interesting, and the author can turn a telling phrase to point his moral, and an epigram to adorn his tale. But is not his moral the common property of the more critical school of historians? Kings, thrones, principalities, and powers weigh little in the story of the world, and little importance is paid to contemporary gossip about them. King John may have been a good man or he may have been a bad man, but no one really cares, just as no one really cares about the precise date at which Troy fell. History is nowadays not a matter of personalities, but of tendencies. We are wise, as Mr. Jeudwine suggests, to distrust details and characterisation, especially in respect of motives. But it is probable that we can trust the available authorities for the broader outline and for current "public opinion," as it appealed to an important section at least. If, Mr. Jeudwine's argument is pursued to its logical conclusion we should be reluctant to admit the validity of any English history as we know it almost until the time of the Plantagenets. But history was being made, and the people who made it were not the people who were in a position to manufacture or falsify historical material. Their records are written not in books, but in the soil, and the better class of historian recognises this. He eschews dates and the vices of monarchs. He describes epochs and the movement of the people themselves. Rudyard Kipling, in "Puck of Pook's Hill" and "Rewards and Fairies," has written better school histories than all the Scholiasts. (Williams and Norgate.)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY.

M. Jaques Roujon was a journalist on the editorial staff of an important Parisian newspaper when war broke out, and he relinquished the pen for the sword—or, at any rate, for the rifle and "Rosalie," the steel lady of Bayonne. He fought up and down the shifting Western front until it immobilised itself in a line of trenches. Though unaware of it at the time, he took part in many of the great battles fought in the first six months of the war; was finally invalided, and employed his convalescence in writing "Battles and Bivouacs." This is an interesting book, less for any light that it throws on the operations of the period than for its record of the experiences of an ordinary private equipped both by education and calling to give a picturesque account of things.

At the outset M. Roujon bears unconscious witness to the democracy of the French army, a democracy which other armies only achieved by the process of war. When he was mobilised he found, to his gratification, that his company included a number of his old friends, professional men like himself, or comrades from his period of training. Their lieutenant was revealed as another old colleague, and so there was an excellent understanding from the first. Discipline is not incompatible with good-fellowship. The difference in rank was a matter of course, a necessary feature of military organisation, and everyone took it as a matter of course. The lieutenant knew that he could count on the heartiest co-operation from his friends; they, on their part, saw nothing out of the way in keeping for him a share of any tit-bits they obtained while foraging, and expected, in return, only to be supplied with any tit-bits of information that might come to him. These were not many, for outside the high command the soldier knows as much, or as little, about what is happening as the civilian. They marched and counter-marched, and fought, without any idea whether things were going well or ill outside their particular mile or so of front. They were not able to distinguish advance from retreat, and the rumours on which they fed invariably proved utterly unreliable. So, at last, they contented themselves simply with doing their job. At Paris "we learn that the Government has left for Bordeaux—this is rather astonishing news" . . . but, after all, if politicians have a tendency to scuttle it makes no difference to the soldier. "They say," remarks a recent recruit, "that the Germans scamper off as soon as they see the French." "That's what they say at the depot, is it?" says the man who fought at Mulhouse. "Well, since you are about to leave for the front, you will see for yourselves." In the darkest hour the reported successes of the Russians in the East cheered them profoundly, and by the time they learned that the "steam roller" was not after all irresistible the danger was past. There are some vivid impressions of what it feels like to be under fire, of advances across the open where the men "have to pass in and out of the projectiles like ants making their way between drops of water trickling from the rose of a watering pot," of the hundred and one incidents and chances of a soldier's life. In fact, though this book has nothing strikingly new to tell, it is well worth reading for its description of the works and days of the French Tommy, and of the splendid spirit that animates him. (George Allen and Unwin.)

"LIVELIHOOD."

Mr. Wilfred W. Gibson has developed since he left Australia. From a promising versifier he has become a poet of individuality and distinction. "Livelihood," his latest volume, contains some fine work. As the name suggests, most of the poems deal with the eternal problem of existence bequeathed by Adam to mankind. Mr. Gibson does not take the narrow view that the so-called lower classes are the peculiar victims of the arrangement that man must toil to eat. All alike are bound to the wheel, the doctor who goes on his weary rounds, the merchant who has to face the music when his brother absconds, the artist who must forego his ambitions to earn his bread. But his sympathy goes out in particular to the unconsidered units of society, the workers who toil inconspicuously on ill-paid and dangerous jobs. Yet even the lives of these are not without compensations, love, parentage, memories of joys that can never become stale. "The Platelayer" expresses this side of the author's philosophy, just as "The Drove-Road" and "The Blast Furnace" express the other. Many of these poems are intensely dramatic. They do not lend themselves to quotation, because their effect is cumulative, and does not depend on individual passages. "The Shaft" is a case in point. A collier-lad breaks his lamp; he is not put about; it is a nuisance which may make him late for supper, but is no cause for alarm; he knows every inch of the mine. Then, as time wears on, and he has not found his way out, come misgivings which he stifles; the very fact that he has to reassure himself by argument shows that all is not well. By and by he has to admit that things are serious, and so we see the transition to blind panic. It is a remarkable study in psychology.

The war has inspired some of these poems, and has affected Mr. Gibson in somewhat the same way as is expressed by Mr. John Masefield's "August, 1914." He sees the people impelled to sacrifice by "some great thought but dimly understood." Their patriotism is none the less deep, because it is inarticulate. In "The News" the young husband feels that he must go; he cannot bring himself to tell his wife, and so for the time, the news remains untold; but his determination is inexorable. In "Strawberries" another wife toils at the fruit-picking throughout a blazing day (for in war there is still the problem of "livelihood"), and tries to picture the sufferings of her man at the front.

Why should she have any ease while he—
While he. . . . But there, she mustn't think of him.

Perhaps the most powerful of these war-poems is "Between the Lines." A wounded soldier, an ex-draper's assistant, lies in No Man's Land, waiting for a chance to crawl back. He has nothing to do but endure and think. His thoughts run riot; chiefly he thinks of the strangeness of everything, of his mate blown to pieces as he was bringing some butter to his comrades in the trench, of the hard life which has become a familiar routine; above all, of the difference in himself and of the fate which makes him grovel among Belgian turnips with death humming in the air all around him. Again and again he returns to it:—

" . . . . This was different certainly."
From selling knots of tape and reels of thread
And knots of tape and reels of thread and knots
Of tape and reels of thread and knots of tape
Day in, day out, and answering "Have you got's?"
And "Do you keep's?" till there seemed no escape
From everlasting serving in a shop,
Inquiring what each customer required,
Politely talking weather fit to drop,
With swollen ankles tired. . . . But he was tired
Now. Every bone was aching and had ached
For fourteen days and nights in that wet trench—
Just duller when he slept than when he waked—
Crouching for shelter from the steady drench
Of shell and shrapnel . . . .

Tom Dodds, ex-draper's assistant, for perhaps the first time in his life, really thinks there as he lies wounded between the lines. Merciful evening cuts short his speculations:—

" . . . . And as the darkness fell
He rose and crawled away into the night."

NEW NOVELS.

"Captain Gardiner, of the International Police," by Mr. Robert Allen, is dated 60 years in the future, when the world has again grown careless, from prosperous ease. After the great war, we are told, the civilised nations formed a league with a force of 800,000 men to keep the peace throughout the globe. For half a century the mere existence of these achieved its purpose, and then people began to grumble at the expense. War, said they, is a thing of the past, which will never return; why maintain great armaments to meet a contingency that will never arise. The decree goes forth that the international police is to be reduced by one-half; a few wise men know that the East is waiting for just such an event to arise in its millions and overwhelm the West. Gardiner is sent to find proof of this scheme, but after he has got it is captured, and betrays his trust under torture. His lips are unsealed, not by the mere physical pain, but by the mental anguish of the thought that otherwise he will not see again the woman he loves. Bitter remorse follows swift on his weakness, and he resolves never to return until he has made reparation for his treachery. In the subsequent great war between East and West, the opportunity comes to him, and he completely rehabilitates himself in the eyes of himself and his fellows. The greater part of the book is devoted to a description of this war, and it is certainly very exciting. But one feels at times that the author is rather at sea, when dealing with naval and military matters. Commanders-in-chief do not, as a matter of fact, act on wireless messages purporting to come from corps commanders, but transmitted en clair without anything to guarantee their authenticity. Yet in one place the plot hinges upon these messages, which turn out, of course, to have been sent by the enemy. For the rest, Mr. Allen does not think that war 60 years hence will differ very much from war to-day. More reliance will be placed on airships, which will be swifter and less vulnerable, and will be so contrived that they can travel on the water in the intervals of flight. Explosions will be more powerful, and aircraft will be able to drop them with greater accuracy. But ultimate victory will still depend, as it does now, and always did, on the men in the trenches. (Hodder and Stoughton.)

In "Quis" Mr. J. A. T. Lloyd introduces us to a group of children, each of whom has interesting possibilities. There is Quis himself, high-strung, improvident, and generous; he owes his nickname to a formula in the ritual of his school. If a boy wished to give away anything in an access of liberality he was not allowed to choose the beneficiary, but must in public shout "Quis," and the first person to answer was entitled to the gift. Richard Thurston was inordinately fond of giving; hence his name. The person who was usually first to answer was Bower, the acquisitive son of a financial magnate. The third of the schoolboy triumvirate was the quiet lad who tried to stand between Quis and his extravagant impulses. There are besides two girls, Daphne who will, one guesses, grow into a charming girl and a noble woman, and the vivid Olga, precocious by virtue of her mixed ancestry and youthful experiences, and thoroughly aware that her probable future will be by no means to her taste. At the best she will be a penniless dependent on the good offices of her friends; at the worst she may have to become a governess. She has hardly entered her teens when she begins to make her plans so that she can avoid either contingency, and to this end she forms an alliance with young Bower, a fellow-adventurer. And so there is a double war waged for ascendancy over the susceptible Quis; Daphne, unconsciously, and Sinclair, consciously, try to protect him; Olga and Bower to exploit him. The rivalry of school days continues later in life with varying fortunes, and then the war enables Mr. Lloyd to find a solution of the many complications which he has created. The idea is a good one, and Mr. Lloyd manipulates his puppets with skill. But his story would have been more effective if it had been less prolix. (Stanley Paul.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The revival of "Hamlet" for a few nights from Monday week by Allan Wilkie will place before Sydney audiences a thoughtful student of the great character, who invests it with considerable interest. At the same time it draws attention to the fact that but for his appearance in a long Shakespearian season at the Grand Opera House (then the Adelphi) a year ago "Hamlet" would not have been staged here for a run since the coming of H. B. Irving in 1911, whilst some of the other favourite classics dated back to Margaret Anglin in 1909, and others a little later to the magnificently-staged productions of Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton in 1912, supplemented by the Lewis Waller revival of "Henry V." the following year. Meditating upon a more or less similar state of affairs in England, Mr. John Palmer wrote an article last July in the "Nineteenth Century," entitled "The Present Disrepute of Shakespeare." One of his contentions was that "Shakespeare has less hold on the public to-day than he had at any time since the Burbages." After eight months' delay the same magazine now publishes a reply by Oscar Browning (for 18 years principal of an elementary training college), dealing with "The Position of Shakespeare in England." This writer believes that there never was a time when the poet more convincingly dominated the culture and education of Englishmen, and that he did so just as Homer once dominated those of the Greeks. Mr. Browning's statement is that at the passing of the Elementary Education Act in 1870, the only great literary work with which Englishmen were acquainted was the Bible. This era has passed away, and whilst the Bible reigns supreme, Shakespeare stands by its side. His conviction is that English elementary schools have made their pupils learn by heart, act, and love Shakespeare, "whose influence on the culture of the common Englishman is not confined to literature alone, but is extended to music and art, and all the avenues of the higher sensibility." In illustration of this he quotes a remark of George Routledge, the publisher, to the effect that he "didn't care about modern authors, he made five thousand a year out of Shakespeare, and was just issuing a shilling edition." All this supports a life-long experience on Mr. Browning's part, which is that the heartiest support of the poet's works when staged is from the masses more than from the classes. This observation may be fairly said to hold good in Australia. Mr. Alan Wilkie furnishes a performance of the bard at prices directly appealing to the main body of the people, and the support he has hitherto received favours the contention that "the play's the thing."

The Cherniavskys have now arrived here in readiness for their brief season of classical concerts, opening at the Town Hall on Monday. This will be the third appearance of the Russian trio in this part of the world, which they first visited on a youthful starring tour in 1908. At that time they appeared at the Town Hall under the management of Edward Branscombe, and it was admitted that the one-time Westminster Abbey tenor had used his critical musical judgment to good purpose in the hazardous enterprise of introducing juvenile art-wonders. Australia had already made the acquaintance of another Russian Jewish family of remarkable talent in the persons of Mark, Jakoff, and Boris Hamburg (piano, violin, 'cello), though they toured in pairs instead of collectively, with Mark as the head. The Cherniavsky family, Leo, Jan, and Mischel (violin, piano, 'cello), is similarly gifted. The father of these artists, Abram Cherniavsky, was for some years conductor of the Symphony Orchestra in Odessa, where also he directed Italian opera from time to time. Madame Cherniavsky, their mother, was also passionately fond of music. The eldest son, Gregor, for some years acted as sub-professor of violin at the Petrograd Conservatorium under his master, the famous Leopold Auer, teacher of Mischa Elman, and other stars. The eldest sister, Clara, possessed a lovely and well-trained soprano voice, and made her debut in London. There also the juvenile Alexander Cherniavsky created a sensation at the age of 9 years by conducting William Carter's choir and orchestra at the Royal Albert Hall on St. Patrick's Day, 1908, and subsequently became a pianist. Miriam, a second sister, studied under the virtuoso and composer David Popper, and became known as a 'cellist. This happy family of musical prodigies was scattered by the Jewish persecutions of 1902, Leo was sent to Brussels to study under Ysaye; Jan to the Leschetizsky School at Vienna; and Mischel to David Popper at Buda Pesth. Three or four years later they began their world-wanderings over Europe, and eventually through South Africa, and nearly every portion of the British Empire. They were last here in the middle of 1914, appearing at the Palace and Theatre Royal in association with Maud Allan, who presented the "Vision of Salome," with Joseph Harker's gorgeous scenery, and an orchestra under Frank St. Leger. They now return here warmly acclaimed by audiences in Canada, America, and New Zealand.

The first performance in Australia of Maurice Ravel's "Trio for Piano, Violin, and Violoncello," will take place on Monday at the Conservatorium with Frank Hutchens, Cyril Monk, and Gladstone Bell in an interpretation of a work of genuine interest. This composer, who is 42 years of age, has lately finished a ballet, "Adelaide, or the Language of Flowers," staged at the Paris Opera this Easter. Still later news states that the eminent Frenchman was wounded at Verdun, and was progressing towards recovery in a Paris hospital on May 3. The Austral Quartet (led by Mr. Cyril Monk) has already familiarised our audiences with his impressionist style, in which it has been said he seeks to do for music what Manet, Monet, and Degas did for painting. His art is also remarkable for its intense and minute detail, and its elaborate harmonic and tonal colour scheme. Mr. Monk states that visitors are to expect unusual harmonies throughout the entire trio, which surprise the ear with their daring effects. Debussy's harmonies are simple in comparison; nor can the harmonic significance be fully comprehended at a single hearing. Perhaps Ravel is seeking for harmonies of quarter-tones instead of semi-tones. The whole trio forms an impression.

Three new productions of the lightest character marked the past week in Melbourne. The "Fair and Warmer" Company put up "A Little Bit of Fluff" at the Theatre Royal, the title referring to a dancer (Dorothy Purdell) who borrows a £500 necklace from a Rajah, and places it in the care of a male friend (Percy Marmont), whose wife (Daisy Atherton) finds it in his pocket. Farcical fibbing on an elaborate scale is relied upon for the laughter which follows. "The White Chrysanthemum" is an early musical comedy, composed by Howard Talbot, with the story laid in Japan, and is drawing audiences at the King's Theatre. Here Barry Lupino is seen as a ship's purser, ludicrously pursued by three comic Japanese policemen, and Emily Fitzroy as a humorous Chinese cook, the terror of her little English husband. On the musical side appear Lilian Tucker as O San, in love with Lieut. Armytage (Vernon Irving), and Fayette Perry as an American heiress. The music is especially tuneful. Mr. George Willoughby has made a success at the Princess Theatre as "Joyous Jones," acting with breezy humour one of his best roles ("What Happened to Jones") in its revised musical comedy form. The songs and choruses seem to have been skilfully welded to the action, and the whole scheme brought up to date. Mr. Edward Nable proved amusing in the role of the learned Professor. "The Pink Lady" will be produced at Her Majesty's to-night. The Sydney cast will be altered only in respect of the appearance of Gladys Moncrieff in Ethel Cadman's part as Angele, and Jack Ralston as the jealous lover, Maurice, in place of Frank Greene.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

Both at the lecture-concert on Wednesday evening, and at the orchestral concert on the following Saturday, Beethoven programmes will be presented. On Wednesday the Verbrugghen String Quartet will interpret "Op. 18, No. 6, in B Flat," and "Op. 59, No. 1, in F."

At the orchestral concert on Saturday next the chief item of interest will be the colossal C Minor Symphony, supplemented by the Overture to "Fidelio" and the No. 4 Symphony in B Flat. Miss Gladys Phelps will sing the Scena and Aria, "Ah, Perfido." Plans for these concerts are at Paling's.

SOCIAL.

Mrs. H. Y. Braddon presided at the monthly meeting of the Army Service Corps Comforts Depot, held at the new rooms, 369 George-street, on Tuesday last. During the month of May 604 pairs of socks and 96 flannel shirts were forwarded to the War Chest for distribution; three casks of tinned fruit and 197 cotton shirts were also sent to Egypt. As a result of the tea room and coffee stalls, held on Red Triangle Day, the depot forwarded £30 to the Y.M.C.A. Fund.

At a meeting held at the 20th Battalion Depot it was decided that the supply of socks and shirts should be pooled, subject to the right of the committee to send a proportion to the O.C. of the battalion for distribution in cases of emergency. Workers are needed at this depot—63 Pitt-street—to crochet the edges of blanket Balaclava caps. This work is specially suitable for non-knitters, but knitters are also needed for mittens and socks.

A sock competition was held at the 13th and 45 Battalions Depot, Manning-chambers, on Wednesday. Mrs. Keith Jopp, who acted as judge, gave an address on the features of a well-knitted sock. Miss Ida Finch, Neutral Bay, won the first prize; Mrs. W. Smith, Rozelle, the second; and Miss Vale, Drummoyne, the third. As a result, 170 pairs will be added to the total of 538 sent in during May, in answer to the War Chest appeal, making 708 pairs altogether. The amount gained from the refreshment tent at the Easter Show, which this committee shared with the 30th Battalion, was £722 2s 6d, of which the half-share paid in to this fund was £361 1s 3d. The committee has removed the Saturday morning stall, from the corner of Moore and Pitt streets, to the entrance of the City Bank, Pitt-street. Mrs. Louis Henderson and Mrs. Matheson will be in charge. The sum sent in by the committee to the Y.M.C.A. on Red Triangle Day Fund was £137.

A linen tea was held at the Women's Hospital, Crown-street, on Tuesday last. Mrs. G. F. Earp arranged the musical programme; those who took part being: Miss Amy Brown, Mrs. Eugene Boland, Miss Katherine Baird, Mrs. Ridley Robinson, and Mrs. F. Linch. The directors received the visitors, who were entertained at afternoon tea by Miss Margaret Harris. Miss Mona Daley, the secretary, stated that over 500 articles of linen and £18 in donations were received. Among those present were Judge and Mrs. Backhouse, Mesdames Besthorne, Sly, Carmichael, Davis, Russell, Milnes, and Bullock.

On Thursday night, May 31, the Khaki Club of Mosman gave the returned boys at George's Heights a fancy dress dance. The prizes were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Carver, and Mr. T. Keniura. The judges were Mr. Colquhoun, M.L.A., Miss Armstrong, Mesdames Lynch (2), and Burnet, and the prize-winners Miss Grogan, Miss Cameron, Miss Davis, and Miss Touson. Mr. Darriman supplied excellent dance music. Several songs were rendered during the evening. At the conclusion, Mrs. Carver proposed a vote of thanks to Corp. Pratt for his help in carrying the evening to a successful issue. A vote of thanks was also passed to the sgt. cook for his assistance in the kitchen.

The fete recently held at Mrs. Waddy's residence, Leppington, Lang-road, Centennial Park, on behalf of Blue Cross, realised £45.

An entertainment organised by Miss Bessie Campbell was given to the wounded soldiers at the Military Hospital, Randwick, on Monday night. The same party entertained the Holdsworthy Concentration Camp Guards on the 2nd inst. Miss Campbell has been giving these voluntary entertainments at the military hospitals and camps for the past two years.

The knitted sock competition promoted by the ladies of the Cremorne Red Cross branch resulted in 156 pairs being offered. The prizes which were given by Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, of Hatorley, Neutral Bay, were won as follows:—First, Mrs. J. Nichols, Cremorne-road, Cremorne; second, Mrs. Lowrie, Mary-street, Beecroft; third, Miss Chiel, Holt-avenue, Mosman. The whole of the socks, together with a donation of £1, will be forwarded to the War Chest collection.

Miss Nellie Christie and her pupils gave a concert in the Church of England Hall, Liverpool Camp, last Tuesday night.

The 33rd Battalion Comforts Fund held a successful gift afternoon on Wednesday last. The room was crowded, and Mr. Budden gave an interesting address on war work.

A sock evening and social, organised by Mrs. Coglan and the residents of Ourimbah, was held in the local School of Arts on May 19. The result was 40 pairs of socks, and £4 for the War Chest.

A farewell afternoon tea was given at the Nurses' Club, Limited, College-street, on Saturday, June 2, to a number of members past and present, who are leaving Sydney on active service. There was a large gathering of nurses to do honour to their fellow-members who have received military appointments. The guests of the afternoon were Sisters Baxter, Campbell, West, Duffy, Paton, Mears, Draper, Hotherington, Hannam, Shea, Wright, Wearne, Hickson, Lloyd, Roberts, Reid, Traill, Mackenzie, Leary, Thomas, Parker, Taylor, Gannon, and Major.

At Christ Church, Lavender Bay, on April 12, a wedding was solemnised between Mr. Percy Hilton Thurling, third son of Mr. John Thurling, Kelso, and Emilie, daughter of Mr. Charles Edlin, Bay-road, late of Bathurst. The Rev. F. H. M'Lean officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a frock of ivory silk and Malines lace, caught with lilies of the valley and orange blossoms. Her embossed tulle veil was arranged cap fashion, with a circlet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and roses, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Geoffry Loovey was best man. After the ceremony the guests were entertained at Beetham, Bay-road, the residence of the bride's parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Thurling left for the South Coast, the bride travelling in a tailored suit of navy serge, and wearing a navy hat relieved with shell pink.

At Christ Church, Gosford, on April 18, Mildred Mercy, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Robson, of Tumbi Umbi, was married to John Moffit, only son of the late Mr. W. J. Black, and Mrs. Black, of Te-Kainga, Roseville. The Rev. Arthur Renwick officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a skirt and corsage of ivory silk crepe-de-chine, and bodice of ninon over trimmed lace, with a veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a showed bouquet of dahlias, roses, and carnations, with asparagus ferns, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Hilda Robson (sister of the bride), and Miss Muriel Black (sister of the bridegroom). The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Gordon Black, of Castle Hills, as best man. After the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Robson received their guests in the parish hall, and the newly-married pair subsequently left for their future home at Tuggerah.

On April 17, at St. James' Church, King-street, Sydney, a marriage took place between the Reverend Walter Warr, curate of Scone, youngest son of Mr. James Warr, of Halesowen, England, and Esther, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanders, also of Halesowen, England. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. P. Birk, of Bexley. The bride, who was given away by Mr. A. E. Jackson, wore a costume of cream whipcord gabardine. She carried a bouquet of white roses and ferns, which, together with a gold wristlet watch, was the gift of the bridegroom. Miss M. L. Jackson was bridesmaid, and wore a cream gabardine costume. A bouquet of pale pink dahlias and a gold necklace were the bridegroom's gifts. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a gold albert chain. The Rev. F. G. Alexander acted as best man. The breakfast was served at Wychwood, Lindfield, the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jackson. Mr. and Mrs. Warr left later for Scone, the bride travelling in a navy serge costume, and hat to match. The parishioners of Scone gave a welcome to Mrs. Warr, and made her a presentation.

At St. Thomas's Church, Narellan, a wedding was solemnised on April 28, when Icey, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Cross, of Orielton, Narellan, was married to Mr. Oswald Armstrong, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Golding, of Balmain. The church was decorated by the members of the choir and friends of the bride, who has been organist for the past eight years. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Allnutt. As the bride entered the church the choir sang "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden." The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white crepe de Chine, relieved with ninon, over pale pink. The train falling from her shoulders was composed of white satin lined with pink, and trimmed with orange blossoms and pearls. The tulle veil was worn with a wreath of orange blossoms over the face. She carried a shower bouquet of white heather, carnations and cactus dahlias tied with white streamers, which, with a diamond ring, was the gift of the bridegroom. Miss Eileen Cross and Miss Maisie Golding were the bridesmaids, wearing white Organdi muslin, trimmed with Malines lace relieved with pink.

A wedding was celebrated at St. Thomas's Church, North Sydney, on April 10 by the Rev. Norman F. Cooke, between Mr. John Marsh, the local shire clerk, and Miss Amy Spencer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Spencer, of North Sydney.

ENGAGEMENTS.

The engagement is announced between Mr. A. Victor Heather, eldest son of the late Mrs. L. N. Heather, and Bessie (Betty), youngest daughter of Mrs. Henry Grace, of Stanmore.

The engagement is announced of Miss Jessie M. L. Veness, eldest daughter of Mr. A. A. Veness and the late Mrs. Veness, of Glen Innes, New South Wales, to Mr. Malcolm A. R. M'Dougall, of Wongongera station, Chinchilla, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald M'Dougall, of Coogar station, Queensland.

THE CHURCHES.

PRAYER FOR VICTORY.

There is a great deal of misconception (says the Belfast "Christian Advocate") as to what constitutes true prayer. First of all, people must be right with God before their prayers can be effectual, and then their prayers are of two kinds, namely, those for spiritual and those for temporal mercies. As regards the former, God is willing always to grant them, but as to the latter we cannot be sure this is the case. If we got the answer to such petitions they may be injuries, not blessings. Hence God sometimes withholds such favours from us, and gives us others in their stead, or gives us grace to do without them. Further, we should try to answer our own prayers, as if everything depended on our own efforts, and not expect God to work unnecessary miracles for us. There is no use in a farmer praying for abundant crops unless he has done all he possibly can to secure them, and the same is true with regard to health and in reference to business. People must help themselves if they want God to help them. In ordinary competitions it is said God cannot answer two persons competing for one purpose, like two persons seeking the same situation, or two nations contending for victory. God will do the right. One party or one nation must fall in the contest. Success usually falls to the lot of those best prepared. It does not follow, however, that God does not answer the prayers of the side that fails. If they are His people He answers their prayers by giving them grace to do without that for which they asked.

Archbishop Wright will preach at St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow morning, and at St. Thomas' Church, North Sydney, in the evening. The following Sunday he will preach at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, and on the next day he will speak at the Church Missionary Society's festival. Subsequently he will visit Gippsland.

The Rev. F. W. Walker has accepted the parish of St. Paul's, Chatswood, and will take up work in the beginning of August. Mr. Walker was engaged in missionary work in India for five years.

The Rev. E. H. Burgman, B.A., rector of Wyong (Newcastle), has been appointed travelling secretary of the A.B.M. for Newcastle, Grafton, and Armidale dioceses.

The Rev. W. E. Coates, rector of Peak Hill, has accepted the curacy of Waterloo. The Rev. E. A. Parker has filled the vacancy at Peak Hill.

The Rev. N. M. Lloyd, for two years curate of All Souls', Leichhardt, with the oversight of St. Mark's Mission Church, Lilyfield, will take up the curacy of St. James', Croydon, at the end of the month.

The Rev. G. A. Chambers, M.A., has been elected a Fellow of St. Paul's College in the University of Sydney.

After service for 32 years as organist of St. Mary's, West Maitland, Mr. G. F. King has accepted a similar position at St. Clement's, Mosman.

The Rev. W. A. O'Neill, rector of Dapto parish, has been notified of his transference to Moss Vale, and leaves for the new parish at the end of this month. His successor is the Rev. W. Godson, of Katoomba.

The Newcastle Cathedral council at its recent meeting decided to make a united effort throughout the diocese to clear off the debt on the cathedral, which stands at between £4000 and £5000. The cathedral has cost up to the present something over £40,000. In order to ensure the success of the effort an additional assistant, the Rev. W. H. G. Cochrane, has been appointed to the staff of the cathedral, and he will commence his duties on Monday.

There was a large attendance of Roman Catholics, prelates, and priests at the "Month's Mind" ceremonies for the late Archbishop Carr, at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Melbourne. At the conclusion of the Requiem Mass the visitors were entertained at dinner. Archbishop Mannix said that the presence of the representative ecclesiastics, who had travelled such long distances, was a tribute to the esteem and affection in which the late archbishop was held.

The Corpus Christi procession to-morrow at St. Patrick's College, Manly, will commence at 2.30. The feast was celebrated this week at St. Mary's Cathedral in the customary manner by Archbishop Kelly and assisting clergy.

This week the Right Rev. Dr. Vidal, Vicar Apostolic of Fiji, and the Right Rev. Dr. Bertreaux, Vicar Apostolic of the Solomon Islands, are the guests of the Marist Fathers in Sydney.

Archbishop Duhig, who has been in Melbourne this week, is expected to pass through Sydney on Monday while on his return to Brisbane.

The Presbyterian congregation at Bankstown is taking steps to secure a site with a view to the erection of a church building.

On Sunday last a special sermon on missionary enterprise was preached by the Rev. J. Leggatt at West Maitland.

The latest news concerning the condition of the Rev. J. Dempsey, M.A., minister of the Burwood Congregational Church, causes considerable anxiety. He succeeded the Rev. Ashley Teece as one of the Congregational chaplains at the front, and was injured when one of the transports on which he was travelling was sunk.

The anniversary service of the Pitt-street Congregational Church will be held to-morrow, and there will be a public meeting on Thursday.

The chairman of the Congregational Union, the Rev. W. L. Patison, will to-morrow visit Islington and Holmsville churches, in the Newcastle district.

The Rev. P. V. Dowling, M.A., has declined the call to Croydon Congregational Church.

During the past week a mission was held in connection with the Newtown Congregational Church. One of the night services was conducted by the Railway and Tramway Mission Band, and another by the Rev. N. J. Cocks, M.A., the others being taken by the Rev. J. J. Willings.

A congratulatory welcome was tendered by the Mosman congregation on Wednesday evening to the president-general of the Methodist Church (Rev. Dr. Carruthers) on his return from the general conference. There was a large and representative attendance, presided over by the Rev. J. C. Metcalfe. Congratulatory addresses were given by Messrs. A. E. Hunt, M.L.C., J. W. Kitts, J. E. Bishop, and the Rev. R. East. The president-general will visit and preach at Camden to-morrow (Sunday).

Mr. Livingston C. Mote, M.A., for many years organist of the Sydney Central Methodist Mission, has been appointed to a similar position at Lindfield Methodist Church.

The fourteenth annual scholars' examination, under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday-school Department, will be held on Wednesday, August 29, and the syllabus is now published. Last year 4000 candidates entered for this examination.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Davis, of South Australia, have left for Papua in connection with the Methodist mission.

Mr. R. Beckett, M.L.C., of Victoria, who died last week, was a member of the Methodist Mission Board, and was present at the opening session of the recent general conference in Melbourne. It was largely his influence and work that built up the laymen's missionary movement in Victoria to its present strength.

Sunday, June 24, has been set apart by the Methodist Church as local preachers' Sunday, and on that date lay preachers will occupy many of the city and suburban pulpits.

The Methodist Ministers' Association will meet on Monday morning for the purpose of hearing an address by the president of the conference on his impressions of the general conference.

The Crow's Nest Methodist Church is showing its sympathy with the boys at the front and with those in the hospitals in a practical manner. The officials of the church have arranged for a comforts Sunday to-morrow, when every member of the congregation and the Sabbath school will have the opportunity of making some gift for the men. Chaplain Colwell and Commissioner Budden will be present at the evening service to receive the gifts, which will be handed over to those for whom they are suitable.

Mr. A. G. Nicholls, who has worked in connection with the China Inland Mission for the past 23 years, has arrived in Sydney from China. For ten or eleven years he has been carrying on pioneer work among five of the numerous aboriginal tribes of West China, and has been very closely connected with translation work. In co-operation with other missionaries, he has translated the whole of the New Testament, which is now in print, into the Hwa Miao dialect, and single gospels into the Laka, Lesu, and Kopu dialects. Among these tribes, during the past twelve years, 14,000 have been received into the Church, and in addition there are 50,000 adherents. Mr. Nicholls will spend his furlough in Adelaide, and will give an account of his work at a meeting of welcome, which will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. Hall.

The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago has lent one of its professors, E. O. Sellers, to the International Y.M.C.A. for evangelistic service in the English camps. He spent some time last year at the Canadian camps.

At the Cootamundra Church of Christ last Sunday morning a memorial service in connection with the deaths of Corporal Jack Doidge and Private Norrie Douglass, was conducted by the rector, the Rev. Norman Gardner.

CHAPTER XXII.—Continued.

Frank had been considerably surprised by the fact that Carton had hurried off that morning without a hint of his purpose. He was determined to come to an immediate understanding on the subject of Muriel, and had resolved to have it settled directly after breakfast. The quarrel of the previous night had made a very deep impression on him, for he knew that only something very serious could have caused the violent heat which Carton had displayed.

He bitterly regretted his own loss of temper, but the matter could not be left where it was. If there was any real and tangible obstacle to his marriage with Muriel he had a perfect right to insist on knowing it, and he had sufficient knowledge of Carton and confidence in his sense of justice to feel convinced that the latter would tell him when they came to discuss the affair calmly.

He took it for granted that he would soon return, and while waiting for him he put together such things as he would require for a few days at Folkestone. He was occupied in this way when one of the hotel servants brought him a card. "The gentleman is in the lounge, sir," he said.

Frank glanced at the name on the card, "John Eldwood," and shook his head. "There must be some mistake. Tell him I'm very busy and ask him to call again," he replied.

"He said it was very important, sir, and that he would not detain you more than two or three minutes, and he was sure you would see him."

"Oh, very well, bring him up," said Frank. He had a dim recollection of the name, and thought it might possibly be someone from Mr. Cuthbert. "You wish to see me? From Mr. Cuthbert, are you?" he asked when the man returned with Eldwood.

"No. I asked for Mr. Carton."

"My name is Carton," replied Frank, staring hard at him, with a vague feeling that he had seen him somewhere, and disliking his look intensely.

"Oh, I see how it is. You're his son Frank. He has often spoken of you to me. I'm real glad to meet you, Mr. Carton," said Eldwood, offering his hand, which Frank took with much reluctance. "Your father and I have been associated together for many years, and by a lucky chance we crossed last week on the Agrippa. Hadn't met for quite a time, till then."

"I don't remember his mentioning your name, sir, and I know a great deal about his business affairs."

"Is that so? He always said you were a spry man."

"You are from New York, then?" asked Frank, and in some way the fact strengthened the impression that the man's face was not wholly unfamiliar. He tried to place him in his memory.

"From New York, sure," said Eldwood smiling. "The finest city in the world. God's own country. You know it well, of course, although you were raised in Canada, I believe. Your father's mighty proud of his place there. Seems sort of a set on Canada, though I guess it ain't much of a place compared with little old New York. All the same, any place has this grimy old village beaten at the start."

"Well, as my father's not in just now I won't detain you," said Frank stiffly, wishing to get rid of the man.

"Don't let that worry you any," and Eldwood dropped into a chair and took out his cigar-case. "I'm not so busy as not to have time to chew the rag for a bit with my old friend's son. You'll smoke?" and he offered his case to Frank.

"I'm sorry, but I'm very busy just now, I'm going out of town presently."

"I won't worry you long. But it's a real pleasure to see you. Your dear mother's well and flourishing, I hope?" and Eldwood lit a cigar, quite regardless of the broad hint to go.

Frank's memory had been working hard all this time, and as Eldwood, having some difficulty with the cigar, took it from his lips and looked down at it, the pose of the head and the expression of the features linked up the gap in his recollection. He always read the New York papers, and it was in one of them that he had recently seen the man's portrait, read the name, John Eldwood, and the report of an interview with him.

His first impulse was to scout the thought as a wild absurdity. It was a sheer impossibility that his father could have any associations with such an infamous scoundrel as that John Eldwood, to say nothing of such relations as the man suggested. He must either be utterly mistaken or the fellow had presumed on an acquaintance scraped on board the steamer, and had come for some rascally purpose.

"Did I understand you to say you know my father well, Mr. Eldwood?" he asked.

"Why, certainly."

"In business, do you mean?"

"That's just as you like to size it up. You ask him about me. He'll tell you. Why, I knew him before you did; before you were born, that is," and Eldwood smiled complacently.

"But there was a gap of some years till you met again on the steamer?"

"Why shouldn't there be? I reckon Canada's not so close to New York as London is to Richmond."

"You were no doubt very busily employed during those years?"

"How's that?"

"It would account for my not having known any of your business with my father for the last—seven years, wasn't it?" asked Frank pointedly.

Eldwood laughed again. "Are you trying to pull my leg, young man?"

"No. I was struck by a coincidence in connection with another term of seven years. At least, it was ten years, reduced to seven."

"Gee! But your poppa sized you up all right when he said you were spry. You'd better ask him about me, sonny. It's up to him to talk," said Eldwood laughing, but angry.

"I don't need to ask him. You've been talking yourself some—to the New York papers. I read their interview with Mr. John Eldwood."

"And what's the matter with it?"

"That it's no doubt as true as all you've said about my father is false."

Eldwood's eyes flashed fire, and for an instant the temptation to blurt out what he knew was almost irresistible, but he smothered it. It was worth too much to be chucked away merely to cut this strutting young cockerel's comb. "Guess you've been eating peppers to get that tongue of yours so scorching hot, sonny," he said.

"There's more than my tongue getting hot. You'd better go," and Frank pointed to the door.

"Guess I'll finish this," replied Eldwood coolly, taking his cigar from his lips and puffing out the smoke in rings.

"Not here," cried Frank, and he set the door wide open. "This room isn't big enough to hold us two any longer."

"What's the matter with you leaving it, then?" sneered Eldwood.

"Simply that I don't mean you to stop," fired Frank. "Clear out. I shan't tell you again."

Eldwood turned slowly, looked at him very steadily, and, reading mischief in the angry blue eyes, shrugged his shoulders and rose. "A little soothing syrup's what you need," he said, with cool insolence as he sauntered slowly to the door. "So long, sonny. Love to poppa; tell him I'll look in again to-morrow." And he went out, laughing and kissing his hand to Frank, who slammed the door on his heels.

The insolent scoundrel to try and impose on them on the strength of a few words exchanged on the liner, and foist off all those lies about old associations. It would have served him right to kick him down the stairs and out of the hotel. "He won't come again in a hurry, that's one comfort," muttered Frank to himself. Soon afterwards he chuckled. "The dad must have been caught with the blinkers on not to have seen through that infernal rascal even in two minutes on the ship. It's one on him and no mistake. He'll look rather sick when I tell him all about it;" and he smiled more than once to himself as he finished his preparations for the run down to Folkestone.

These had been completed some little time, and he was growing very impatient for Carton's return, when he had more visitors—Sir James and Lady Ledfield. The former appeared to be even more fretfully nervous than usual, and his wife as uncompromisingly hostile as Frank himself.

"I—I've really called to see—your father, and—and my wife—also, of course," stuttered Sir James. "It's—er—very important, very important indeed."

"My father is not in. I myself am waiting for him, Sir James."

"My—my appointment was—for to-morrow, in fact, but I have—we have, that is, something to—to communicate to him in reference to our—to my interview with him yesterday."

"I know nothing about that, of course. But if you would like to wait for him, I expect him any minute now."

"There is no reason why we shouldn't tell Mr. Frank Carton, James," said the wife smoothly. "He is quite as much concerned now as his father. It is about Muriel, of course," she added, turning to Frank. She had heard with malicious satisfaction that he knew nothing of what had passed at Sir James's office, and readily grasped an opportunity of indulging her hatred of Frank.

LONDON CONCERT COMPANY.

To-night, at the Coronation Hall, Bondi, the [illegible] company of eight artists, which include Carrie Lanceley, Philip Newbury, and Charles Smythe, will present an attractive programme of popular operatic and ballad numbers, and new songs. Miss Grace [illegible], a new English contralto, will appear. The "[illegible] Scene" will be sung by Miss Lanceley and Philip Newbury.

METROPOLITAN BAND MATINEE.

The Metropolitan Band will give their first concert at the Town Hall to-morrow at 3 o'clock, when Miss Mabel Batchelor will sing "Nobil Signor" and an aria from "Madam Butterfly." Mr. Percy [illegible] will sing "Mountain Lovers"; and the band will render selections under the conductorship of Mr. John [illegible].

THE CHERNIAVSKY CONCERTS.

The first of the Cherniavsky concerts will be given in the Town Hall on Monday evening next. The plans are at Nicholson's, where also students' concession tickets can be obtained.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

All next week "Apartment 29," featuring [illegible] Terry and Earle Williams, will be screened at the Crystal Palace, Charlie Chaplin supplying the comedy relief in "The Cure." "Babette," with Peggy Hyland in the principal part, will be shown with "The Cure" at the Lyric. "Sweetheart of the Doomed," featuring Louise Glaum, is in reserve for Thursday next. Patrons of the Empress will see Valeska Suratt in "The Victim" on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Later in the week "The Fighting Forces of the United States," "A Mormon Maid," and "Bears and Bullets" will be shown.

THE GLACIARIUM.

To-day the steam-heated Glaciarium will be open from 1.30 p.m. to 10.30 p.m. On the other days of the week 8.30 is the opening time. The new moving pictures to-day will introduce Ella Hall in "Her Soul's Inspiration" and Myrtle Gonzales in "God's Crucible."

WEST'S PICTURES.

To-day there will be a matinee at West's Olympia. This evening the Fox feature, "Love and Hate," will be seen for the last time. On Monday "The [illegible] Maid" will be shown in a programme which includes the third series of "The Shielding Shadow," entitled "The Mystic Defender;" and scenic and comic films.

AUSTRALIAN PICTURE PALACE.

"Liberty" is one of the attractions at the Australian Picture Palace, corner of Liverpool-street and Wentworth-avenue. New pictures will be shown to-day.

PICTURES AT TOWN HALL.

The Waddington management at the Town Hall to-night, commencing at 7.45, will show "The Golden Fetter" photo-play, and "A Girl Like That." The Slapoffski orchestra, Miss Gladys Phelps (soprano), and Mr. Albert Goossens (baritone) will supply the music.

THE LYCEUM.

With De Groen's orchestra supplying the musical accompaniment, new dramatic and comedy films will be screened to-day at the Lyceum. The Lyceum day sessions commence at 11.5, the evening session at 7.30.

A NEW PUBLICATION!
NEW PUBLICATION!
A BOOK OF STRONG, VIRILE VERSE,
REDOLENT WITH THE SPIRIT OF AUSTRALIA.
AUSTRALIA IN PEACE AND WAR.
By
W. M. FLEMING, M.H.R.

The "Sydney Morning Herald": This is a [illegible] addition to the shelf of Australian letters. The war verses are inspired by a patriotism which, as Mr. Fleming has shown by his actions, is no mere literary formula.
The "Daily Telegraph": If there is one quality more marked than another in this verse it is its Australianism.
The "Town and Country Journal": The war poems display a loyal Imperial spirit, and express feeling with strength and directness.
The "Argus" says: Altogether this is a very [illegible] and very interesting volume. The war poems are manly, ringing verses.
The "Herald": It is a pleasure and a stimulant to read his book. Mr. Fleming has done credit to himself and to his country.
The "Leader": His verses show much diversity of thought and expression, and he writes with directness and sincerity.
The "Age": The sentiment of these poems is excellent, and there are many vivid and valuable thoughts contained in them.

A COLLECTION OF TRULY REPRESENTATIVE
AUSTRALIAN LITERATURE,
POETRY AND PROSE.
POETRY AND PROSE.

Seven Volumes of the Best Australia has to Offer. Every man and woman appreciates strong, virile reading—reading which brings vividly before your eyes the scenes and actions described. You will find such in each volume of
THE AUSTRALIAN POETS.
THE AUSTRALIAN POETS.
THE AUSTRALIAN POETS.
Poems and stories, alive with the spirit of our country, and written by such men as Henry Lawson, Bernard O'Dowd, Hugh McCrae, F. S. Williamson, Wm. Gay, "Gilrooney," Grant Hervey, and E. J. Brady.
If you have any pride of race, if you have any love for our beautiful country, you will appreciate the vivid lilt and superb pictures of our Australian Poets.
They write of life as it is, boldly and fearlessly; in swinging measure they paint you unforgettable pictures of the plains and hills—the desert and the valleys—the bush and the towns that go to make this marvellous country of ours.
Read this of Henry Lawson's:—
The spirits of our fathers, they rise from [illegible]
(like an ocean where an ocean used to be),
Out where Heaven's grandest [illegible]
Never Never Land.
With the glorious hope and promise that the bush men understand
When the rain and grass are coming off the desert plain is grand,
And the drought-divorced Australian [illegible]
A nation's literature is the soul and spirit of her. No country can be truly said to "live" until she can claim a place in the world of letters—and she cannot do this unless her own people give their support and commendation.
Australia's literary reputation rests with YOU. Prove to the world that we have poets and authors worthy of recognition. A glance through the "Australian Poets" will convince YOU.
Henry Lawson is represented by two books in this set—one of Poems (out of which the above extract is taken), and one of Prose—the best this [illegible] has yet produced. Also, with each set is presented a magnificent photogravure of the wonderful portrait of the Poet by Longstaff. The price of this plate to non-subscribers is £1/1/ net. SUBSCRIBERS RECEIVE IT FREE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

A NEW INDUSTRY.
That Australia can manufacture building materials equal to anything imported is proved by the production of HARDIE'S
"FIBROLITE" ASBESTOS CEMENT SHEETS
at our new works at Camellia, near Sydney.

FIBROLITE CORRUGATED ROOFING,
THE ONLY CORRUGATED ASBESTOS CEMENT ROOFING MADE IN AUSTRALIA, is also being manufactured by us.

Hardie's were the original importers of Fibro-Ciment Sheets into Australia over 14 years ago. We now lead the way with this new industry. The invaluable experience gained during 14 years of handling Hardie's well-known Fibro-Ciment Sheets is incorporated in the manufacture of "FIBROLITE" (Flat and Corrugated). Thus Fibrolite is no experiment.
It cannot rust.
It will not crack or chip.
It is unaffected by fumes or sea air.
It is fire and weather proof.
Specify "FIBROLITE" Flat Sheets, the Australian-made, for walls and ceilings. Fibrolite is introduced in lieu of Hardie's British-made Fibro-Cement.)

LAW REPORT.

COMMONWEALTH ARBITRATION

(Before Mr. Justice Higgins.)

PENALTY IMPOSED.

The Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association applied for the imposition of a penalty against G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., for not paying an employee at the rate prescribed for a fireman. His Honor ordered the payment of a penalty of £5. Mr. J. A. Ferguson (instructed by Messrs. M'Gregor and Palmer) appeared for the association, and Mr. Waldron for the defendants.

AN AGREEMENT QUESTIONED.

The Newcastle and Hunter River Steamship Company, Ltd., applied for leave to vary an agreement entered into between the applicants and the Federated Marine Stewards and Pantrymen's Association. Mr. Seale, on behalf of the applicants, urged that the hours of the stewards should be fixed at 18 hours per day instead of 15 hours. In refusing to vary the agreement his Honor said that the agreement come to between the parties was, doubtlessly, the result of a compromise which he did not feel at liberty to disturb.

SUPREME COURT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

SUPPLIES TO MILITARY CAMPS.

Carson v the Commonwealth.

Mr. Watt and Mr. Tighe, instructed by Mr. Kieran Ryan, of Kiama (by his agents, Messrs. Weaver and Allworth), appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Alexander George Carson, timber merchant and general carrier, to recover balance of account for firewood supplied to the Commonwealth for its military camps at Kiama and Baroul, between April, 1915, and April, 1916. Mr. Watt stated that the balance due to the plaintiff for firewood was £296 4s, and as to about £150 of this amount the plaintiff and defendant were at issue.

The case is part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

ACTION FOR LOSS OF A LICENSE.

Lawson v Strickand and others.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., Mr. Armstrong, and Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. J. B. Moffatt, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Curtis and Mr. Weston, instructed by Mr. H. E. B. Reymond, of Forbes (by his agents, Messrs. Sly and Russell), for defendants. The action in which plaintiff claimed compensation for the loss of his license of the Federal Hotel, Forbes, was continued, and upon the close of the evidence plaintiff accepted a nonsuit. Defendants then withdrew their cross-action.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

In the resumption action, Zollner, Ltd., v Sydney Municipal Council, before Mr. Justice Ferguson, argument was concluded, and his Honor reserved judgment.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

TESTATOR'S FAMILY MAINTENANCE.

Re Elizabeth Fay's Will.

Mr. Maxwell, instructed by Mr. W. D. McMahon, appeared for James Fay, the applicant; and Dr. Waddell, instructed by Mr. B. A. Hollingdale, for the executor of the late Mrs. Fay's will. The applicant stated that he was a labourer, and that his late wife had left an estate of the net value of £399 12s 4d. The testatrix, who was of a very saving nature, had been paid by the applicant his fortnightly wages and certain other sums earned by him. He had lived on friendly terms with his wife, and he had always believed that the property she acquired was for their joint benefit. In her will of March, 1915, she left her property to her brother, John Higgins, of Ballykeenagh House, Tullamore, Ireland, and she made no provision for her husband, the present applicant.

After evidence by the applicant, the hearing was adjourned to the 15th instant for certain affidavits to be resworn.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

TESTATOR'S FAMILY MAINTENANCE.

Re M. A. Casey's Will.

Mr. J. H. Hammond, instructed by Mr. Morgan J. O'Neill, appeared for the applicant, Claire Edna Casey; and Mr. W. A. Parker, instructed by Messrs. J. Stuart Thom and Co. (Sydney agents for Mr. Shewcroft, of Orange), for Laurence J. Dwyer and James Joseph Casey, executors of the will of the late Michael Casey, of Orange.

Affidavits filed stated that the testator's estate was of the net value of £2576. He made certain charitable bequests, and left the residue of his estate to the children of his brother, James Joseph Casey (one of the executors), but made no provision in his will for his widow. The latter now applied to the Court for provision out of the estate for her adequate maintenance.

By consent, an order was made for the payment of a lump sum of £750 to the applicant, in full discharge of all her claims against her late husband's estate, whether under the Testator's Family Maintenance Act, or otherwise.

PARTNERSHIP DISPUTE.

Jolley v Chisholm.

This was a motion by Albert Jolley, for whom Mr. C. Davidson, instructed by Mr. W. C. Clegg, appeared, to continue an injunction and appoint a receiver in connection with a claim by the applicant concerning a sanitary pipe business at Enfield. Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by Mr. Thomas Rose (Messrs. Rose and Dawes), appeared for Ada Chisholm, widow and executrix of the estate of the late James Henry Chisholm. His Honor directed the matter to stand over till Tuesday next, on the defendant undertaking not to dispose of any of the assets of the business.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

BOAZ v BOAZ.

Jessie Boaz (formerly Tarves), represented by Mr. R. W. Fraser, petitioned for the dissolution of her marriage with Thos. Walter Boaz, on the ground of desertion by reason of failure to comply with an order for the restitution of conjugal rights. The parties were married according to the rites of the Unitarian Church in Sydney in January, 1902. A decree nisi, returnable in six months, was granted.

COWIN v COWIN.

This was a suit by Maud Cowin (formerly Hogbin), represented by Mr. R. W. Fraser, against Wm. Ernest Cowin, for the restitution of conjugal rights. The parties were married in November, 1914, at Forest Lodge, according to the rights of the Methodist Church. An order was made directing respondent to return to petitioner within 21 days of the service of the order.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before the Registrar.)

HEARING OF CREDITORS' PETITIONS.

Re H. M. Baker, ex parte the City Bank of City. Mr. Leibius (Messrs. Leibius, Black, and Way) appeared for the petitioning creditor. Adjourned to the 22nd inst.

Re William Laurence, ex parte the Australian Bank of Commerce. Mr. Fisher (Messrs. Fisher and Macansh) appeared for the petitioning creditor. The respondent appeared in person. A sequestration order was granted, and Mr. W. H. Palmer appointed official assignee.

Re Etela Joseph Redman, ex parte the Permanent Trustee Company, Ltd., and Alice Redman. Mr. Dangar, instructed by Mr. S. M. Stephens, appeared for the petitioning creditors. Leave was granted to withdraw the petition.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE ORDER.

Re Delph Singh. Mr. Bonney, instructed by Mr. A. J. Grant, appeared for the applicant; and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. J. W. H. Houston, for the petitioning creditors. Adjourned to the 15th inst.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATIONS.

Robert Campbell, of Forest-road, Penshurst, storekeeper. Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee.

Silas Cook, of Burlington-road, Homebush, insurance traveller. Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee.

Re Robert Condie Sharman, of Nowra, foreman. Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

PRINTING TRADES BOARD.

Mr. T. M. Shakespeare, appearing for the N.S.W. Country Press Association, applied for the appointment, as employers' representative, of Mr. Jas. Ryan, proprietor of the Lithgow "Mercury," to the No. 2 Country Wages Board (Printing Trades Group), for compositors, vice Mr. J. Ryan resigned.

His Honor recommended the appointment.

SPECIAL DEMARCATION BOARD.

The Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association, represented by Mr. Claude Thompson, applied for the constitution of a special demarcation board to delimit the work of the assemblers and coachmakers. Mr. F. Edwards appeared for the Coachmakers' Society, Mr. Bretnall for the Railway Commissioners, and Mr. A. Bryant for the Australasian Society of Engineers. It was held for the applicant association that as much of the work taken away from the assemblers was skilled work they feared that eventually their status would be reduced.

In dismissing the application, his Honor said that, while he could quite understand Mr. Thompson's contention that the men he represented had a substantial grievance and felt themselves injured, the case was one that was not contemplated by the legislature, and could not be brought without an undue straining of the Act, and section 18, sub-section 6, of it, dealing with the constitution of special or demarcation boards. While it was an application dealing with two bodies of workers in the employ of one employer, it was really a complaint against the action of the employer, because it was by his authority that the alteration complained of had been made. In the circumstances the demarcation board, if granted, would be useless, because of the position of the employer as affecting the two bodies of workers concerned; he would simply have to side with one body or the other. By straining the words of the section, and by taking what was an unjustifiable view of the powers of the Court, he could, no doubt, direct the constitution of the board, but it would be a useless procedure. There were other ways of settling the dispute. Application could be made to vary the awards, although he could not say that it would be granted. As to the rights of an employer, he could not see that such person was doing anything wrong in reorganising the work of his establishment if his workers were willing to undertake particular parts of the work, and if it suited him that they should do so. He (his Honor) could not see how the employer could be blamed if he could have his work better performed, by dismissing one-half of his staff, for instance, and entirely reorganising his work, and redistributing the work to be done over the other half. Essentially the complaint in this case was against an employer for doing what he had the right to do.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

DEFENCE NOT CALLED ON.

Samuel Glossop (32) pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with having feloniously slain William Alexander Anderson. He was defended by Mr. Monahan (instructed by Mr. L. S. Woolcott). The case for the Crown was that accused was a taxi-driver, and that about dusk on May 19 last he was driving to Bondi with two other men. A collision occurred between the car and a sulky in Oxford-street, which was being driven towards Sydney by a man named Kemp. The sulky was smashed, and a man named Coffey was thrown out. The motor car pulled up at Park-parade, and it was discovered then that Anderson, one of the occupants, was injured. He was taken to the hospital, where he died at 4 a.m. next day. At the close of the Crown case the jury intimated that they did not require to hear anything in defence, and returned a verdict of not guilty. Glossop was thereupon discharged.

HOWELL-PRICE CASE POSTPONED.

The hearing of a further charge of forgery and uttering preferred against David Clayton Howell-Price was postponed till the next sittings, on the application of the accused. Mr. Manning, on behalf of the Crown, offered no objection. The prisoner said he had made application in May last for the appointment of counsel for his defence.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and juries.)

Mr. A. F. Dawson for the Crown.

A FORGED ENDORSEMENT.

Thomas Harcourt Dempsey, who was convicted earlier in the week of false pretences, was further charged with having forged and uttered an endorsement on a cheque for £7/4/. He was defended by Mr. W. T. Coonan, and pleaded not guilty. The case for the Crown was that Dempsey, who had a house and land agency, collected £7 4s as rent for Dr. Veitch. He endorsed the cheque himself, and negotiated it. The defence was that Dempsey put the name of Dr. Veitch on the cheque, believing that he had a just right to do so, as he was Dr. Veitch's agent. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and accused was remanded for sentence.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL CHARGED.

Alexander Lindsay Robertson pleaded not guilty to a charge of having uttered forged acquittances and receipts for money on February 28 and March 1, respectively. Accused was defended by Mr. F. Fanker. The case for the Crown was that while foreman for a Public Works Department in connection with the building of a Public school at Penrith he submitted to the department wages sheets with the name of Ray Jordan on them against certain amounts for wages. Jordan gave evidence that he did not sign the quittances, and did not work on the days in question. Accused, in defence, said he paid the money over to the employees engaged just as was his duty. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and he was discharged.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

SCULPTOR'S CLAIM.

Nelson Illingworth, sculptor, sued George Abbott and Son, potters, of Five Dock, in connection with an alleged breach of contract. The plaintiff's case was that injuries were done to a certain mould which he had supplied to the defendants in order to make a number of vases according to his design. The vases were to be made to the order of Mr. Bruce Smith, M.P. The defendants pleaded that there was no order for the vases, but that they were only making experiments for the plaintiff. Mr. H. G. Edwards, instructed by Mr. W. Arnott, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. M'Kean, instructed by Mr. N. Gregg, for the defendant. A verdict was found for the plaintiff for £36, the amount claimed.

FAIR FINANCE.

More so than in any other, the basis of all financial transactions should be fairness and mutual confidence. In our dealings with the public, we have always striven to attain this end. We think that the success of our business and the numbers of our well satisfied customers are complete demonstration of the confidence with which this business is regarded. You should be most careful at all times to transact your financial business with people whom you feel you can trust. We guarantee to our customers easy terms, quick accommodation, courtesy, privacy, and consideration. We transact financial business of every kind, and make advances in town or country against furniture, life policies, deeds of vacant land or property, interests under wills, war loan bonds or certificates, bond warrants, Starr-Bowkett shares, Civil Service pensions, shares in companies, second mortgages, or any acceptable security. We also make advances on promissory notes to approved applicants. All applications, personally or by letter, receive immediate consideration.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

MAKES OLD RAZORS SHAVE LIKE NEW.

A Sharp Razor is its own reward to the man who shaves himself, yet how to keep it sharp, with tough beards, has always been the great obstacle, for the average man does not know how to set or sharpen a Razor. The simple, yet expedient, PERFORATED HONE solves the question permanently; it provides a lifetime of easy shaving for a small outlay—only 4/, or post free 4/4. TRY THE PERFORATED HONE 30 DAYS—past bad shaves will be only a memory. Unless you find it leaves a smooth cutting edge on your Razor that feels like silk on your face return it at our expense, and get your money back immediately.

Sold by all leading Hardware Merchants at 4/, or post free 4/4, from
THE PERFORATED HONE CO.,
Dept. 19, 123 Sussex-street, Sydney.

ON THE LAND.

THE DAIRY INSPECTOR.

(BY H.A.T.)

The dairy farmer often regards himself as a very much aggrieved member of the community. He has undoubtedly to comply with (or infringe) more regulations emanating from more Government departments than any other class of farmer. He is probably subject to more tests and visited by more inspectors than falls to the lot of most men on the land. There are, indeed, those amongst them who declaim eloquently on the trials they are subjected to by reason of some inspector "laying down the law." Such a one will tell you that he built his dairy in such and such a way to satisfy one inspector, and then, to meet the objections of another, he had to make certain alterations or build a new one. Again, "one inspector tells me to put my drain so," he explains, "and, bless me, if a month or two later, I'm not told it's all wrong, and nothing will do but I must take it up and relay it." These grievances were not fancied, either, for there have often been cases of mistaken enthusiasm or officiousness on the part of some of the host of inspectors which have called down upon more than the one to blame a storm of malediction. Instances of incapacity to administer aright the regulations relating to dairies, stock, and ticks, have not been unheard of. So much is to be expected in every department. Taking the inspectors as a group, however, they have carried out their work surprisingly well. Especially has there been an improvement of late years, notwithstanding the increasing stringency of the regulations and their wider scope.

The class of men sent out into the dairying districts are generally well educated, well versed in the technicalities of their special department, and many of them have the additional advantage—for it is an advantage—of having had practical experience. The best inspectors, as a rule, are those who get "on the right side" of the farmer or stockman with whom he has to deal. By that it is not meant that he should overlook his delinquencies, if any, or slur over any weak points which lie at contrary purposes to the regulations under which he acts. But he tries to get the farmer's viewpoint and enter into his difficulties in a friendly spirit, and his best cue is to play the part of a discreet adviser. Where he meets "a snag," one who defies the law and all its works, and will pay heed to neither advice nor instructions, there is only one course, and that to demonstrate the meaning of the law. The dairy inspectors on the coast have to travel over many hundreds of miles in the course of their rounds. In the lower part of the North Coast, especially about Gloucester and the Upper Manning, the country to be traversed is exceedingly rough. The dairy farms, too, are often separated by high mountains, which necessitate many hours of laborious travel. The inspector frequently has to enter into all the troubles of the dairy farmer upon whom he calls. Perhaps the situation is far from meeting the requirements of the Dairy Act. The dairy may be ill-ventilated or wrongly constructed, the cleansing facilities may be inadequate, or the drains only such in name. These are matters which require attention, but they entail expense. The farmer has his side to present. He has had to face a drought with cheques from the factory hardly sufficient to pay household expenses, and a couple of his best milkers lost. There were interest to meet, new stock to buy, and other commitments which burden others than dairy farmers, and the inspector listens to the story, which he knows is probably all true. There is nothing to be gained by forcing matters in such a case, so he is advised to do his best with the alterations outlined. Each understands the other's point of view, and probably the next visit of the inspector shows that the necessary alterations are being effected. Much can be done with a give-and-take policy.

Some of the dairy inspectors—they had more to do with the veterinary side then—remember the days on the Manning River before the general introduction of the separator. There were about thirteen creameries on the Manning in those days, and one would see the farmers with their milk vans waiting outside for long periods while their milk was being separated. Now the separators are almost universal, and cream separation, collection, and manufacture have been brought to a high pitch of efficiency. Some of the old dairies were primitive affairs, but still a great advance on the sapling and bark huts where once the cans were stored. Nowadays the white-painted dairies, well ventilated and cool looking, are a familiar part of the landscape on the North Coast. The regulations relating to the sterilisation of the cream cans with steam or boiling water are stringent—and they need be—and more attention is paid to their conveyance in clean vessels to the factories, which themselves are subject to drastic regulations. All these things are working towards the elimination of second-grade cream, and the increase of pasteurisation is working towards the same object. The inspector has to keep an eye on diseases amongst stock, and veterinary science plays an important part in the work. Progress has been made in all these things, but still improvements are still possible, and will be made as the industry grows. Dirt, in various forms, is the greatest enemy to producing high-class butter, and in its elimination wonderful progress has been made. The dairy farmer who used to regard old grease in his dairy or in the cans as "clean dirt" has learned the lesson.

THE WOOL TRADE.

NINTH SERIES IN PROGRESS.

Catalogues comprising the ninth series of Sydney appraisements are being dealt with in two sections, and practically represent all the unappraised wool in the stores. The first round of the series will be brought to a conclusion on Wednesday, and the second round commences on the following day, without any break. All the catalogues comprise an overwhelming number of small lots, and include only a small proportion of attractive lines. Prices of wools already appraised will not be disclosed till the second round of the series is reached; then, as each catalogue is signed, priced catalogues will be issued, and returns will be due 14 days after date of appraisement. The current series close on June 20, after which there will be a short final series, to complete the acquisition scheme, opening on June 26, and closing at latest by June 29.

On June 30 the acquisition of wool under the Government scheme closes. What is to take place with regard to next season's wool production is not known. Doubtless the matter is being dealt with, and will be made public as soon after the close of the month as possible. It is exceedingly improbable that the Imperial Government will be disposed to allow next season's clip to be disposed of by auction and exported, even if such were possible with freight so scarce. The first reasonable assumption is that next season's wool will be acquired by the Federal Government for the Imperial authorities. Much of the fine wool would not be required for military purposes, but it becomes a valuable asset to hold against enemy acquisition, as well as to supply in safe quantities to allied countries and possibly to some neutrals.

INDICATIONS OF FURTHER ACQUISITION.

An indication of the course likely to be pursued is afforded by news from the United Kingdom and the United States by the last mail. In England the authorities have agreed to the formation of a body called the United Kingdom Association of Wool Textile Industries, to frame a policy acceptable to the Government in dealing with the wool and textile trades. Another indication is in the Imperial Government having an account taken of wool stocks and wool production in South Africa, which seems to be a preliminary to acquiring the South African wool production, in the same way as the Commonwealth and New Zealand clips were acquired in November last. A still further indication is the wool situation in the United States, where steps were taken last month to press on the Imperial authorities the justice of allowing Australian wools to be shipped direct to the United States. Japanese requirements of raw wool are also likely to be pressed with some vigour.

Fortunately there are these indications of further Imperial acquisition of wool; otherwise the prospects for the ensuing season would be of a very gloomy kind. The wool at present held in the stores is large, and leaves little, if any, room for the ensuing clip till appraised stocks move off. The British Government provides for freight, but to ship to the United Kingdom at present is difficult through want of space and the submarine menace. Absolute essentials besides wool have to find room in every steamer for the United Kingdom or European ports. This means till wool export widens by, say, shipments on a fairly large scale to the United States, Canada (for Europe), Japan, and possibly Russia, a considerable accumulation of wool in the stores at all centres. The Melbourne "Argus" on Thursday last, referring to the position in Victoria, said that "obviously brokers' stores in the near future will be taxed to their utmost capacity, and if no provision can be made for its disposal growers must shoulder their share of the burden, and as far as possible store their next clip at home, and thus obviate further congestion at the seaboard." That applies, as far as store space goes, to Brisbane and Sydney.

IF AMERICA SECURES SUPPLIES.

If under these circumstances the Imperial Government can sell, and the United States trade can ship, a good slice of the appraised wool before the next season's production comes forward in volume, the outlook for next season would improve in every way. The same remark applies, but perhaps in a less degree, to Japan. There is very little risk of loss in shipping wool to either America or Japan. As both are allies with Great Britain, both are concerned in withholding supplies from the enemy during the war, and till the future is secured afterwards. Fortunately the position with regard to early shipments of wool from Australia to the United States direct is good. While the British mission was in the United States the question of wool from Australia was made one of the leading ones, and steps were taken to give practical effect to the requests made.

Accompanying the Balfour Commission was Lord Eustace Percy, trade expert connected with the Foreign Office, and he was approached with regard to wool supplies from Australia. He promised to deal with the matter without delay; and, according to the "Textile World Journal" of May 5, he promised to confer with the trade on the subject. That journal says: "It is reported that Lord Percy, A. M. Patterson, of the Textile Alliance, Sir Richard Crawford, of the British Embassy, and Mr. Broderick, of the same Embassy, will participate in a most important conference with regard to the matter of securing wool from Australia. As to the exact date of this conference no official information is available at this writing, but it is expected that not only will such a meeting be held, but also that a conference between the British Mission and the committees appointed by the two manufacturers' associations and the wool trades of Boston, Philadelphia, and New York will be held within a few days.

VALUES RISING WITH SHIPPING PROSPECTS.

Commenting on the probability of wool going from Australasia direct at an early date in considerable quantities, the same journal remarked:—"Wool values continue to soar, despite the fact that the domestic trade is morally certain that the British embargo upon Australasian wools will be so modified as to allow this country to import within the next few months considerably more than the 50,000 bales originally allotted us. The trade is prepared to hear that this quantity will be doubled; yet they are now talking of the possibility of a two and a half dollar basis for fine merino combing wools instead of the old prospective basis of two dollars.

QUESTION OF PRICE AND DELIVERY.

Another trade journal, referring to a special committee going from Boston to Washington to urge upon Great Britain the necessity of releasing Australian wool for the United States, pointed out how manufacturers had hope deferred during the past 12 months, but now were sure, since the United States was an ally, of impressing upon the British Commissioners the American need for wool, and the justice of being allowed to secure it direct. The "Wool and Cotton Reporter," also saying—"Australian wools are, of course, of the finest quality and would not, except in case of absolute necessity, be used in the manufacture of soldiers' and sailors' equipment. However, there is a use for any amount which may be released, and any increase of the present generally decreasing supply would help wonderfully to improve the situation. In case Great Britain does agree to let us have some Australian or other colonial wool, there remains to be considered the matter of price and delivery. The cost of wool itself and its shipment is a small item in comparison with its value to this country. There is however, the chance that some of the wool which might be shipped would never arrive. Whatever the difficulties, let us hope that the present acute situation is about to be relieved."

FOURTH BRISBANE APPRAISEMENTS.

According to Brisbane reports, the offerings at the fourth series of appraisements showed a slight improvement, the wools generally being light in condition, of better colour, and less faulty, although still carrying a fair quantity of dust and vegetable matter. Some central district wools were rather short, being under 12 months' growth; some were broader in fibre than usual owing to prolific growth of herbage seed. The wools from Clermont, Emerald, and Springsure districts were again disappointing, being dull, part discoloured, dusty, and thin in staple. The work in connection with the appraising ran smoothly and was proving efficient.

If next season's growing conditions are normal it is anticipated that the Queensland clip will be sound, of fairly good growth, better in colour, less dusty, and probably less faulty, but broader in fibre and heavier in condition than the clip for the season now closing. The quantity appraised at the last series and catalogued by each firm of selling brokers was as follows:—

Selling Brokers.	Bales.
Australian Estates and Mortgage Co., Ltd.	1,206
Australian Mercantile Land and F. Co., Ltd.	1,841
John Bridge and Co., Ltd.	1,782
Dalgety and Co., Ltd.	6,164
Fenwick and Co.	487

NEXT WEEK'S SYDNEY ROSTER.

The order of appraisements in Sydney next week includes the first round, which terminates on Wednesday; and the second, which opens on Thursday, and continues on the following day, the order being as follows:—

Monday, June 11.—Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd.; Schute, Bell, and Co., Ltd.
Tuesday, June 12.—Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd.
Wednesday, June 13.—Dalgety and Co., Ltd.; Hill, Clark, and Co., Ltd.
Thursday, June 14.—John Bridge and Co., Ltd.; Country Producers' Selling Co., Ltd.; Co-operative Wool and Produce Co., Ltd.
Friday, June 15.—Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Ltd.; Australian Mercantile, Land, and Finance Co., Ltd.; New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Co., Ltd.

SYDNEY WOOL APPRAISED.

The quantity of greasy and scoured wool appraised in Sydney, according to the figures compiled by the State wool committee, in each of the series, up to the eighth, is as follows:—

Series.	Greasy. Bales.	Scoured. Bales.	Bales.
First	53,624	4,335	57,959
Second	47,050	3,410	50,460
Third	46,306	2,933	49,239
Fourth	44,393	6,765	51,158
Fifth	45,037	8,766	53,803
Sixth	47,541	8,276	55,817
Seventh	25,407	3,469	28,876
Eighth	40,389	8,283	48,672
Total	350,007	46,246	396,253

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Last week's features of wool arrivals were repeated this week; there was a moderate increase by rail, and a substantial increase in the receipts by boat, compared to the corresponding week last year. The increase by rail indicates the endeavour to get all wool in for the closing appraisements; and the increase by boat, further supplies of wool from previous Brisbane appraisements for treating at the local scouring establishments. The quantity for the week, and for the season to date, compares with the corresponding period last year as follows:—

BY RAIL.

Season.	June 3-8. Bales.		July 1-June 8. Bales.
1916-17	1652		631,915
1915-16	906		595,800
Increase	746	Increase	36,115

BY BOAT.

Season.	June 3-8. Bales.		July 1-June 8. Bales.
1916-17	4,042		107,612
1915-16	175		92,919
Increase	3,867	Increase	14,693

Total onboard increase for season to date, 50,808 bales.

HORSE BREEDING.

BATHURST.—A proposal for Government assistance in horse-breeding throughout the State was discussed at the last meeting of the Bathurst A. H. and P. Association, the matter coming up through the receipt of a letter from the secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society. Mr. Somer forwarded the following resolution passed by his committee:—"In the opinion of this committee a percentage of the receipts by the State from the use of totalisators on the racecourses should be allotted to the agricultural societies, to be devoted to the improvement of the horse stock of New South Wales, through subsidies to improved stallions; each of the agricultural societies, or each of certain groups of the societies, to be subsidised in accordance with the requirements of the respective districts; the societies to be bound to appoint competent selection committees to select sires, and also to place those sires at the service of breeders at the lowest possible fees. It should also be the duty of the agricultural societies to ensure that only selected mares should be put to the subsidised sires." The meeting decided to co-operate in the matter.

EGG-LAYING COMPETITION.

The following are the returns in each section of the egg-laying competition, 1917-1918, at the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, up to June 5, with the figures for the period June 1 to 5, inclusive, shown in parentheses:—

QUEEN'S JUBILEE FUND.

Lady Cullen presided over the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Queen's Jubilee Fund yesterday in the board-room of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company.

The report showed that the endowment fund had reached £20,713 13s 2d. During the year 133 applications for relief had been received, and 115 applicants were assisted to the extent of £741 9s. The council reluctantly accepted the resignation of Mrs. George Harris on the ground of ill-health, and unanimously resolved that Mrs. Harris be appointed one of the vice-presidents. In May a resolution was carried to the effect that as so many of the members were engaged in war work, which prevented their regular attendance at meetings, it was expedient to appoint substitute members to act for them. Mrs. F. W. Brennan, Mrs. Murray Campbell, Mrs. Milner Stephen, and Mrs. Worrall consented to act, and were elected. Mrs. Kelso King was elected to the vacancy caused by Mrs. Harris's resignation.

The council acknowledged the receipt of £150 from the trustees of the Walter and Eliza Hall trust, being a special increase of £50 for the year, which enabled the hon. treasurers to pay £50 into the endowment fund.

In moving the adoption of the report Mr. T. F. Knox said that the endowment had been increased by £53, and if the interest kept up the trustees would be able to make the same allowance to the council as heretofore. The council has certainly made the most of the money at its disposal. The meeting was a formal one, and invitations had not been issued, as it was recognised that there was a great strain upon everybody.

Sir Thomas Dibbs seconded the motion, and the report was adopted.

Mr. G. J. Cohen proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies who had done so much work in considering the merits of the applications for relief.

Sir James Fairfax supported the motion.

Mrs. A. J. Riley moved that a vote of thanks be accorded to the trustees, which was acknowledged by Sir Thomas Hughes, M.L.C.

A vote of thanks to Lady Cullen, proposed by Sir Thomas Hughes, was carried by acclamation.

R. D. MEAGHER TESTIMONIAL.

Mr. William Brooks, M.L.C., president of the Employers' Federation, occupied the chair at a meeting yesterday in the Hotel Australia to initiate a testimonial to Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C., Lord Mayor.

On the motion of Alderman R. W. Richards (ex-Lord Mayor) the following were appointed to carry out the movement:—Chairman, Mr. William Brooks, M.L.C.; hon. secretaries, Mr. William Lowe and Mr. Sam. Bowden; hon. treasurers, Mr. W. T. Willington and Mr. William Brooks; executive committee, Mr. D. R. Hall, M.L.A., Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, M.L.C., Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., Mr. P. T. Taylor, M.L.C., Mr. H. D. M'Intosh, M.L.C., Messrs Samuel Hordern, Hugh J. Ward, Leonard Dodds, G. T. Clarke, J. Gardiner, T. J. Hitchman, Neville Mayman, A. F. Pritchard (president, Institute of Architects), P. O'Loughlin (president of the United Friendly Societies), L. Courtney, Alderman R. W. Richards, and Alderman T. H. Barlow.

Cheques to the amount of £250 were received.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

In connection with the forthcoming municipal elections it is pointed out that the name, address, and occupation of a candidate must appear on the nomination paper, and that the name must agree with that on the roll. The explanation is made in view of a statement that the address and occupation in the nomination paper must correspond with the address and occupation given on the roll. This is incorrect.

GLARING INCONSISTENCY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the report of the Labour Conference in your issue of to-day the following appears:—

> Mr. Hunt (Parramatta P.L.L.) moved as follows:—"New rule: That any person expelled from the P.L.L. for supporting the conscription issue recently before the Commonwealth electors shall not at any future time, under any pretence, be readmitted to membership of the P.L.L."

Now, Sir, in order to expose the glaring inconsistency of the Parramatta League on this matter, kindly permit me to quote a resolution which was carried, and carried unanimously, too, by its members prior to the referendum being taken on the conscription issue. It reads as follows:—

> That this league, while being opposed to the conscription of human life, does not agree with the proposed action of the executive in withholding endorsement to any candidate who advocates conscription. That, although conference decided by a large majority for the executive so to act, we hold that such resolution, being an alteration of the pledge, should have appeared on the agenda paper, according to rule 42, whereas such resolution was carried by a suspension of the standing orders for same.

Further comment, I am sure, is unnecessary, as both resolutions speak for themselves.

I am, etc., GEO. J. SHEA,

THE PAPER SHORTAGE.

"Herald" readers spending their holidays at Tourist Resorts will have difficulty in getting the paper unless they order in advance.

The newsagents cannot keep supplies for casual sales without risk of loss, as unsolds will not be returnable after July 1.

Before going on holidays readers should leave orders for the "Herald" with the publisher at the Head Office, and he will arrange with the local newsagent for supply.

JOHN FAIRFAX & SONS, LTD.

TO READERS OF THE "HERALD."

The shortage of paper is forcing upon the publishers of daily papers a new system of sale to the newsagents.

Hitherto, daily papers have been supplied to agents "on sale or return." In normal times this has been profitable to the sellers and a convenience to the public.

But now all materials are difficult to obtain owing to lack of shipping, and have reached unheard-of prices.

Therefore, as from July 1, the system of "on sale or return" will be discontinued till further notice.

In order to avoid loss, the newsagent must adjust his supplies to the actual demand. In this course we ask the co-operation of our readers. If they will place regular orders with their agents, or with the street vendors from whom they customarily buy, they will save inconvenience to themselves and loss to the agents.

JOHN FAIRFAX & SONS, LTD.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES TO "S. M. HERALD."

The subscription to "S. M. Herald" to any address in the Commonwealth, including postage, is as follows:—

AIMS OF THE ALLIES.

It is a fortunate coincidence by which the most recent confirmation of the union subsisting between the Western Allies has been made simultaneously with the beginning of another great battle. The British attack will assure friend and foe alike of the thoroughness of the British preparations, of their adequacy, and of their persistence. The enemy will no longer believe that his possession of reinforcements will secure him a respite from the offensive, much less its permanent abandonment. The votes of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, confirmed by an official statement in the House of Commons, will compel the German Government to recognise that the failure of Russia has in no way depressed the Allies, or modified their terms. There will be an end now to any idea of peace by negotiation. France has announced that she will not make peace until Alsace and Lorraine are restored, and Great Britain supports her. No Minister and no party in Germany would have asked their countrymen to join in such a surrender, even when there seemed every prospect of large Russian armies giving their help to the offensive of this summer. Before the Government could allow the cession of the two provinces to be proclaimed in its terms of peace, it would have to admit that its army was utterly defeated, and that the Allies were in a position to dictate their own terms. The tangible value of the provinces to Germany is to be found in the mineral wealth of Lorraine, and in the positions from which France can be attacked. But it would be easier for a German Government to hand back the French iron mines than to make the confession which would be involved in hauling down their flag from the towns of Strasburg and Metz. The conquered provinces are a symbol of the triumph of Prussian militarism, and of the defeat of all those ideals for which the present war is being fought. Lorraine is inhabited by a people of exclusively French descent; Alsace by a people of mixed origin, but devoutly French in their sympathies. The two provinces have been held by German administrators in the manner best calculated to exhibit in peace the character which has been exhibited in war by the German soldiers. The Germans have never thought of trusting the inhabitants to govern themselves, or of attempting to win their friendship. They have preferred to rely on that alternation of bribery, cajolery, oppression, and terrorism which, with varying emphasis, has been employed in Belgium. The most notorious exhibition of the military spirit was, of course, the Zabern affair, which taught the whole world the dominance of the military class and the impotence of Parliament. But the Zabern affair was only a peculiarly brutal instance of the spirit which Prussian officers have shown to their Alsatian recruits. The Government was, of course, efficient. The provinces were provided with the best administrators, among whom was the present Imperial Minister for Finance; and the connection between the iron mines of Lorraine and the factories of the Rhine Valley, the investment of German capital in the Alsatian mills, have made the inhabitants relatively more wealthy than their fathers were as French citizens.

But the inhabitants have never been anything but a conquered people; they have had no nationality and none of the privileges of the German States. They have been exiles for forty years, governed in the interests and contributing to the prosperity of a nation to which all their sympathies were opposed. The two provinces furnish indications of the differences in character between the two peoples other than those which may be derived from methods of government. In the controversy fought out in 1870 between Mommsen and the French historian Fustel de Coulanges, who had been a professor at Strasburg, Mommsen, claimed that Alsace was German property. Fustel de Coulanges answered, "We do not say Strasburg is ours: we say it is with us." The French have ever since founded their claims on the belief that the destinies of a people are governed not by territory, but by souls. The people of Alsace, though not French in origin, gave Napoleon some of his greatest generals, and when he could not defend them in 1814 they fought by themselves in order to retain their French citizenship. In 1870 the inhabitants left their homes in thousands rather than accept the German yoke, some to Belfort, others to colonies of their own in Algeria. Many times in the last forty years there were signs that Frenchmen, with a few exceptions, had abandoned the idea of going to war for the purpose of recovering the lost provinces. Such signs were interpreted and emphasised by the German Government in the hope of thereby destroying the spirit of nationality. But war had no sooner broken out than it was apparent how zealously the French had obeyed the command of Gambetta not to speak of the conquered provinces, but always to remember them in their hearts. The signs of mourning were taken from the Strasburg monument because the work of liberation had begun, not because any responsible Frenchman thought that it would be easy. The sense of inferiority in brute strength and military science with which the war had begun vanished after the Battle of the Marne. The national characteristics of the one country were then matched against those of the other, and the French triumphed. There is the same contrast of spirit in the struggle for these lost provinces. The French seek to restore a political unity among the elements which have for centuries been united in spirit. The virtues by which they will succeed are their invulnerable courage and their sense of humanity. Bismarck, who knew the failings of his countrymen, warned them against incorporating a hostile element in their new empire. He knew that in no process of time would German officials win the loyalty of a conquered people. The French, by their ideal of fraternity, won from the people of Alsace a loyalty which has survived the severest trials. That loyalty, together with the admiration of the whole world, will be deepened by the gesture with which France has affirmed her first resolve at a time when her people have suffered the heaviest losses of their manhood, and are enduring the greatest privations, and when her traditional ally threatens to desert her.

QUITE ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

For the past week there has been sitting in Sydney a conference of delegates of the Political Labour League, and we have heard speeches and seen resolutions carried of a character which may well make all of us blush who care for the fair fame of this land. It would be wrong to condemn all the members of the P.L.L. conference, and still more wrong would it be to identify the great-hearted, clear-thinking section of the working classes with these extraordinary outpourings; nevertheless, there is a danger that the conference may be taken as fully representative of Labour in this State. It has been claimed by some of the speakers that the great majority of Australian soldiers who have realised their duty and gone to the front have come from the ranks of the workers, and one gentleman declared that 90 per cent. of our soldiers were drawn from the workers. The more there are, the worse the case of these men who, instead of throwing their weight into the recruiting movement and helping to send reinforcements to their fellow-unionists, are talking about "stopping the war" and babbling about the green fields of peace. A great actor has divided the world into two classes, the actors and the critics, and it may well be claimed that there is ground for dividing trades unionists into two classes—the workers and the talkers. The men who voluntarily offered their services in this war, and are now fighting on the side of the greatest union the world has ever seen, were men who realised that this great war between opposing ideals—world-domination on the one hand and world-freedom on the other—was not to be won by talk, but by deeds. And the duty of those who remain at home, if they must remain at home, is to do all that in them lies to help to bring the war to a victorious conclusion. To talk about peace when there is no peace is so much beating of the air. So we turn to quite another conference for some indication of real help. We refer to the conference of delegates from the various patriotic organisations throughout Australia, which are known conjointly as the Australian Comforts Fund. The business of the conference, which was opened at the Town Hall yesterday and included representatives of the Defence Department and the A.I.F., is not only to review the work of the past, but to consider future operations, such as the despatch of comforts for the Australian troops and the general campaign for Christmas comforts. With our knowledge of the limited tonnage now available, we do not need to be told that the question of despatching the goods which a generous people provides for our soldiers was becoming a serious one.

There are, as we have said on more than one occasion, three great organisations which are doing wonderful work in this war—the Red Cross, the Y.M.C.A., and the Comforts Fund. Whilst the wounded and sick are the concern of the Red Cross, the Comforts Fund concerns itself only with the men who are fit and well. It exists primarily for the purpose of "keeping the fit men fit" by sending comforts to them that they would not otherwise get; and that surely is a very real military service. The War Chest Club in London, where thousands of our soldiers meet, eat, and sleep every week, is another instance of valuable service; and the coffee-stalls at the front furnish still another evidence of splendid work. It is not long since General Birdwood reported that half an hour after a certain German trench was taken an Australian coffee-stall had been established in the trench and was ministering to the needs of our soldiers. The War Chest commissioners and those who work under them have shown that they are prepared to face danger for the sake of the fighting men, and we remember well how seven orderlies attached to the Comforts Fund unit were killed at Bapaume. We shall never know exactly how much we owe to this fund, but it is certain that the debt is a very large one. There never was an organisation in which the public had more confidence than the Citizens' War Chest of Sydney, which is the chief of all the funds embraced under the general term of the Australian Comforts Fund. Started by business men, it has continued under the management of business men, and its policy has been to spend the money that comes to it as fast as it is received—sometimes faster. There have been times when the War Chest was practically without a penny in the bank, but the committee knew that they had only to appeal to the citizens and more funds would come in. And it is all honorary work—the work of men who are doing what they can as patriotic citizens to help to win the war. A recognised military unit, the Australian Comforts Fund has despatched to our soldiers goods to the value of several hundreds of thousands of pounds; and at the present moment there is what Mr. E. A. Holden, the honorary treasurer of the War Chest, describes as a "mound" of 80,000 pairs of socks awaiting shipment in Sydney, whilst there is a similarly large quantity in Melbourne. These socks have been made in the course of a few weeks, in response to a special request. They are a gift to our soldiers, not from the capitalists referred to so often at the P.L.L. Conference, but from the mothers and wives, the sisters and sweethearts of the brave men at the front who are fighting their battle for them and the battle of the men who stay at home. "Capitalists" and the workers are all interested in this war, and in seeing that it is brought to a victorious end. And so by the side of the loyal workers of this land, fighting in the trenches in France to-day, are the loyal sons of the so-called "moneyed classes." Mansion and cottage are both represented. Into them both has come the dreaded message that has plunged them into mourning; and from them both still go forth the sons that remain to avenge the death of those who are no more. Shall we, then, pay heed to those who, fearful lest they may be sent where others have gone of their own free will, cry "Stop the war" and "Give us peace?" Shall we not rather say, in the spirit of our great dead, as the President of the United States put it in his speech to Congress on April 2, that "right is more precious than peace?" Which of the two conferences to which we have referred represents the real spirit of the Australian people—that of the Christians and Faithfuls, the Hopefuls and Greathearts, or that of the Faintheartes and Ignorances, the Much-afraids, and the Turnaways, who dwell in the town of Apostasy?

CRANBROOK TO BE SOLD.

It was stated yesterday on most reliable authority that the Government has decided to sell the property known as "Cranbrook," at Rose Bay, which was used for some time as the official residence of the State Governor.

NURSES WANTED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A report dealing with the present position of the nursing profession in Australia has been submitted to the Minister for Defence by the Director-General of Medical Services (General Fetherston). In it he points out that up to the present 1727 nurses have left Australia for service abroad, while 364 are under orders to embark, making a total of 2091. More than 1000 of these, however, have been loaned to Great Britain, and the demand for trained nurses by the Imperial authorities is still said to be practically unlimited. In order to supply this demand, the Director-General suggests that it would be of great assistance if the large public hospitals were to reduce the training course from four years to three years. He considers that three years should be ample time for nurses to acquire a thorough practical training, and asserts that under present conditions nurses in public hospitals are subjected, under the cloak of charity, to the grossest forms of sweating, both as regards rates of pay and hours worked. The addition of an extra year to their training period is merely carrying the system of sweating still further. Of the total number of nurses who have left Australia, General Fetherston states, Victoria and New South Wales had each supplied one-third, the remainder coming from the other States. Although they were all equipped, trained, and paid by the Commonwealth authorities, not more than 800 or 900 were working in purely Australian units. Of those who were working for the Imperial authorities, 300 were in India, and 90 would shortly sail for Salonica, where they would form the entire nursing staff for four large Imperial hospitals. Others were stationed in England and France and on Imperial hospital ships. The work done by the Australian nurses had been universally praised. Their health had been very good. Only eight had died, while 25 had been discharged on account of ill-health. At the end of last year it was estimated that 1100 nurses in Australia were available for service oversea; 600 had since been called up; so that there are 400 or 500 still available. This did not take into account those nurses who had volunteered during 1917, and, as probably 200 passed their final examination in Australia each year, it would be seen that as far as the Australian army nursing service was concerned, the demand could easily be supplied. There was an urgent demand for nurses by the Imperial authorities, and General Fetherston is of the opinion that Australia should help in this direction to the fullest possible extent. In conclusion, the Director-General expresses the opinion that, if the conditions under which pupil nurses are trained are improved, so as to ensure that they shall be paid adequately and shall not be sweated, it will have the effect of making the hospitals alter their arrangements promptly. If the training period were reduced to three years in all hospitals it would increase the number of nurses available for military duty by about 200. The alteration could not be effected without some little delay, as the hospitals would require time to fill their staffs; but he suggests that unless action is at once taken to prevent it there is a danger that some of the hospitals, where the training course now extends over three years, will endeavour to increase it by 12 months.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor received an official call from the Rev. J. E. Carruthers, D.D., president-general of the Methodist Church of Australasia.

Further slight improvement was observed yesterday in the condition of Judge Pickburn.

At the Wentworth Hotel yesterday Alderman R. W. Richards entertained Mr. Richard Teece at luncheon. About 50 prominent citizens were assembled. Mr. Teece's health was proposed by Mr. Fuller, Acting Premier, and supported by Mr. J. Russell French, and the toast of "The Host" was proposed by Mr. David Storey, M.L.A. Amongst others present were the Lord Mayor of Sydney (Mr. Meagher, M.L.C.), Sir Thomas Dibbs, Messrs. H. H. Massie, S. Hordern, A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., H. E. Pratten (Senator-elect), Wm. Brooks, M.L.C., J. J. Cohen (Speaker of the Legislative Assembly), David Hill, C. Grahame, Leonard Dodds, W. G. Layton, E. C. Budge, Dr. Norman Zions, Alderman J. Spencer Brunton, Alderman T. H. Barlow, J. Felix Booth, John Stinson, Geo. Williamson, W. F. L. Bailey, W. Newall, W. Alderson, and P. Booth.

Lady McMillan was yesterday elected president of the National Council of Women, vice Lady Strickland.

Mr. E. R. Dovey, formerly of Sydney, has been appointed Government Analyst at Hongkong. He is in charge of the laboratory, and is also lecturer on chemistry at the Technical College. Mr. Dovey, who is only 28 years of age, took his degree at the Royal College of Science, London, and has published particulars of original improvements in chemical processes. He is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dovey, of Roseville.

At a meeting of the employees in Sydney of Lever Brothers, Ltd., yesterday, it was decided to despatch a cablegram to Lord Leverhulme, Port Sunlight, congratulating him on his elevation to the baronage.

Miss Bessie Somerville, B.Sc., has been appointed demonstrator of zoology at the Sydney University.

Mr. Walter E. Gates, superintendent of the New South Wales branch of the Northern Assurance Company, Ltd., has retired after 35 years' service, 20 years of which were spent in a managerial capacity. He was entertained by the Fire, Marine, and Accident Underwriters' Associations on the 1st inst., and presented with a bookcase containing 25 volumes of the Historians' History of the World, and a portable typewriter. Mr. Gates' staff also farewelled him with a dinner and theatre party on the 31st ult., and presented him with an illuminated address. The committee of the Insurance Brokers' Association said an official good-bye at afternoon-tea at Farmer's on the 6th inst. Mr. Gates has been succeeded by Mr. D. J. Locke, who has been in the company's service for 31 years past.

RETURNING SICK AND WOUNDED.

Additional wounded and sick soldiers will come overland from Melbourne on Sunday morning.

The first train will arrive at 8 a.m. with Queenslanders and 10 New Zealanders. They will be driven direct to Rose Hall, Forbes-street, Darlinghurst, where the New Zealand men will remain until they leave for the dominion. The Queenslanders will remain for luncheon at 12 noon, and will leave by a special train at 1.35 p.m. Their relatives may visit them during the morning in the grounds at Rose Hall.

The second train will arrive with New South Wales men at 9.10 a.m. They will be driven direct to the Anzac Buffet, where their relations (who have obtained tickets from the staff officer for invalids) will meet them. They will receive their pay, and will be allowed to go away on leave. The names of cot cases, if any, will be posted at the buffet as soon as the train arrives.

The third train will arrive with New South Wales men at 9.40 a.m. They will be driven direct to the Anzac Buffet, arrangements being the same as detailed for the second train.

Red Cross motors, numbering from 101 to 154, inclusive, are requested to be at the Chalmers-street entrance to the railway platform at five to 8 a.m. Cars numbering from 155 to 228 are requested to be at the same place at 9 a.m.

WHEAT SCRIP ON 'CHANGE.

Wheat scrip was quoted on 'Change yesterday at the noon call and afterwards. The opening quotation was 1915-16 pool, buyer [illegible], seller 7d per bushel; 1916-17 pool, buyer [illegible], seller [illegible]. Afterwards buyers of 1915-16 pool offered 6½d, but otherwise there was no change. There is now an open market for the scrip, and competition will ensure the scrip being sold at its highest value compatible with a sufficient return to the buyer for the time he is money out of pocket, and for the risk he runs. Definite quantities named in the scrip must change hands; the scrip cannot be split. It is understood that the quantity offered was not large, sellers being desirous of feeling their way.

THE MAILS.

Mails for the United Kingdom will close at the General Post Office at 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

BRITISH ADVANCE

NINE MILES FRONT PENETRATED

5000 PRISONERS TAKEN

ANZAC TROOPS PARTICIPATING

LONDON, June 8.

The following two reports from Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, issued yesterday, and soon after midnight last night, give particulars of an important advance by the British in the Wytschaete salient. The scene of the operations is in Belgium, just across the Franco-Belgian border, between Ypres and Lille.

WEDNESDAY, ISSUED 12.45 P.M.:—

We attacked at 3.10 this morning the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge, over a front of nine miles. We everywhere captured our first objectives. The further progress reported is satisfactory along the whole of the front attacked. Numbers of prisoners are coming in.

THURSDAY, ISSUED 1.5 A.M.:—

Our operations southward of Ypres were continued methodically all day, and were completely successful.

We stormed, in the morning, the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge, which for 2½ years has dominated our positions in the Ypres salient.

We captured the villages of Messines and Wytschaete, and also the defence systems of many strongly-organised woods and defended localities on a front of nine miles, from southward of La Douve Brook to northward of Mont Sorrel.

Later, we again advanced in accordance with our plan, and carried the village of Oosttaverne (1½ mile east of Wytschaete), and also the enemy's rearward defences to the eastward of the village, on a front of five miles.

Our artillery broke up an attempted counter-attack against the southern portion of our new positions.

The enemy's casualties were heavy. By 4.30 p.m. over 5000 prisoners had been brought in, and others are not yet counted.

We captured a number of guns and many trench mortars and machine-guns, which have not been counted.

There was great activity in the air, and many air fights. We dispersed five hostile formations—one which consisted of over 30 machines—with heavy casualties. Nine German aeroplanes were brought down, and at least nine others were driven down out of control. Six of ours are missing.

GERMAN REPORTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report issued on Thursday morning states:—Between Ypres and Armentieres an artillery battle has raged since yesterday with undiminished violence. The English attacked this morning in Flanders. Strong English attacks at Hulluch, Loos, Lievin, and Roeux failed.

A German official report, issued late on Thursday night, says: The enemy has broken into our foremost position in the zone of the Wytschaete salient. A fluctuating battle continues violently.

LIGHT CASUALTIES.

Mr. Percival Phillips telegraphs: Considering the importance of the operations our casualties were light. The victory is a triumph for the stanch Australian and New Zealand battalions.

OTHER REPORTS.

The correspondent of the United Press at British headquarters telegraphs:—"The British infantry this morning attacked on a 12-mile front, from the Ypres salient to Armentieres. Everything is going well. We have already wrested from the Germans Messines Ridge, dominating the whole north end of the line. The Germans had held Messines since October, 1914. The British are now in possession of the town.

"Prisoners are coming in at a great rate, and already there are over a thousand. Many tanks were used with great success in this attack. The British have taken also Battlewood, Linferwood, Neray Farm, and Pheasant Wood, and the villages of Hospice and Zareeba. The British are still advancing. Prisoners state that they never experienced anything like the British artillery."

An unofficial account states:—English, Irish, Australians, and New Zealanders took part in the great, new offensive. There had never been such mining. 1,000,000lb of explosives having been laid during the past year, and this was used. The British gas shells silenced the German batteries. Our progress has been excellent.

GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF BATTLE.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, official correspondent at the British headquarters, telegraphed as follows on Thursday night:—The Battle of Messines, which began to-day at dawn, was more audacious than the battles of Vimy and Arras, because of the vast strength of the enemy's positions. The massed gunfire was greater in intensity than any previously experienced. Our troops are now fighting forward through a smoke mist. English, New Zealanders, and Irish, Protestants and Catholics, fighting shoulder to shoulder in an invisible world, and sending up lights to show their progress to the men flying high above the storms of battle, made good progress up the slopes of Wytschaete and Messines. Prisoners are already telling how the British swept over and beyond the German positions.

The day goes well. The Messines Ridge for two and a half years has been the cause of our men holding the Ypres salient. The Germans here had stacked guns, with every kind of explosive, against us.

Before our men rose from the trenches at daybreak the enemy's country was heaved up by a wild tornado of gunfire. The contours of the land were changed. The sky opened and poured down shrieking steel. The earth was torn and let forth flame.

YEAR'S PREPARATION.

The battle only started after the most complete preparation known to military science. It is no exaggeration to say that the preparations began a year ago when the miners commenced excavating tunnels and laying the tremendous explosive ammonal, which at a touch to-day blew up the hillsides, altering the very geography of France. General Sir Herbert Plumer for a year has been preparing for this attack, and was ready a week ago with guns and tanks, and every kind of explosive which modern science has designed for killing men in great masses.

A terrible bombardment commenced a week ago, and increased in violence, working up to a supreme height of fury as dawn broke to-day. The Germans for five days had been pinned to their tunnels as prisoners. There was no way out from these zones of death. Regiments attempting to come up last night were shattered. A German officer admitted that he had lost 60 of his company before reaching the front line. Our heavy guns laid down belts of shell-fire, which were devastating and impenetrable.

Our gunners also smothered the German batteries whenever our airmen revealed them. Our airmen have been wonderful. They have brought down 44 German machines in five days. Flocks of aeroplanes went up this morning in order to blind the enemy and report the progress of the battle.

There was a thick summer fog, and, during the night, it was raining sharply, and there was some thunder and lightning. But the storm passed before dawn. The men knew they were going to attack a Gibraltar. They expected the enemy to fight his hardest for Messines Ridge.

The final outburst of the guns was the most terribly beautiful thing, of the most diabolical splendour, I have seen in the war. Then out of the dark ridges of Messines and Wytschaete, and the ill-famed Hill 60, there gushed an enormous volume of scarlet flame, from the exploding mines. The mines spilled out into fountains of fierce colour, illuminating the whole country-side with red lights. A New Zealand boy who came back wounded said it felt like being in an open boat on a rough sea. The ground rocked up and down, this way and that.

IRRESISTIBLE ATTACKERS.

Thousands of Anzacs and British soldiers were thus rocked before they scrambled up and dashed toward the German lines. They were assisted by a tornado of shells, which crashed over the enemy's ground. White, red, and green distress rockets rose from the German lines, telling the German gunners that the British were upon them. Soon these distress signals failed to appear. Instead there were British signals, and German prisoners began to come back in batches, carrying our wounded, when the stretcher-bearers needed help.

The Germans described the eagerness of the attackers, which was so great that sometimes they seemed to be in advance of the barrage. The Germans had not expected the attack for another two days. They had made desperate efforts at night to relieve the exhausted troops, but their new divisions lost heavily when coming to the firing line.

The story of this great victory cannot yet be told, but the reports show that our men everywhere succeeded in gaining their objectives with astonishing rapidity. Sir Douglas Haig's plan of battle was fulfilled almost to the letter and time-table.

AUSTRALIANS AND IRISH.

The Australians and New Zealanders reached and captured Messines 100 minutes after the moment of the attack, in spite of heavy fighting in the German trenches, where many of the enemy were killed.

The Irish Nationalists and Ulstermen, vieing with each other in courage and self-sacrifice, stormed their way up to Wytschaete, and, after a desperate resistance, captured all that was left of the famous "White Chateau."

By midday our men were well down the further slopes of the ridge, while our field batteries rushed up the ridge and took new positions.

The English, further north, along the shoulder of the Ypres salient, captured the greater part of Battle Wood, south of Zillebeke.

The Germans are now massing troops in the neighbourhood of Warneton for a heavy counter-attack. They are violently shelling the Messines Ridge.

The evil spell of the Ypres salient has been broken. The Germans will no longer be able to exact there the toll of death which has been the curse of nearly three years.

"CHEAPLY WON."

At least a score of mines were exploded prior to the attack. It was an extraordinary spectacle, a great, leaping stream of orange flame shooting up. Some of the men, not knowing the cause, said it must have been an earthquake.

When the Australians and New Zealanders stormed the ridge only their own barrage kept them back. Some even dodged forward among their own shells. Some sent up rockets, announcing their arrival in the German trenches, while others dug in on the top of the ridge. Others pushed on well down the opposite slope.

Seldom has a great victory been more cheaply won than the capture of Messines. Yet many little woods, especially around Wytschaete, are strongly fortified, particularly Radius Wood, where some concrete dugouts are held by a company.

STRATEGIC VALUE OF SUCCESS.

Mr. Percival Phillips, telegraphing late on Thursday night, says: The attacking front was more than ten miles. A British division, including some of the finest fighting men from the Dominions, swept over the slopes of this heavily fortified barrier between Ypres and Armentieres, and firmly established themselves beyond the crest. Thousands of prisoners were taken, but the number of Germans killed by our guns was far greater.

Apart from the Irish, Australian, and New Zealand infantry, the battle was a triumph for a fleet of tanks, the aviators, and sappers. The engagement is a most important success, although not a great battle, in the sense that the Somme and Arras were great battles. A thorn has been plucked from the left flank of our long front, and a nest of German batteries can no longer dominate Ypres and watch every movement in the British trenches.

The Germans have been driven below, as the Canadians drove the Germans from Vimy Ridge to the plain of Douai. It is a clean-cut success, which will be of immeasurable benefit in the future. The new positions were not taken without very hard fighting, but the resistance was much less than was expected. There were comparatively few strong points in the crowded area. Machine-gun forts tried to hold out after the rest of the line had surrendered. The ridge was only 200 feet high, but the Germans had seamed the western slope with a labyrinth of tunnels and concreted redoubts, weaving into a mesh of defences the remains of Wytschaete.

The German batteries and infantry reinforcements were largely increased in the last few weeks. Our men might have had to fight every foot of the way, but they easily went up the slopes. The stiffest resistance they met was not equal to the dogged stand made by some German units near Arras. The Wytschaete garrison only clung to their timbered lairs until the British flank crept round and enveloped the cellars which represent the village.

The Australians, New Zealanders, and Irishmen not only reached their goals on every part of the front: but they also dug the deepest trenches in record time. Eye-witnesses tell us that the most of them are now asleep in the bottoms of these trenches, dog-tired. As yet, enemy counter-attacks have not worried them.

STERN FIGHTING AHEAD.

Correspondents at British headquarters insist that the enemy had known for weeks of the coming attack on Messines Ridge, and he had made every possible effort to make his positions impregnable. Yet General Sir Herbert Plumer has broken the lines. This is General Plumer's first great offensive. Hitherto he has had the ugly task of holding the Ypres salient.

Stern fighting is certainly ahead, as the Germans are sure to use their troops, who are already massed, in counter-attacks. This first success, however, is brilliant. The victory represents an advance in the centre of from 4000 to 5000 yards.

The New Zealanders, in capturing Messines, did the job neatly, with few casualties. The way in which they set to work fortifying the ground deserves the highest praise.

EXPLOSION HEARD IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Lloyd George, who was staying at Walton Heath on Wednesday night, ordered that he be called at 3 a.m. He had the satisfaction of hearing the terrific mine explosion in Belgium, which signified the opening of the Messines offensive. Sir Douglas Haig's preparations were so perfect that he was able to advise Mr. Lloyd George of the exact moment of the attack.

FRENCH FRONT.

A French communique issued on Thursday afternoon stated:—Our violent and well-aimed fire nipped in the bud a strong German attack at midnight on a front of 600 yards north-west of St. Quentin. The attackers lost heavily and fell back precipitately on their own trenches.

Lively reciprocal artillery actions are in progress north of Chemin-des-Dames.

Two enemy aeroplanes were brought down.

THE BELGIAN FRONT.

A Belgian communique issued on Thursday afternoon stated:—The artillery on both sides has been active on the whole front, principally at Dixmude, and between Steenstraete and Hetsas, where we carried out a destructive fire on enemy batteries and works. Our airmen bombed the railway stations at Vyswegen and Langemark.

The French communique issued at midnight on Thursday says: The artillery struggle was fairly violent in the Chemin-des-Dames sector, notably south of Filain.

GERMAN REPORT.

A German communique says:—We captured French positions on Chemin-des-Dames on a front of 1¼ mile, and repulsed counter-attacks. We captured 557 prisoners.

We destroyed eight English aeroplanes.

CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA.

CAUSES POLITICAL CRISIS.

OTTAWA, June 7.

The negotiations between Sir R. L. Borden (Prime Minister of Canada) and Sir Wilfrid Laurier (leader of the Opposition) for the formation of a coalition Government have failed. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not able to co-operate, because the conscription proposal was announced before the coalition proposals were made.

The Prime Minister announced in Parliament the failure of the negotiations with Sir Wilfrid Laurier to form a Coalition Cabinet. He read correspondence in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier explained that he was unable to agree to the proposals, which comprised the formation of the coalition for the passage of the Conscription Bill, and thereafter an appeal for the country's sanction.

Members did not comment, but cheered Sir R. L. Borden.

It is likely there will be a split among the Liberals. A large section is favourable towards conscription.

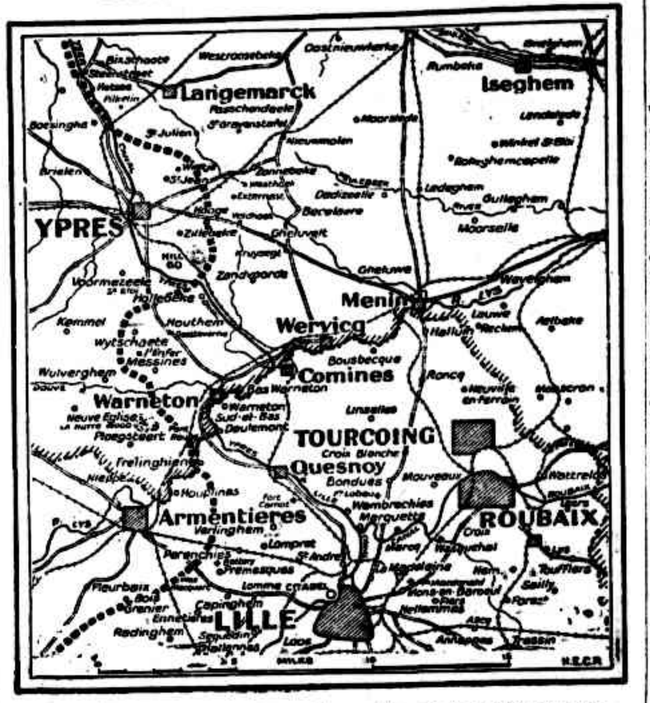
A feeling of deep disappointment prevails at the failure to form a coalition. The Government purposes the immediate introduction of the Conscription Bill.

Sir Robert Borden is attempting to form a Unionist Government by taking in Liberals who approve of conscription.

A majority of 35 in favour of the Conscription Bill is assured.

The Ottawa correspondent of the "New York Tribune" says that the Canadian Parliament is on the verge of dissolution. He expects that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will make an attempt almost immediately to depose Sir Robert Borden.

NEW BRITISH OFFENSIVE.



The recent bombardment on the northern section of the British front has been followed by a British offensive against the Wytschaete salient, situated between the Ypres and Armentieres salients, shown on the above map. The dotted line represents the front prior to the latest attack, which has gained the villages of Messines, Wytschaete, and Oosttaverne. Defence systems, strongly-organised woods, and defended localities have also been taken along a nine-mile front from south of the Douve River to a point eastward of Ypres. Towards the bottom left-hand corner of the above map the dotted line swings away towards the west. This is the northern side of the big bend in the German line covering La Bassee. Lens is situated at the southern end of this bend. The British are, therefore, conducting offensives both to the northward and southward of the big La Bassee bend (south-west of Lille).

The broken shaded line represents the Franco-Belgian border.

NEW AMERICAN ARMY

NEW YORK, June 7.

The United States Department of War expects that 500,000 conscripted men will be in camp by September 1.

The London correspondent of the "New York Times" says that in an interview, Lord Sydenham suggested that America should announce that after a fixed date for every ship submarined a period of one month, and for every hospital ship four months, should elapse before German shipping would be allowed to enter American ports or the Panama Canal.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says that the provision for fixing maximum prices will probably be dropped from the Food Bill.

The Food Controller, Mr. Hoover, reports that the Allies will need 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain next year, of which America must supply the bulk.

The conscription registration figures from seven States show that 816,000 men put in their names. The estimate for these States was 848,000. Approximately 50 per cent. formally claim exemption, but only a small proportion will be omitted.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE.

It is reported from London that Lord Northcliffe (who, it was announced, was to take charge of the work of the British mission in America) told the United Press Agency that his trip to the United States was a purely business one. He would open an office in New York. He would not make speeches, but proposes to hasten the enlistment of British men in the United States.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says that the British Embassy has not received any advices of Lord Northcliffe's visit. The United States State Department, similarly, has not received any information; but Lord Northcliffe is certain of a cordial welcome there.

The "New York Sun" welcomes Lord Northcliffe's appointment owing to his knowledge of American affairs.

ITALIANS REPULSE AUSTRIANS.

An Italian official report states:—We repulsed a heavy attack in Brcher Valley. The enemy with reinforcements delivered violent attacks on the Carso front, from Hill 247 (south of Versic) to Hill 31, east of Jamiano. After fighting all day long with varying fortune, the enemy was completely repulsed.

An Austrian communique issued late on Thursday night says: The enemy's massed attacks at Jamiano broke down with heavy losses. We took 500 prisoners, making 27,000 since May 12.

BRITISH MINISTRY.

The "Daily Telegraph" states that Lord Cowdray has resigned his position as President of the Air Ministry. He has been succeeded by Mr. Winston Churchill. Mr. G. H. Roberts (Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade) is to succeed Mr. G. N. Barnes (who is temporarily acting on the War Cabinet in place of Mr. Arthur Henderson, who is in Russia) as Pensions Minister.

THE DESTROYER FIGHT.

The Amsterdam "Telegraaf" says that, on Tuesday morning, two German destroyers were towed into Zeebrugge very much damaged. A third failed to return.

FRENCH LOSSES.

The French Admiralty reports that for the week ended June 3 the arrivals in French ports were 1035, and the sailings 938. Three ships of over 1600 tons were sunk, and two under 1600 tons. Submarines unsuccessfully attacked three ships.

RAID OVER BELGIUM.

The Admiralty reports: A squadron of naval aeroplanes yesterday dropped a number of bombs on an aerodrome in Nieumunster, 15 miles south-south-west of Blankenberghe. They hit a big shed, and several bombs fell close to two machines at the aerodrome. Four hostile aircraft attacked the raiders while returning, but were driven off. All our machines returned safely.

A report from Amsterdam declares, on the authority of eye-witnesses, that the Allies' air raids have done enormous damage at Zeebrugge and Ghent.

VICTORIA CROSS FOR AUSTRALIANS.

Thirty Victoria Crosses have been gazetted, including awards to six Australians and one New Zealander. The Australians are as follow:—

CAPTAIN JAMES ERNEST NEWLANDS (Infantry), for three acts of bravery. He organised personally and led his company in a bombing attack on a most important objective under heavy fire. He rallied his company after heavy casualties. He was among the first to reach the objective. During a heavy counter-attack the following night he dispersed the enemy, and regained the position by his personal exertion. He disregarded the fire, and made a judicious use of his reserves. Later, when a company on his left was overpowered, and his own company attacked in the rear, he drove off the attack from both directions, though it was thrice renewed. Captain Newlands's stand was of the greatest importance, and had far-reaching results.

LIEUTENANT FRANK HUBERT McNAMARA (Flying Corps). During an aerial attack one of our pilots was downed behind the enemy's lines. Lieutenant McNamara descended to the rescue, despite heavy rifle fire and the approach of hostile cavalry. He himself was severely wounded. The other pilot climbed on Lieutenant McNamara's machine. His disabled leg prevented Lieutenant McNamara from controlling the machine, which overturned. The men ignited this machine, but succeeded in starting the other, which was damaged. Lieutenant McNamara, in spite of weakness and the loss of blood, flew to the aerodrome, 70 miles, thus completing the rescue.

LIEUTENANT CHARLES POPE (Infantry). He commanded a most important picket post, which he was ordered to hold at all costs. The enemy, in greatly superior numbers, surrounded the post, and ammunition was running short. Lieutenant Pope sent back for further supplies. The situation culminated before the ammunition arrived. This most gallant officer was seen to charge with his picket, into a superior force in the hope of saving the situation. The picket was overpowered. By his sacrifice, Lieutenant Pope not only inflicted heavy loss, but obeyed the order to hold his position to the last. His body, with the bodies of most of his men, was found close to 80 of the enemy dead—sure proof of their gallant resistance.

SERGEANT JOHN WOODS WHITTLE (Infantry). While he was commanding a platoon, the enemy, under cover of an intense barrage, entered his trench in great numbers. Sergeant Whittle personally collected all available men, and charged the enemy and regained the position. On another occasion, when his platoon was suffering heavily, the enemy endeavoured to bring up machine guns in order to enfilade. Sergeant Whittle rushed alone over fire-swept ground, and bombed the gun crew before the gun could be got into action. He killed the entire crew, and brought in the gun.

PRIVATE JORGAN CHRISTIAN JENSEN (Infantry). With five comrades, he attacked a barricade which was sheltering 45 of the enemy and a machine gun. An Australian shot the gunner, and Private Jensen, single handed, rushed the post and threw in a bomb.

Private Jensen had a bomb in one hand, and he drew out the pin of a second bomb with his teeth. He threatened the enemy with both, telling them they were surrounded, and inducing them to surrender. He sent a prisoner to order a neighbouring party to surrender. They surrendered. Another party of our troops fired on them in ignorance. Private Jensen, regardless of danger, stood on a barricade, waved his helmet, and stopped the firing. He sent back the prisoners. Private Jensen showed extraordinary bravery throughout.

PRIVATE THOMAS JAMES KENNY (Infantry).—An enemy strong point held up a platoon, which suffered severe casualties. Private Kenny dashed alone to the enemy's position, under heavy close-range fire. He bombed the position and captured the gun-crew, all of whom he had wounded. He killed a resisting officer, and seized the gun. The position was taken.

PRIVATE DONALD FORRESTER BROWN, New Zealand (Infantry).—His company suffered the heaviest casualties among officers and men from machine-gun fire. Private Brown, with a comrade, reached a point 30 yards from the enemy guns. He killed four of the gun crew, and captured the gun. His company was again similarly held up. Private Brown and a comrade, with great gallantry, rushed the machine gun, and killed the crew. The company was then heavily shelled. Private Brown's contempt for danger and his coolness kept up the men's spirits. Subsequently, as Sergeant Brown, he, single-handed, attacked a machine gun, killed the crew, and captured the gun. Later, whilst sniping the retreating enemy, this most gallant soldier was killed.

Other Victoria Crosses include Captain Albert Ball, an aviator, who, between April 25 and May 6, participated in 26 combats, destroyed 11 machines, brought down two, and forced several to descend. Captain Ball, flying alone, once fought six machines, twice five machines, and once four. When leading two other British aviators, Captain Ball attacked eight others. On every occasion he brought down at least one. His aeroplane several times was badly damaged. Once all the control wires were shot away. Altogether Captain Ball destroyed 43 aeroplanes and one balloon. His courage, determination and skill have always been exceptional.

LATE WAR NEWS.

MESSINES BATTLE.

LONDON, June 8.

Correspondents state that the Irish troops assisted the New Zealanders to capture Messines Ridge, and the Australians and Englishmen were fighting near by.

There was particularly stiff fighting for Battle Wood, where the Germans still hold a corner, this being the only set-back the British suffered during the whole glorious day. There is also heavy fighting around the White Chateau.

Before a large part of the ridge is a dip in the ground, where the British artillery was unable to cut the wire, but the attackers went through everything with irresistible dash.

A feature of the battle was the success of General Plumer's aviators. Though they brought down 44 machines they lost only 10. In one case five British aeroplanes fought 25 Germans, wrecking eight. All the British returned safely.

ADVANCE OF THREE MILES.

The correspondent of the United Press with the British Headquarters telegraphs that the Australians easily repulsed a heavy counter-attack near Messines Village.

Our advance is over three miles deep at the centre. The Ypres salient has been wiped out.

CAVALRY TAKE PART.

The correspondent of the United Press with the British Headquarters telegraphs that 6000 prisoners have been taken. The success of the advance was so complete that the British cavalry entered the action.

ENEMY AEROPLANES BROUGHT DOWN.

The Admiralty announce: Naval aeroplanes on Wednesday attacked and drove down two enemy machines out of control, three miles north-eastward of Dixmude.

A naval pilot shot down another, also out of control, five miles north-eastward of Dixmude.

RUSSIAN TURMOIL.

BETTER ACCOUNTS OF ARMY.

LONDON, June 8.

Official reports from Petrograd, received in Washington, are optimistic. It is stated that there is stricter discipline in the army. Officials believe that the revolution will yet prove one of the war's greatest triumphs.

The Washington officials interpret the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council's programme of no annexations and no indemnities, not literally, but as opposing a policy of actual conquest and punitive indemnities.

Copenhagen message says that Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian revolutionist and author, who has lived many years in England, has arrived at Bergen from England, en route to Russia, which he is visiting at the invitation of the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates. A great welcome has been arranged. M. Kerensky, Minister for War, will receive Prince Kropotkin at the frontier.

Petrograd advices received in Rome state that Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Ludendorff have hurried to the Russian front to discover whether there are signs of a Russian offensive.

It is reported from Copenhagen that a great accidental explosion occurred in Petrograd. A large quantity of explosives which had just arrived from England, and were stored in the harbour, blew up, many people being killed.

The Petrograd correspondent of the United States Press Agency had an interview with M. Tscheidze, President of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council, who said:—The Democrats can best help Russia and the democratisation of the world by bringing pressure to end the war as soon as possible. If America can best bring pressure by fighting Germany, let America send armies. We look at everything in the world from the view-point of the revolution, and the success of the revolution depends upon the war soon ending on the basis of peace without annexation, no indemnities, and with giving small people a voice in their disposition.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says that General Alexieff's retirement is due to Press attacks, following upon his disparagement of the formula of a peace without annexation or indemnity.

The Kronstadt recalcitrants now recognise the Government.

FRENCH WAR AIMS.

M. RIBOT'S OUTSPOKEN SPEECH.

A message from Paris states that prior to the Senate going into secret session to consider the adoption of an Order of the Day, similar to that adopted by the Chamber of Deputies—which set out the war aims of France—the Premier (M. Ribot) delivered an outspoken speech. He said: "The Government needs the co-operation and confidence of both Houses. The possibility of any political party in France renewing associations with the German Socialists must be viewed with alarm, because the latter are always confederates in Germany's crimes. It is morally impossible for Frenchmen to confer with such enemies while French territory is violated. Peace can only come from victory.

"One must speak out. We rejected the alluring Petrograd formula, which was imported from Germany. The Russian cry of 'no-annexation' cannot refer to Alsace-Lorraine, which remains French at heart. No Frenchman dare say that we should not fight until these provinces return to their mother country. France does not want to oppress the vanquished, but we must have reparation, also guarantees against German militarism."

The French Senate adopted the Order of the Day.

The Senate also expressed confidence in the Government.

BRITISH APPROVAL.

In the House of Commons Mr. Ronald McNeill (Unionist member for East Kent) drew attention to the vote in the French Chamber of Deputies reasserting France's three war aims as:—(1) Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine. (2) Reparation. (3) Guarantees. He hoped that the House would have an opportunity of expressing concurrence with these aims.

The Home Secretary (Sir George Cave) said the Government, the House, and the country were in the fullest accord with the French Chamber. The Government would consider the advisability of the House specially expressing agreement with the French Chamber.

Lord Robert Cecil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, denied that Bulgaria had made overtures to the Allies for a separate peace.

Mr. Philip Snowden (Socialist and pacifist) asked whether the Allies intended to fight, regardless of other considerations, until their objects were attained.

Sir George Cave replied: You must take my former answer as absolute.

GREEK INTRIGUES.

The Athens correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" reports that King Constantine offered to intervene in the war on the side of the Allies, his sole condition being General Sarrail's recall. The offer was devised by General Dousmanil, with the object of bringing down M. Venizelos and disorganising and dissolving his army.

WAR NOTES.

BRITISH MOVE IN THE NORTH.

The ominous cannonading and patrol activity which we have been hearing of for a week past have culminated in the outbreak of a fresh British offensive on the northern section of the British front. The earlier signs of an impending attack all pointed to the Wytschaete salient, between Ypres and Armentieres, as the most likely sector on which the infantry might be expected to make their appearance. The belligerent about to deliver an offensive can hardly disguise the fact under the conditions of modern warfare. The necessity of a violent and prolonged bombardment of the defensive positions which the enemy has been occupying for over two and a half years invariably indicates that an attempt to advance is anticipated. The bombardment may be carried out along a greater length of front than that which is about to be attacked, and attempts to deceive the enemy may be made by artillery activity, followed by reconnoitring raids at other points along the front. But if the advance on the chosen sector is to be successful the bombardment and aerial activity there must be intense and effective. It is, therefore, practically an impossibility nowadays to spring a complete surprise upon the enemy by means of an offensive. He has ample warning of its approach, and his main anxiety must be to discover the actual point at which the pressure will be greatest, so that he can move up his reserves and strengthen his defence accordingly. There is not the slightest doubt that the enemy realised some days ago that the maximum amount of pressure was likely to be concentrated against the Wytschaete salient and the Messines Ridge, and we may reasonably expect that he has been moving his reserves towards that threatened sector ever since.

BIRTH OF THE WYTSCHAETE SALIENT.

When it first became evident earlier in the present week that the British meant business on this northern portion of their front we described the position of this Wytschaete salient, and yesterday referred to the Messines Ridge, which is the main topographical feature of the enemy's front at this point. It may be well to repeat, however, that this salient lies just over the border in Belgium, about halfway between the Belgian town of Ypres and the French town of Armentieres. Armentieres is about 11 miles almost due south of Ypres, and the British front passes about two miles to the eastward of both towns. The front, however, does not run due north and south for the whole distance between the two towns, the enemy in the first battle of Ypres, which followed the race for the sea, having driven a wedge in to the westward about halfway down the line between the two towns. This gave him possession of the Messines Ridge, which was at that time held by Allenby's cavalry. It was at the beginning of November, 1914, while Allenby's cavalry was awaiting the arrival of French reinforcements, that the enemy attacked Messines. Their shell fire first of all practically levelled the village before it was captured, and, although the British heavily counter-attacked, they were unable to recover it. The village of Wytschaete was also captured by the enemy shortly after he secured Messines, but British cavalry supports, aided by French troops, recaptured it, and it was not until some time afterwards that the enemy again secured the village, which he has held ever since. These German gains drove a wedge into the British line, causing a salient round Ypres and another round Armentieres. The Ypres salient, however, was the more uncomfortable of the two, as the Messines Ridge enabled the enemy to bombard Ypres and dominate a great stretch of the British trenches in this region.

A SATISFACTORY START.

It is still rather early in the day to attempt to decide whether the offensive has been an unqualified success or not. Sir Douglas Haig appears to be satisfied with the progress made so far, and he tells us sufficient to show that he is justified in taking this view. The advance has been carried out along a nine-mile front, and has resulted in the capture of an important ridge and of two strong fortress villages, situated one at either end of that ridge. We are not told to what depth the attackers actually penetrated, but they also captured the village of Oosttaverne, which lies over a mile to the eastward of Wytschaete, and close on two miles eastward of the position of the British line before the attack was launched. It would seem, therefore, that at this point the British penetrated to a depth of about two miles. This may be the most easterly point reached, and the advance may not have been so successful at other places. However, sufficient progress has been made to suggest that the Wytschaete salient has been practically wiped out. The British have not yet succeeded in straightening out entirely their front between the two points opposite Ypres and Armentieres, and there is still a westerly bend near the centre of the line between these two places; but the point of the salient has been flattened out, and with that point have disappeared the main advantages which the enemy derived by continuing to hold the salient. Those advantages included direct observation of the British trenches and screened gun positions for the bombardment of those trenches. Both were provided by the Messines Ridge, which stood out like a rampart from the enemy's fortress-like front, and which has now been stormed and captured by the British, Australian, and New Zealand troops. The booty has not yet been counted and classified, and there is every probability that the 5000 prisoners already recorded will be considerably increased before very long. Although, therefore, the latest British offensive has been confined to a shorter front than the previous efforts on the Somme and eastward of Arras—and, therefore, is a less extensive operation—the initial blow appears to have met with a very satisfactory measure of success.

CONCRETE SHIPS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, stated to-night that he had received from Mr. E. G. Stone, of Messrs. Stone and Siddely, engineers and contractors, a proposal to construct a 4000-ton concrete vessel within seven months, and after that to construct similar vessels at the rate of one a week if the plan were sufficiently developed. Mr. Hughes said that the mater had already been considered by the Ministry, and it had been decided to make further inquiries. So far as the inquiries have gone, said Mr. Hughes, the proposal seemed quite feasible and practicable. The whole matter is to be considered by the Federal Cabinet at its meeting on Monday.

Mr. Joseph Cook, Minister for the Navy, said that vessels of this material were not a proved success, and that authorities differed in their opinions as to whether they would be able to stand the strain. There were, said Mr. Cook, many things in doubt which would require clearing up before such a proposal could be put into effect.

P.L.L. CONFERENCE.

ATTITUDE ON THE WAR.

When the P.L.L. Conference resumed its sittings last night, under the presidency of Mr. Doyle, M.L.A., the report of the committee appointed to draw up the attitude of the movement towards the war was circulated amongst delegates. Before copies would be given to the Press, however, a discussion arose, on a motion by Mr. S. A. Rosa, to postpone the discussion until Monday night.

Mr. Mutch, M.L.A., said there was an ulterior motive behind the suggestion to postpone the discussion. Mr. Rosa's aim, he said, was to hold the discussion back until the report had been discussed and decided upon by the industrial section on Sunday. "I am not going to be tongue-tied or hide-bound," he said, "by any decisions come to by some other body apart from the conference." (Applause.)

Mr. John Storey, M.L.A., leader of the Parliamentary Labour party, said the discussion should proceed at once. Why not postpone the little conference on Sunday, he asked, and let us have a free, British, fair, and open decision on this matter? "If we don't do that," went on Mr. Storey, "then I tell you that the day of the Labour movement, as we know it to-day, is nearly at an end. (Applause.) If we are to be told in the most cold and callous way that there is one section of us who are going away to discuss the matter by themselves, then to come back to us—to the democracy of this country—and tell us we have got to come in whether we like it or not"—

At this stage a point of order was taken that Mr. Storey's remarks were irrelevant. It was not sustained.

Mr. Storey: "If I am wrong no one will be happier than I will be to know it, and if I am right no one will be more sorry. This report is a very momentous document, and I invite you to avoid all heat and think of the importance of it all. I have no personal motive in speaking in this way. It will have no effect on me."

A delegate: Well, it ought to.

Mr. Storey: Why should it affect me any more than you? What have I done that you do not applaud me now as you did in the Town Hall a couple of months ago? Am I now looked upon as an interloper?

Many voices: No.

Mr. Storey: Let me tell you quite fearlessly that if I am I shall go to where my company will be more acceptable. (Applause.) I shall not stop here and be treated as a man who is not trusted. What right have free and independent men amongst people who won't trust them? If you don't want me to-night, say so.

Mr. Rosa took a point of order that Mr. Storey's remarks were not pertinent, and the time bell against the party leader rang at the same moment. On the voices, Mr. Storey was granted an extension of time to continue his speech.

Mr. Storey: I am grateful for that vote. I told you I would always play the game with you. I am never going to play the games alleged against my late leader. With whatever heat I am speaking is because I feel it. I say it is time for us to appeal for the confidence of the men who say they have cleaned up the Labour movement. When we meet Parliament we will meet a strong party led by twelve well-educated and capable politicians. I will have to do the work of all these, and you expect me to criticise them. In that I will have the assistance of a party which contains eight or ten young men who hardly know where the doors of Parliament are, and it would be impossible for me to do justice unless I have the confidence of the men and women who comprise the Labour movement. How can I meet our opponents in Parliament when I will have to admit that I am surrounded by people who distrust me, and that there is somebody behind me with a stiletto? In the name of God, what chance would I have? I appeal to you to meet us fairly and squarely, and when you come to your decisions, let us be able to say that it is the undivided opinion of the Labour movement in New South Wales. (Loud applause.)

Mr. A. C. Willis opposed the suggestion to postpone the discussion. For some reason not given to him, he said, some people appeared to want to stand this matter over until after the following Sunday. It was not merely an industrial matter, but one that affected the whole nation. Unless the decision was unanimous great harm would be done to the movement.

Mr. Rosa said he was surprised at the attitude of Mr. Storey in objecting to more careful consideration of a matter which, if a mistake were made, might be disastrous to the movement.

The motion to postpone the discussion was defeated on the voices.

A SPEEDY PEACE.

The conference then proceeded to discuss the preamble, which read as follows:—

"That as the Governments of Europe have failed utterly to preserve the peace or bring the present war within measurable distance of conclusion, we contend that only by an organised system of production for use, under democratic control, can a recurrence of such calamities be permanently avoided.

"We, to quote the 'Sydney Morning Herald' of the 18th April, 1917, 'rejoice over the revolution in Russia,' and congratulate the people of that country upon their efforts to abolish despotic power and class.

"We, therefore, urge that immediate negotiations be initiated for an international conference, for the purpose of arranging equitable terms of peace, on which conference the working class organisations shall demand adequate representation, and the inclusion of women delegates; and we further urge that the British self-governing dominions shall be granted separate representation thereon."

Mr. Guihen said there was no reference in the preamble to a determination on the part of the Allies, failing a satisfactory peace, to continue the struggle until the cause of justice had triumphed.

Mr. Rosa: That goes without saying.

Mr. Guihen said that the stigma of disloyalty had been cast upon the Labour movement, and no harm would be done by including the sentence he had outlined.

Mr. Burden moved that the preamble should contain some reference to the necessity for universal disarmament.

Mr. Storey said that everyone was anxious for peace, but who, he asked, had the right to say that the British Government had not done everything possible to bring about peace? If he stood alone, he would say that the British Government had done everything possible in that direction. The British Government not only did not want war, but did everything possible to avoid it. He took a great interest in the war, because members of his family were there.

At this juncture one of the delegates who interjected was told by Mr. Storey that he (the interjector) would not go to the front, and if he did he would be shot in the back. (Disorder.)

Mr. Storey, continuing, said that in no other country in the world would they be able to table such a resolution. (Uproar.) When the debate appeared in the Press the mothers and sisters of the lads at the front would be asking whether it was true that the Government was not doing everything possible to end the war. "I will never agree to a proposal of that character," he concluded. "I will never agree to it as long as the sun shines. It is a travesty on British justice, which enables us to discuss this without each and every one of us being taken out and shot, as we would be in the country against whom we are fighting to-day to preserve our liberty."

Mr. D. O'Sullivan (Railway Workers) said Great Britain did not want the war when it broke out.

Mr. Pelin (Albury) said that while Germany may have been preparing for the war for years, England was building two warships to Germany's one. The war was simply to decide which of the two nations should dominate the world.

The balance of the committee's report was as follows:—

"We submit that in framing the terms of a lasting peace the following principles should be observed:—

"1. The right of small nations, including Ireland, to political independence.

"2. That the European countries invaded during the present war be immediately evacuated, and their future territorial integrity guaranteed—provided that the ownership of disputed territories shall be determined by a plebiscite of the inhabitants under the protection of an international commission. This course would dispose of Alsace-Lorraine, Poland, and similar cases on the democratic principle that all just government must rest on the consent of the governed.

"3. That prior to the disbandment of the combatant armies they shall be utilised under international control for the restoration of the devastated territories at the expense of the invaders.

"4. That where an amicable arrangement cannot be reached by the peace conference in regard to captured colonies and dependencies, such territories shall be placed provisionally under international control.

"5. That the freedom of the seas be secured on the lines laid down by President Wilson of America in his speech at Washington, in May, 1916, where he advocated: 'A universal association of the nations to maintain the inviolate security of the highway of the seas for the common and unhindered use of all the nations of the world.'

"6. The abolition of trading in armaments and the prohibition of the private manufacture thereof.

"7. The abolition of conscription in all countries simultaneously.

"8. The control of foreign relations under a democratic system, based upon publicity, in lieu of the present methods of secret diplomacy.

"9. That the existing machinery for international arbitration be expanded to embrace a Concert of Europe, ultimately merging into a world-wide Parliament, as advocated by President Wilson, in a recent message to the American Congress."

The report was signed by: A. C. Willis (chairman), Mrs. Locke Burns, T. D. Mutch, M.L.A., M. P. Considine, S. A. Rosa, and W. Davies, M.L.A.

Mr. Guthen moved that the paragraph referring to the revolution in Russia be deleted. He said it had nothing whatever to do with the Labour party's attitude towards the war.

The chairman ruled Mr. Guthen's motion out of order.

Mr. Brookfield, M.L.A., said they now saw the "S.M. Herald" rejoicing over the hoisting of the red flag in Russia. A little while ago, he continued, that journal condemned him for trying to hoist the red flag at Broken Hill.

Mr. Stanbridge (Typographical Society) moved that the quotation from the "Sydney Morning Herald" be deleted.

Mr. A. C. Willis (Coal and Shale Employees' Federation) said the reference was inserted because the committee knew that as soon as the proposals were made public the "S.M. Herald" would condemn the conference for congratulating the Russians. The committee wished to show that the "S.M. Herald" had already congratulated the Russians. He had no objection to the deletion of the quotation from the "S.M. Herald."

Mr. Considine, M.P., considered that the present was the most critical period in the history of the Australian Labour movement.

The motion for the deletion of the quotation from the "S.M. Herald" was defeated on the voices.

Consideration of the remainder of the proposals was adjourned.

The conference will be continued at 2 p.m. to-day.

FOREIGN POLICY.

LONDON, June 7.

Sir Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand) presided at a gathering in Burlington House, at which Professor Gilbert Murray (Oxford University) delivered an address on "Control of Foreign Policy," in which he advocated a policy of peaceful negotiation.

Sir Thomas Mackenzie said the Dominions disliked militarism, but had resolved to see the war through. Had those responsible for Imperial interests realised European development, and provided adequate means to meet it, there would not have been war now.

[Professor George Gilbert Aime Murray was born in Sydney, and is a son of the late Sir Terence Aubrey Murray, at one time President of the Legislative Council of New South Wales. He is the author of a number of publications, and holds, among other degrees, those of M.A., Oxford; LL.D., Glasgow; and D. Litt., Birmingham and Oxford. He is a trustee of the British Museum, and has been Regius Professor of Greek at the Oxford University since 1908.]

PAN-GERMAN SCHEMES.

The German paper, "Neueste Nachrichten" (Dresden), states that the pan-Germans and the Prussian Conservatives are resolved to buy the leading newspapers and assist in the overthrow of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg (Imperial Chancellor), and instal Hindenburg in his place. They wish to continue the war until Germany annexes the allied occupied territories. The "Berlin Lokal Anzeiger" has already been purchased.

COMFORTS FUND.

An interstate conference in connection with the Australian Comforts Fund was commenced at the Sydney Town Hall yesterday. Sir Alfred Cowley (Queensland) presided. The principal matters discussed were the freight question and feasibility of working in conjunction with the Overseas Tobacco Fund.

In welcoming the delegates, as president of the New South Wales division of the fund, Mr. H. Y. Braddon explained that the Australian Comforts Fund was the administrative body of all comforts funds in the Commonwealth, and had been formed so that a co-ordinated system controlling the despatch and distribution of gifts for soldiers from Australia could be put into operation. The comforts funds of Australia were composed of the following funds in each State:—New South Wales, Citizens' War Chest Fund; Victoria, Lady Mayoress's Patriotic Fund; South Australia, League of Loyal Women; Western Australia, Victoria League of Western Australia; Queensland, Queensland Patriotic Fund; Tasmania, On Active Service Fund. The Australian Comforts Fund did not collect money, being purely administrative. Mr. Braddon expressed, on behalf of the executive, their warmest thanks and deep appreciation of the great assistance the Department of Defence had afforded all the comforts funds of Australia in their great work. Appreciation was also expressed of the help of the Railway Commissioners.

Touching on the question of freight, Mr. Braddon mentioned that the fund's exports were limited to 100 tons per month, and urged that the space allotted to them should be increased. Seeing how much the comforts sent meant to the soldiers, and how important was anything that tended to increase the efficiency and preserve the health of the troops abroad, he trusted the authorities would be induced to spare further space.

Sir Alfred Cowley also emphasised the freight shortage, but said he felt sure that if the case was properly placed before the Federal Government they would get all the space they wanted. At the same time they must be careful not to ask more than was absolutely necessary. Referring to the work accomplished, Sir Alfred said that the success attained had been in a great measure due to Mr. Budden and his helpers abroad.

The following resolution was carried:—"That this council, having considered the joint report of Messrs. E. A. Holden and R. Ainge Johnson, recommends to the various State divisions the desirability of co-operating with the Overseas Club Southern Cross Tobacco Fund in the supply of tobacco to our men at the front."

The question of the military status of the commissioners abroad formed a matter for grave consideration. The disabilities under which they were placed as civilians in regard to the absentee clause in income taxation was emphasised, but after considerable discussion the matter was adjourned till to-day, in the absence of the representative of the Minister for Defence, who will be in Sydney this morning.

The question of co-ordinating the despatch of the enormous quantities of magazines and newspapers to the troops was discussed in the evening, and the conference adjourned till 10.30 a.m. to-day.

During the afternoon the delegates were entertained at afternoon tea by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress.

VICTORIAN FLOODS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The latest advices received from Sugarloaf, on the Goulburn River, is that the river has fallen 7ft. The huge flood of 70,000 cubic feet a second, previously reported as passing Sugarloaf, has yet to reach the Murray River.

The latest report from Seymour shows that the river at the Goulburn Bridge is about 2ft 6in lower than during the flood of last September. All the houses in the old town and the low-lying portion of the new town are submerged, but fortunately there is no loss of life. The critical test should be reached to-morrow, but the Water Commission is afraid that it will be impossible to confine the flood between the levee banks on the Goulburn. The commission expects trouble from the Murray River, owing to the heavy rain that has fallen on the catchment of the Ovens, King, and Kiewa rivers. The various settlers at the naturally weak points on the Murray have been warned to expect a large flood.

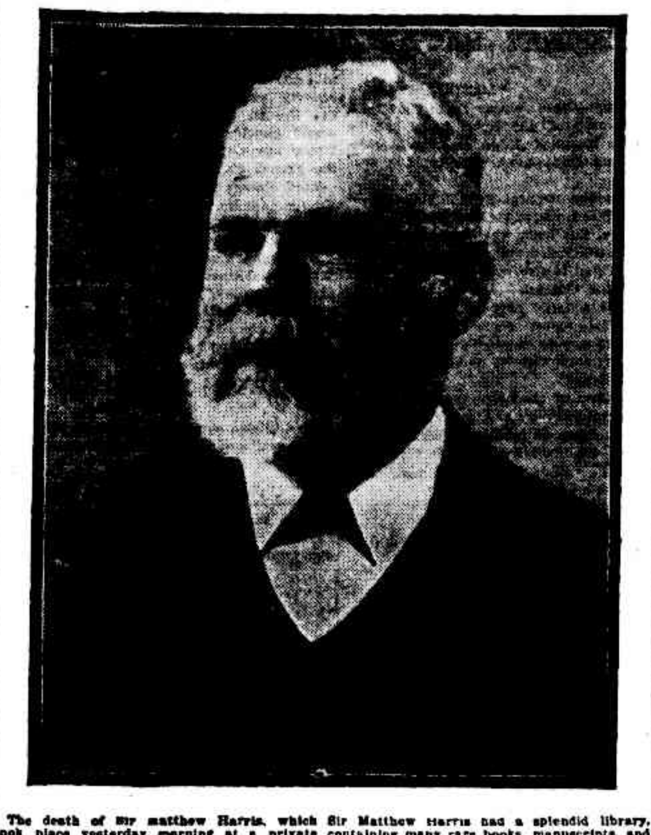
The Kiewa River is in heavy flood, and all low-lying land has been inundated. Several families have had to be rescued from their homes. A boy was reported to be stranded in a tree, having been there all night. At Bonegilla, six miles from Wodonga, where the Kiewa River is known as the Little River, the flood has reached a record height. At Tallangatta the flood waters came down rapidly last night and this morning from the hills, and the country presented a wonderful sight. The water is over the tops of the fences. Sportsmen have been out all day shooting snakes and rabbits, which are crowded on logs and islets. The Goulburn River at Shepparton continues to rise rapidly.

LATE CAPT. FRED. FANNING, D.S.O.

CASINO, Friday.

The late Captain Fred. Fanning, son of Lieut.-Colonel Fanning, of Coomeragee, Casino, who was awarded the D.S.O. for conspicuous bravery, was killed in November, at the battle of the Somme. Captain Fanning was mentioned in despatches for gallantry at Gallipoli and in

THE LATE SIR MATTHEW HARRIS.



The death of Sir Matthew Harris, which took place yesterday morning at a private hospital at Potts Point, after a short illness, removes a prominent citizen from our midst, and there will be widespread expressions of regret that a life of such usefulness has ended. For Sir Matthew Harris had for many years past taken an active interest in the public life of the State, and he was a warm supporter of charitable and philanthropic objects. He was a life governor of Sydney Hospital, and succeeded the late Mr. John Pope as president of the board of that institution, a position he occupied up to the time of his death. Among his other activities he was president of the Wentworth Park trust and a vice-president of the Royal Agricultural Society.

Born at Magherfeldt, near the historic city of Derry, Ireland, in 1840, a son of the late Mr. John Harris, merchant, Sir Matthew Harris came out to Australia as a boy 2 years of age. His uncle, the late Dr. John Harris, a surgeon in the early days of Sydney, obtained as a Government grant some property near Circular Quay, and he also obtained grants of land in the Five Dock and Dummoyne districts, and later he purchased the Ruse land grant—the first farm in the colony—situated in the Parramatta district. That area is still in the possession of the family. Having no heir, Dr. John Harris bequeathed his estate to his brother, a resident of the province of Ulster. Sir Matthew, with other members of the family, came to Sydney as heirs to the Harris properties. He was educated first at the Normal Institute, under Mr. Thomas Aiken, and then at the Sydney Grammar School, being one of the first boys to enter the school. Later he went to the Sydney University, where, in 1863, he gained his B.A. degree.

Sir Matthew entered into local and State politics with great ardour. He became an alderman of the City Council for Denison Ward in the early 'Eighties, and later was elected Mayor, a position he occupied in the years 1898, 1899, and 1900. For nine years he represented the Denison electorate in the Legislative Assembly. In 1899 he was created a Knight Bachelor.

An ardent collector of Australiana, the late Sir Matthew Harris had a splendid library, containing many rare books, manuscripts, and prints. It is now in the possession of his son, Dr. W. H. Harris. He was also much interested in art matters, and was an enthusiastic collector of Japanese art. When the sale of his property at Etham, Darling Point, took place he presented a magnificent model of a Japanese temple to the Technological Museum, refusing several tempting offers for it. Other beautiful examples of Japanese art were distributed among members of the family. At the same time he presented some valuable historic pictures to the Mitchell Library. Other pictures were given to the National Art Gallery, and a bust of Governor Gipps, by Abrahams, was given to the Government, to be placed in Government House. In 1912 he was elected president of the Australasian Pioneers' Club.

The late Sir Matthew Harris married, in 1868, Miss Frances Snowden Lane, a daughter of Mr. William Owner Lane, of Eganville, near Windsor. His wife predeceased him, her death having occurred two years ago. There are six sons and two daughters of the marriage. The sons are—Messrs. George Harris, barrister, of this city, who is assisting at the Red Cross Information Bureau; Matthew James Harris, solicitor; Dr. W. H. Harris, who has just returned from the front, after serving with the British A.M.C.; Robert Sidney Harris, grazier, of Barragan, near Mudgee; Arthur Leslie Harris, grazier, of Condell Park, Maldon; and Albert G. Harris, grazier, of Barragan, and at present serving at the front with the British artillery. One of his daughters is Mrs. Carty Salmon, wife of Dr. Carty Salmon, member for the Grampians seat in the House of Representatives. There are also five grandchildren, one of whom, Lieut. Stephen Matthew Harris, only son of Mr. George Harris, was recently wounded in France. Miss Margaret Harris is a sister of the late Sir Matthew Harris.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning, a special train leaving the Mortuary Station for the Rookwood cemetery at 11.10. Prior to that there will be a short service at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street.

KILLED IN ACTION.

GUNNER CHARLES ARNCLIFFE COOMBES,

of the Advertising Department of the "S.M. Herald."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Coombes, of Kinross, Bay-road, have received information that their second eldest son, Gunner Charles A. Coombes was killed in action in France on May 13. He was 24 years of age, and prior to enlisting was employed on the advertising staff of the "S.M. Herald." Shortly before leaving for the front he was married to Miss Jessie Reeves, daughter of Mr. John Reeves, of Altamina, Eden-street, Arncliffe. His elder brother, Gunner W. H. Coombes, has been on active service since August, 1914.

COAL BOARD.

MR. JUSTICE EDMUNDS'S THREAT.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the Coal Board to-day, Mr. Justice Edmunds intimated that he felt inclined to ask the Federal Government to relieve him of his position.

His Honor said the miners of the district had entered into an agreement, and if they did not keep it he would ask the Government to have the work done some other way. His Honor then adjourned the board until next week.

WHEAT POOL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Senator Russell estimates that three-quarters of the whole of the wheat in the pool will have been sold by the end of the present year at a price that will exceed 4s 9d a bushel.

STATE TAXES.

"You have a better chance of being struck by lightning than you have of securing a remission of the super-tax at the present time."

This statement was made yesterday by the Acting Treasurer (Mr. Fitzpatrick) in replying to a deputation from the Property Ratepayers and Taxpayers' Association and the City and Suburban Shopkeepers' Association, which had brought under his notice certain grievances in connection with the assessment and collection of State income tax. The deputation was introduced by Mr. William Brooks, M.L.C.

Mr. Arthur Rickard urged the Minister to appoint a tribunal for the revision of decisions. Men with small capital, he said, often paid rather than risk the cost of going to the District Court. Objection was taken to taxation on the profits on sales made on time-payment where the profit had not been realised or received. The profit on sales made under contract should be spread equally over the terms of the contract. Objection was also taken to the arbitrary assessments being made on the basis of what the Commissioners considered the profit should be, in opposition to the return furnished by the taxpayer. Allowance for depreciation was insufficient. Such allowance should be based on the life of the article or machinery, to be fixed by experts. No depreciation whatever was allowed on office furniture. It was claimed that deduction of subscriptions to all charities where they aggregated £20 should be allowed, quite apart from what the individual subscription might be. If a fine were imposed, then it should be automatically remitted if the tax collected was refunded; while it should be remitted pro rata if a proportion of the tax collected was refunded. Payment of income tax should be allowed to be made quarterly. The same forms should be used for both State and Federal income tax returns. Income tax had to be paid on profits made on speculations outside of the taxper's business or profession, but losses made on any such outside speculations could not be deducted. That, he submitted, was obviously unfair. It was claimed that the losses were largely of capital and not profit. It was also urged that the super-tax should be abolished. Mr. Rickard also pointed out that taxpayers were not allowed to deduct the amount in Federal land tax. Other deductions not allowed were sinking funds on leaseholds and bonuses to staff.

Mr. H. C. Brierley said that the super-tax meant an increase of 35 per cent. He suggested that a percentage basis would have been more equitable.

Mr. Bridges said there should be an inexpensive tribunal to whom small business men could appeal.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, in reply, said there seemed to be some justification for the establishment of a new tribunal for the purpose of hearing appeals against assessment. At the same time, he thought there should be some financial responsibility on the part of the taxpayer who appealed. The suggestion made by the deputation would be considered. He could not hold out the slightest hope of remitting the super-tax, which represented £500,000 of the total receipts. The State was not in financial difficulty that could not be overcome, but the Government could not afford at the present time to cast aside any form of taxation that would bring in revenue. The income tax appeared to be coming in well. It was necessary that it should, and perhaps it would help to make up for the small deficit which it was likely the Government would have to announce. He did not think it would be possible to allow taxpayers to pay quarterly, because additional expense would be involved.

Mr. Rickard: Then why not make it half-yearly?

Mr. Fitzpatrick promised to see what could be done in that direction.

Mr. Bridges: The City Council accepts half-yearly payments.

Mr. Fitzpatrick promised to give favourable consideration to the request that the amount paid in Federal land tax should be deducted from the State assessment. The other matters mentioned would also receive attention.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL AT CULCAIRN.

CULCAIRN, Friday.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson visited Culcairn yesterday, and left by the express for Melbourne this morning. They were met by a guard of honour of 50 cadets and troops of Boy Scouts, and, with an escort of mounted troopers proceeded to the shire hall, where a civic reception took place. A visit was paid to the school, where his Excellency presented the Scottish Standard received from Culcairn in Scotland. The flag was unfurled by Lady Helen. A musical programme of patriotic airs was carried out by the pupils. There was also an official luncheon. In the evening his Excellency was entertained at a smoke social, while Lady Helen attended a musical entertainment. The town was illuminated in the evening.

SOMETHING WRONG.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—There is evidently still something wrong in the management of the post-office in Egypt. During December, 1915, till March, 1916, we wrote regularly, and addressed the letters correctly and clearly, as you may see by the envelope enclosed. It ought to have been very easy to find out that the brigade in question had gone to France, but the post officials do not appear to have known of the existence of it. After a delay of a year our letters are being returned branded "unable to trace; return to sender." This may explain to others why sons or husbands did not receive the eagerly looked for letters in Egypt.

I am, etc.,

Melbourne, June 4. E. M. SYMNOR.

MINING.

HEALTHIER CONDITIONS.

The market for mining scrip opened brightly on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and business was conducted on fairly extensive lines, with Barriers attracting most attention. Copper stocks closed on improved prices. Hampden, though higher at 27/ after the "high" change, dropped back to 26/6 late in the day. The Westonian gold enterprises maintained a firm market, with the exception of Main Lode, which was lower at 1/6. An odd lot of Edna Mays realised the enhanced price of 42/6.

A further recovery in tin prices in London met response in a healthier tone for tin concerns. Kampong rallied /6 to 33/3, and Tongkah Compound was higher at 9/8, while most other Eastern tin-dredging propositions were quoted on a favourable basis. Ratruts, however, were a shade easier. Vegetable Creeks pursued a steady upward course to 3/3, but Carpathians remained weak.

Junction Norths again received most handling among the Barrier stocks. A rise to 11/ was effected early in operations, and thenceforth constant fluctuations progressed to the closing price of 10/9, which was higher than Thursday's price. Junction, contg., also moved up, and finished 3d better at 7/3. "Hills" jumped to 43/3 on afternoon 'Change, but later eased to 42/6, for six weeks' delivery. Norths were sold forward practically on closing time at the much-reduced price of 50/9.

LONDON SHARE MARKET.

LONDON, June 7.

On the London Stock Exchange to-day, British B.H. shares were quoted, b 34/, s 35/; B.H. South, b 162/6, s 163/9; Hampden, b 30/6, s 31/6; Waihi, b 33/9, s 34/9.

NOTES.

Smelting was resumed by the Mount Elliott, Ltd., North Queensland, on Wednesday. In July last year the treatment of ore was suspended, and since the old plant has been dismantled and a new plant erected in its place. The general manager, in announcing the commencement of smelting operations, reported that, taking into consideration the new design and lay-out of the treatment works, and that a number of the hands were new, the work was proceeding fairly satisfactory. The bulk of the blister copper won will be sent to the company's refinery at Bowen for treatment, and the remainder will go to the electrolytic refinery at Port Kembla.

PUBLISHER FINED £100.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

At the police court to-day, before Mr. H. Giles Shaw, S.M., William Diggory Barnett, on remand, was charged, as printer and publisher of the "Barrier Daily Truth," with having, on January 23, published statements likely to prejudice recruiting. Accused said that subject to his right to object to the information as not having been duly authorised, the irregularity of the proceedings, and also to the jurisdiction of the Court, he pleaded not guilty. Mr. Edwards said that the article complained of was headed "The Mailed Fist, Your Liberty at Home." It contained some ex-parte statements by soldiers who had been punished for serious offences. The article was signed by R. J. Stuart Robertson.

After hearing evidence, the magistrate convicted, and fined accused £100, in default nine months' hard labour. He also ordered accused to enter into recognisances in the sum of £100, with one surety of £100, to comply with the provisions of No. 28 of the War Precautions Act Regulations, 1915, for the period of the war, in default further imprisonment for six months. Notice of appeal was given.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Moorefield Racing Club's June meeting provides an outing for metropolitan sporting folk this afternoon; Sandown Park will be the sporting rendezvous in Victoria; the Port Adelaide Racing Club holds its June reunion in South Australia; the Queensland Turf Club brings its autumn meeting to a close at Brisbane; and the Maitland Jockey Club caters for northern sportsmen on the Rutherford course.

The attractive bill of fare drafted by the Rosehill management for its Prince of Wales Birthday meeting on the 23rd and 25th inst. demands the attention of owners and trainers on Monday next, when entries close with the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe. The prize-money aggregates 1400 sovs. distributed over half a dozen races.

Moorefield will be the rendezvous for metropolitan sporting folk this afternoon, and an interesting programme is down for discussion. The track is excellent going, and the general arrangements up to the usual standard. The transit service includes special trains starting from the Central Railway Station at 11.15 a.m. (horses), 12.25, 12.37, 12.46, 12.54, 1.6, and 1.15 p.m. The racing commences at 2.10 p.m. with the Hurdle Race, in which the places may be filled by Algoma, Royal Hastings, and Rentile; Boureong, Asia Minor, and Dame Acre may get more as minded in the Flying Handicap. The judge may declare for Miss Martian, Bernalda, and Powdal at the finish of the race for the Kogarah Stakes; Coolriff, Tressoil, and Charlona may occupy the situations in the Maiden Two-year-old Handicap; First Lesson, Charleville, and Kenilera may command the attention of the judge in the June Handicap; and Malbeur, La Balloure, and Galen may divide honours in the Flying Welter.

Messrs. William Inglis and Son announce an important sale of high-class trotting stock at their bazaar, Camperdown, on Tuesday next, the 12th inst. The lots listed include b g Alto Arner (by Alto), b m Head Lady (by St. Elmo II.), b g Hurry On (by St. Elmo II.), blk g Gay Bob (by Piccaninny), ch g Colorado (by Hoon June.), b f (by St. Elmo II.), and ch f Una Bella (by Charming Bella). Most of the horses are in active training, and in splendid condition.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

Lieutenant W. H. Tonkin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Tonkin, Sunnyside, Adelong, has been killed in France. He went to France in August, 1916, and in December was promoted to the rank of first-lieutenant. He was science master at the Technical High School, Sydney, and the Grafton High School, having graduated at the Sydney University.

Lieutenant J. E. S. Taylor, 29, son of Mrs. E. Taylor, Crawa-street, East Sydney, and the late Mr. E. Taylor, has been killed in France. He was for a number of years attached to the Garrison Artillery, Sydney, and went to Clermont, Western Australia, as area officer.

Mrs. Godson, of Romaine, Bradley's Head-road, Mosman, has been notified that her only son, Signaller J. H. Godson, aged 26, has been killed. He was in the employ of the Coastal Farmers' Society, Ltd., and a brother of Mrs. C. Hatton, of Mosman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ringland, of Marrickville, have received information that their son, Stretcher-bearer Harold Ringland, aged 22 years, has been killed. He was at the landing on Gallipoli and also the evacuation.

Mr. C. Whitehead, Fitzroy-avenue, Balmain, has been notified that his eldest son, Gunner Jack H. Whitehead, Howitzer Battery, has been killed in France. He was 25 years of age, and practised as a dentist at Dungog and at Milton. His younger brother, Fred, is fighting in the same battery.

Mr. W. Smith, Rawson-street, Haberfield, has received word that his son, Corporal Edmund Smith, has been killed in France. He was 23 years of age.

Mrs. W. J. Wiles, Nippo, Lucas-road, Burwood, has received information that her husband, Gunner W. J. Miles, has been killed. He was 24 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bingley, Rose-street, Darlington, have been notified that their eldest son, Claud W. Bingley, has been killed in France. He was 24 years of age, and was employed at the Running Sheds, Redfern. Two other brothers are on active service abroad.

Mr. R. and Mrs. Doyle, of the Railway Crossing, Trangie, have received information that their son, Private J. Doyle, has been killed in France. A younger brother has been in hospital in England for some months.

Private Norman Hurley, who has been killed in action, was the fourth son of the late Mr. John Hurley, M.L.A. He enlisted about 18 months ago, and joined the Signallers. He left Sydney for Egypt over 12 months ago, and, after some training there, was sent to France. For some time he was a regimental quartermaster-sergeant, but letters received from him by last mail said that owing to the shortage of reinforcements, he was to be transferred to the artillery. Though many of his mates and others had the good luck to get furlough to go to London and other places, Private Hurley was unable to get away from duty. He was 31 years of age, and leaves a widow. Prior to enlisting he was in the employ of the Sydney Water and Sewerage Board. He was a member of one of the New South Wales contingents that went to Africa in 1901, just before the termination of the Boer War. One of his cousins, Private Spencer Letcher, of Bathurst, one of the "Coo-ees," was killed in action in France, and one of his nephews, Sergeant Herbert Booker, of Cairns, Queensland, was killed in action at Gallipoli.

Private Isaac Proctor, of Lithgow, has been killed in action. He was a carrier, and enlisted two years ago.

Mr. Fry, of the Pindong Public School, has received notification that his brother has been killed in France.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Butler, of Coolabah, Ben Boyd-road, Neutral Bay, have received information that their only son, Private Charles Dixon Butler, has been killed in France. He was in the employ of Messrs. John Bridge and Co., Ltd.

Mr. J. Moon, Phillip-street, Parramatta, has been informed that his youngest son, Leslie C. Moon, has been killed in France. He was employed by the Railway Department at Grenfell, Gilgandra, and Cobar.

Mr. Harry Martin, 28 Marion-street, Enmore, has been informed that his youngest brother, Percy Martin, has been killed in France. His father, Constable Martin, of Regent-street police station, died a few weeks ago. Two brothers are in France.

Corporal Oswald Frederick Mutton, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Mutton, of Lesholme, Roseville, has been killed in France. He was aged 22 years, and was assistant surveyor, attached to the surveying staff of the Public Works Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lean, of Footeria, have been notified that their son, Private Eric Lean, has been killed in France. He was 22 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Page, of Main Creek, have been informed that their son, Sergeant Douglas Page, has been killed. He was 21 years of age. Recently a brother, Sergeant Gregory Page, was killed.

Corporal A. O. Denton has been killed. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Denton, of Adamstown, and was 21 years of age. Two brothers are in the army.

DIED OF WOUNDS.

Mrs. A. Jarmain, Chinchilla, Queensland, and late of Gunnedah, has been notified that her fourth son, Private Stanley Derrick Jarmain, of the A.A.M.C., aged 22 years, has died of wounds received at Bullecourt, France. A brother is on active service in Egypt, and another is in hospital in England suffering from trench feet.

Sergeant M'Pherson, who enlisted from Wollongong two years ago, has died of wounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, 8 Jarocin-avenue, Glebe Point, have received news that their son, Private R. S. Jones, who was reported to have been killed, has returned to his unit.

FINANCIAL.

ABERMAIN COLLIERY.

The report of the Abermain Colliery Company, Ltd., for the year ended April 30 shows a net profit of £33,775, and, with £614 brought forward, £34,389 was available. A dividend of 10 per cent (including interim dividend) absorbs £19,000, and a bonus of 2½ per cent. absorbs £4750, a sum of £10,000 is transferred to the reserve account, and £640 is carried forward. During the past 12 months the coal trade has been in a very depressed condition. The following comparison may be made of the principal figures of the balance-sheet:—

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

The directors of the Bank of New Zealand, in their report for the year ended March 31, 1917, state that the profits, after providing for expenses of management and all bad and doubtful debts, and after making provision for the annual donation to the provident fund and for a special grant thereto, as well as for a bonus to the staff, are £436,631 8s 8d. From this has to be deducted interest on guarantee stock, £21,141 9s 6d; leaving £415,489 19s 2d. Of this sum the directors have allocated, in reduction of the bank premises and furniture account, £50,000, leaving a balance of profit for the year of £365,489 19s 2d, to which has been added the balance brought forward from last year, £56,464 6s 11d, making £421,954 6s 1d.

From this amount has been paid an interim dividend at 6 per cent. on A and B preference shares, £45,000; and an interim dividend at 6 per cent. on ordinary shares, £60,000. There is left available for distribution £316,954 6s 1d. This the directors propose should be disposed of as follows:—Dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. on A preference shares, £20,000; dividend at 6 per cent. on B preference shares, £15,000; dividend at 6 per cent. on ordinary shares, £60,000; bonus at the rate of 3 per cent. on B preference shares, £7500; bonus at the rate of 3 per cent. on ordinary shares, £30,000; transfer to reserve fund (making the reserve fund £2,135,000), £72,858 15s 9d; leaving a balance to be carried forward of £111,595 13s 4d.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Wheat scrip was quoted on 'Change yesterday for the first time. Splitting of quantities is not permitted.

UNION STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

The shares of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, Ltd., were quoted to-day, b 60/, s 61/.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Chemicals were in good demand yesterday at full prices. Silicate of soda was difficult to secure, and the market advanced sharply with a sale at £20 a ton. For soda ash £22/10/ was wanted, while business was done in English brands of caustic soda, 70/72, at £46 a ton. Future shipments of rosin were available at considerably reduced rates, and, consequently, holders of spot stocks were prepared to accept orders at lower figures. "G" grade was offered at £25/10/, and "N" grade at £26/10/ a ton. These prices may have been shaded. Carbide realised from £54 to £57. French cream of tartar, 95 per cent., for prompt delivery, cleared at 2/8. An indent parcel for shipment during July and August was booked at a figure which would mean a landed cost of almost 2/10. Tartaric acid sold at from 3/3½ to 3/4. On the spot strychnine commanded from 10/6 to 11/, but a parcel "close handy" changed hands at 8/.

There were ready buyers of Griffiths's rabbit traps at 30/, and two tanks of "Grip" brand cleared at 28/6. Fencing wires continued exceptionally firm, and business was done in No. 8 black at £34 and £35 a ton. No. 8 galvanised realised from £39 to £39/10/, and No. 10 from £41 to £42. The market was bare of No. 10 black wire. Galvanised iron was quoted at from £55 upwards. Files and I.W. screws commanded list prices. Plaster was offered at 37/6.

At this week's tea sale in Colombo about 3,500,000lb were offered. America bought heavily, and all desirable leaf was dearer. On the whole the quality of the teas offered was poor, but recent mail advices showed that an improvement in quality might soon be expected. It was rumoured in Melbourne this week that the Commonwealth Government was inquiring in Colombo as to the possibility of Ceylon producers guaranteeing that no rise in price would take place if the Commonwealth prohibited the importation of teas grown outside the Empire.

MEETING OF CORNSACK IMPORTERS.

A meeting of the jute trade was held at the rooms of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. Mr. N. R. Smith, of Messrs. James Bell and Co., occupied the chair.

After hearing the deliberations of the committee, consisting of Mr. Alexander Watt, and representatives of Messrs. Parbury, Henty, and Co., Messrs. G. C. Crespin and Co., Messrs. Moses Moss and Co., and Burns, Philp, Ltd., appointed at a previous meeting to make inquiries with regard to the supply of cornsacks, the meeting endorsed the appointment of Messrs. Alexander Watt and J. C. Alexander as delegates from Sydney to meet delegates from other States in Melbourne and discuss further business as may be required.

It was agreed that the chairman of the committee (Mr. Alexander Watt) should call another meeting of the trade when required.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN WHEAT POOL.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Statistics made available by the Wheat Harvest Board to-day showed that 41,007,000 bushels of wheat had been delivered to the South Australian pool from the 1916-17 harvest. Of that quantity 1,338,000 bushels have been sold locally, and 633,000 bushels shipped overseas, the balance still being in agents and millers' care, excepting what has been destroyed by mice and rain. On the basis of the initial payment of 2/6 per bushel, the value of the wheat received was £5,076,000. So far, wheat certificates amounting to £4,539,000 have been presented to banks and paid. The amount advanced on wheat to date by the Imperial authorities has been £4,804,000, and the overdraft is £4,897,000. Further sums will be distributed shortly on account of both new and old wheat. So far the growers have had paid to them in respect of the 1916 crop, on the basis of 4/ per bushel, an aggregate of £5,905,000. Of last years' total of 29,891,000 bushels delivered to the pool, 4,283,000 bushels were sold locally for £1,049,000, and 16,712,000 bushels were shipped overseas and to other States, worth £3,980,000. The agents and millers still have on hand 8,896,000 bushels of last season's wheat, and against that is a net overdraft of £635,000.

OVERSEA MARKET CABLES.

CEREALS.

LONDON, June 7.

A parcel of 8000 quarters of Australian wheat on passage has been sold in Manchester at 83/ a quarter of 480lb c.i.f.

Flour is firm. Australian patents are quoted at 78/ a sack of 280lb.

Oats are very scarce. New Zealand Gartons are nominally worth from 67/ to 69/ a quarter of 304lb.

Peas and beans are tending towards easier levels.

SHEEPSKIN SALES.

At the sheepskin sales 1139 bales were offered, of which 633 bales were from Australia. There was an average attendance, and prices generally were 2d above April levels. Best lots advanced slightly more relatively than did short pelts. One super combing lot from Western Australia realised 2/.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Butter is dull, and prices are easier in anticipation of a further reduction in the maximum prices to-morrow. Danish is quoted at about 202/. Australian at from 174/ to 186/, and New Zealand at from 180/ to 190/ per cwt.

Cheese is nominal. It is reported that Canada has refused Britain's offer to take the whole output at 10½d f.o.b., on the ground that it is too low in view of the present cost of manufacture.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Bran, firm, £4. Pollard, supplies short, £6. Oats steady, Algerian feed 2/1 to 2/3, f.o.b., white milling 2/6 to 2/8. Barley firm, quiet, 4/ to 4/3 for best English, 3/ to 3/3 Cape. Chaff steady, 70/ to 72/6 on trucks, Mile End, bags included. Dun peas, 5/9, f.o.b. Cornsacks, 9/11 to 10/, spot lots. Branbags, 8/3.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Barley, good malting firm, English 4/3 to 4/6, Cape 3/2 to 3/3; oats, good milling Algerians steady, 2/4 to 2/6, feed dull, 1/11 to 2/; maize firm, 3/7½ to 3/8; chaff, fair demand, £3 to £3/7/6; straw quiet, £1/10/ to £1/15/; potatoes dull, Carmens £3/10/ to £3/15/, Pinkeyes £2/10/; onions slightly easier, £4/10/ to £4/15/; good sales of Ceylon and Java teas; cornsacks advanced sharply, cassons 9/4, plus duty and war risk; [illegible] £1/10/; boracic acid, 115/; Sydney buyers of Kenrett's oysters, 8/6; linseed oil fight ended, prices advanced /8 to /9 per gallon, B. and S. raw in drums now distributing at 7/3, Meggitt's, in cases, 6/6.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

Although there was no change in the price of eggs yesterday, the market possessed a healthier tone all round, and business was considerably more active than was the case on the previous day. Supplies of river eggs were somewhat curtailed on account of one or two of the North Coast steamers being bar-bound. New-laid commanded 1/10 to 2/, and case 1/4 to 1/5. Parcels from cold storage were placed at 1/ to 1/2 a dozen. Duck eggs were without alteration.

Bacon was fairly plentiful, and sales were effected at late prices; cheese was again scarce.

CHARGES ON HONEY TINS.

Some time ago the beekeepers' conference held in Sydney carried a resolution that a charge of /9 per tin be made for honey tins, and that agents be instructed to charge accordingly. The beekeepers complain that, owing to shortage of tin, they cannot afford to allow the honey containers to go free of charge. On the other hand, grocers and manufacturers are objecting to the extra charge. Very few agents are charging the extra /9, because, as a whole, they contend that if they held out for the /9 it will seriously affect the sale of honey. The general opinion amongst the trade is that if the producers will send their consignments to Sydney in new tins they will be able to charge extra per lb, and so make up for the expense.

BUTTER.

The quantity of butter available yesterday was scarcely sufficient to meet demands, and in some quarters it was stated that there was a possibility of a slight shortage this week-end. The Kyogle arrived from the Clarence with 777 boxes and the Brundah from the Richmond with 798 boxes.

POULTRY.

Only moderate consignments of poultry were on hand. Ducks and drakes were slow of sale, but for other birds there was a fair demand.

Quotations were:—

Eggs.—Hen, suburban, new-laid 1/10, choice graded 2/; Northern Rivers, 1/4; South Coast and railways, 1/4 and 1/5; cold stores, 1/ to 1/2; duck eggs, new-laid 1/8, case 1/4 per dozen.

Butter.—2/ per cwt to be added for boxes and storage. Choicest, 158/8 per cwt; packed in prints, ½d per lb extra may be charged.

Bacon.—Special brands, sides /11¼, flitches /11, middles 1/1¼, shoulders /9½; ordinary cures, sides /10½ to /11, flitches /10½, middles 1/ to 1/1, shoulders /8½ to /9 per lb.

Hams.—Single cloth, 1/3½; seeds, 1/4 per lb.

Cheese.—Local: Matured, /10½ to /11, new loaf, /9½ lb.

Lard.—Packets /11½ to 1/; bulk, /11 to /11½ per lb.

Honey.—60lb tins of choice western, /5½; candied, /4 to /4½; Northern Rivers, /4 to /4½; occasionally /5 per lb.

Beeswax.—Bright, nominally 1/7; dark, nominally 1/3.

POULTRY.

River and Railways.—Old hens, 3/3 to 3/6, choice 4/; roosters, small 3/ to 3/6, choice 4/6 to 5/; muscovy ducks, 3/6 to 4/6; drakes 4/6 to 5/6; English ducks and drakes, 3/3 to 4/; guineafowls, 5/ to 5/6 (nominal); turkeys, hens 7/6 to 10/, gobblers, 10/ to 17/6; pigeons, small 1/3 to 1/6, prime 1/6 to 2/ a pair.

Messrs. Mossman and Ellis report having obtained the following prices at auction yesterday:—Eggs: New-laid, hen 1/10 to 2/, duck 1/8 to 1/10; rivers and railways, 1/4 to 1/7. Young roosters: Choice to 9/, good 7/ to 8/, medium 5/ to 6/, inferior and old from 4/. Fat hens: Choice heavy to 7/, good to 5/6, medium and light 3/ to 4/3. Mus. drakes: Choice suburban to 9/, good 6/6 to 7/6, med., light, and old from 5/6. Mus. ducks: Choice young to 5/, good 4/3 to 4/9, med. light from 4/, old to 6/. Eng. ducks: Choice young to 5/6, good 4/6 to 5/, med., light, and old from 4/. Turkeys: Gobblers, choice heavy to 22/6, good 15/ to £1, med., light, and small from 10/; hens, choice heavy to 12/6, good 11/ to 12/, med., light, and small from 8/. Geese: To 10/. Guinea fowls: To 6/. Pigeons: To 2/3. Quail: To 1/6. Gillbirds: To /6. Carcase pork: To /10½ per lb. Carcase veal: To /6 per lb.

A steady demand prevailed for eggs, and late quotations were maintained. A larger supply of poultry came forward, but prices were firm for good young fowls. Turkeys are not in demand, though plentiful, prices being lower than for years past. Pork, being in short supply, sold well at improved rates.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

There was very little of interest in the forage and grain section. Consignments totalling 5400 bags of maize arrived from the North Coast, and further supplies arrived from Queensland and by rail. Agents again asked 3/6 per bushel for prime yellow. Derrick straw, both oaten and wheaten, cleared at £3/10/; the demand was dull. Other lines remained unaltered.

Quotations were:—

Chaff.—Wheaten, prime £5 to £5/15/, good £4/5/ to £4/15/, medium £3/15/ to £4; oaten, prime £5, good £4 to £4/10/, medium £3 to £3/5/. Victorian, £4/15/ a ton.

Oaten Hay.—Victorian, £5/15/ to £6; local, £6 to £6/10/ a ton.

Oats.—Tasmanian: A grade, choice 3/3 to 3/5; B grade, 3/1 to 3/3; Algerian, Tasmanian, and Victorian seed 2/5 to 2/7, milling 2/8 to 2/10 a bushel.

Lucerne.—Prime green, large bales £4/10/, small £3/10/, new green £2/10/ to £3 per ton.

Derrick Straw.—Oaten, £3/10/; wheaten, £3/10/ a ton.

Broom Millet.—Prime long hurl, £32 to £34; inferior from £20 a ton.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Redskins and Plunketts, £7; Brownells, £6/10/; Bismarcks, £5/10/; Pinkeyes, £5 a ton; Victorian, Carmens, £5; Pinkeyes, £4/10/ a ton.

Peas.—Grey, 8/ to 8/6; blue, A grade, 18/ a bushel.

Maize.—Prime dry yellow, 3/5 to 3/6; white, 3/4 to 3/5 a bushel.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, £5/10/ to £6 a ton.

Swede Turnips.—£6 a ton.

Firewood.—Boxwood, choice 28/, good 23/; stringybark, 20/ to 26/; ironbark, 18/ to 20/; mixed wood, 16/ to 17/6; bakers' wood, best 19/, good 17/, inferior 11/ to 12/ a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Although another heavy supply of forage was offered for sale at Alexandria, prices were steadier than those ruling on the previous day.

Prime chaff was scarce, but good and inferior grades were plentiful. The former found ready sale at late rates, but for other cuts stocks were more difficult to sell. Oaten hay was in good supply, but the market was not as firm as might have been expected, considering the approaching sheep show. In the lucerne section stocks were small, but the demand was not strong, and consequently values were steady.

The arrivals of vegetables were again large. Buyers were in good attendance, and agents had no difficulty in obtaining fair prices.

The yarding comprised 111 trucks of forage, nine of grain, and 10 of vegetables; while the manifest included 147 trucks of forage, 23 of grain, and 10 of vegetables.

The following sales were effected:—

Wheaten Chaff.—From Booth, Coolamon (16004), 4/; Brovinan, Milvale (8221), 2/7; Barnes, Nubba (12018), 5/1; (6608), 5/1; ex Forbes (18484), 4/8; Daymence, Temora (13084), 4/7; ex Carcoar (12742), 4/6; Connolly Bros., Mandurama (8247), 4/4, balance oaten, 4/4; Ferguson, Orange (11008), 4/; (9106), 4/; ex Ganmain (6662), 3/7; McGrath, Beneen (11028), 4/; Iandra Estate, Greenethorpe (18119), 4/1 per cwt.

Oaten Chaff.—Ex Mandurama (18194), 3/11; Bullock, Blayney (18116), 4/2; (1126), 4/4; Connolly Bros., Mandurama (16044), 4/3; Moxe, Mudgee (8941), 4/6; Allen, Grenfell (13127), 4/2; Davis, Yass (9554), 3/6; Grey, Yanco (19228), 4/2 per cwt.

Lucerne Chaff.—From Gummer, Perthville (1603), 5/1 per cwt.

Lucerne Hay.—From Webb, Monna (4269), 4/; Thompson, Mudgee (15304), 4/8; Tomkins, Mt. Frome (7226), 4/4 per cwt.

Derrick Straw.—Ex Mudgee (4613), 3/; Bullock, Wattamondara (16958) 3/, (3814) 3/ per cwt.

Potatoes.—Ex Crookwell (15544), 10 bags Snowflakes branded "Rumble," 5/2; 48 bags Redskins, "Harvey," 6/2; 25 bags, "Plum," 4/4; 22 bags Snowflakes, "Warn," 4/4; 20 bags, "C," 4/6; Spackman, Crookwell (1164), 20 bags Snowflakes, "WGH," 5/7; 29 bags Up-to-dates, "Beasley," 5/; 16 bags Snowflakes, 4/7; Lyons, McAlister (18353), 12 bags Brownells, 4/9; 46 bags Snowflakes, 4/4; ex Goulburn (3550), 80 bags Up-to-dates, 4/9; ex Newbridge (1508), 45 bags Redskins, 3/6; 98 bags Manhattans, 4/6 per cwt.

Pumpkins.—Ex Wellington (2043), 2/6 per cwt.

FRUIT MARKETS.

Generally speaking, business in fruit was dull yesterday. The demand for apples was only moderate, but as supplies were exceedingly light prices increased considerably.

Bananas were fairly plentiful; Queensland varieties eased slightly; further shipments from Fiji are expected next week.

Quotations were:—

Lemons.—Choice 4/6, medium 2/6 to 3/ a bushel-case; small ad inferior practically unsalable.

Oranges.—Choice 4/6 to 5/, medium 3/ to 3/6, small 1/8 to 2/; navels, choice 9/, medium 5/ to 7/, small 3/ per bushel case.

Apples.—Local: Dessert, Five Crowns, 7/ to 10/; Rome Beauties, 5/ to 10/; Northern Spy, 8/ to 10/. Cooking: Choice 7/ to 8/, medium 4/ to 5/, small 3/ to 3/6 (nominal); Tasmanian Jonathans, 7/ to 10/; New York Pippins, 7/ to 10/; Scarlet Permains, 7/ to 10/; Adams' Permains, 7/ to 10/. Cooking: French Crabs, choice 11/, medium 8/ to 9/. Western Australia: Rokewoods, 9/ to 11/; Nickajacks and Rome Beauties, 8/ to 10/ per bushel case.

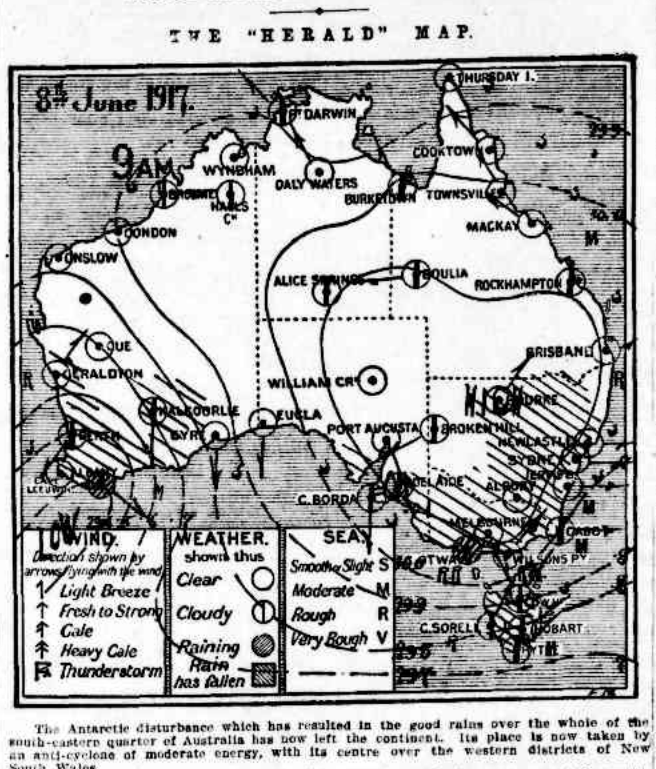
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The Antarctic disturbance which has resulted in the good rains over the whole of the south-eastern quarter of Australia has now left the continent. Its place is now taken by an anti-cyclone of moderate energy, with its centre over the western districts of New South Wales.

Another and very energetic Antarctic disturbance has made its appearance in the south-west corner of the continent, and so far has resulted in good rains over Western Australia south from Geraldton. For the present we may expect fine weather generally, with many frosts; milder temperature, with cloudy, unsettled conditions, and northerly winds, are likely by Sunday or Monday.

Ocean Forecasts.—Squally south-west winds on the west coast of Tasmania; south-west gales on west coast of Western Australia, extending to Bight.

PURE FOODS PROSECUTION.

At the Water Police Court, before Mr. G. H. Smithers, S.M., Arthur Konch, an inspector of the Health Department, charged the Civil Service Co-operative Stores with selling vermicilli, macaroni, and spaghetti which was adulterated. Inspectors of the Health Department gave evidence that in April last they found in the bulk stores of the defendant company a quantity of macaroni which was weevily and grubby. Mr. D. Levy, for the defence, did not deny the sale of seven cases of macaroni to a stallholder at "Paddy's Market," but he stated that the sale was a nominal price for fowls' food. The goods, the subject of the charge, were not exposed for sale, as they were in unopened cases.

A fine of £3, with 6s costs, was imposed.

ARTHUR GOODWIN, DRAMATIC BARITONE AND SPECIALIST IN VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, DEEP BREATHING, MEZZA-VOCE, ETC. Considered by the critics to possess one of the finest voices in Australia, and was strongly urged to visit Europe and make a name, but circumstances prevented him, so his pupils will get the benefit of his gifts as a Teacher. To meet the times he has reduced his fees to nominal amount—viz., £1/1/ per quarter of 13 Lessons; £2 per quarter, 26 Lessons.

Here is an exceptional opportunity for those possessing good voices, and cannot afford big fees, to have them trained in the correct methods. Mr. Goodwin desires to impress those interested, that he is not a second or third rate master—as the above fees may indicate—but one in the foremost rank of Teachers, and one who knows how to Demonstrate all the various Adjustments of Voice Production, and apply them too, if need be, but he has found by his own personal experience, close observation, and study, that the method he adopts and employs is far and away the best, as it brings out all the qualities which make the real Artist—viz., Roundness, Evenness, Mellowness, Depth, Resonance, and Clear Enunciation, and it makes the voice more Authoritative—which is so necessary in Dramatic Singing.

Now, the Frontal Adjustment will never give all these qualities as Mr. Goodwin will show by Demonstration. And the reason why the Frontal Position is so universal is that practically anyone can teach and apply it, from a Singer to an Instrumentalist, as it requires very little intellect to produce it. Whereas, the Adjustment employed by Mr. Goodwin requires considerable concentration of mind to do so, and no Instrumentalist, if he is not a Singer, could ever teach or apply it.

These are absolute facts, and Mr. Goodwin challenges anyone to refute them! If many Elocutionists only knew the advantages to be gained by a short course of correct Voice Production, they would be astonished to find how much more commanding their voices would be to the general public and themselves. Where they fail is not getting the Adjustment where it is most needed, far enough back, to get the telling head ring, which commands so much attention, in either a Singer or an Elocutionist. Caruso strongly condemns the Frontal Position, which, he says, "is against the rules of Song and the cause of Nasality in the Voice."

With regard to the Placing of Voices—a most important matter—Caruso issues a warning under this head, and says "that it is a very difficult matter for anyone to tell, at the commencement, what sort of a voice a person may possess, only the extremes in voices, such as a low Bass or a high Tenor, as natural development may make all the difference." Mr. Goodwin has found this to be the case with his own pupils, some of whom have gone from Soprano down to Contralto. This is the reason why so many voices have been ruined, by getting them placed wrongly, and not allowing natural development to show in what category they should be placed. There is one great gift that Mr. Goodwin possesses, and that is personality, without which no Teacher can ever be a success, however much his abilities may be, in other respects. By his own special Method of Deep Breathing, small voices advance rapidly, and the general health assumes a new aspect. The ordinary teacher advances a voice from the piano, which is a very slow business indeed, and one calculated to take all enthusiasm out of a pupil. With Mr. Goodwin it is improvement from the first lesson, and he imparts his own enthusiasm into his pupils, consequently they cannot help but advance. Since advertising, pupils have come to him who have been for years under various teachers of Sydney, and yet failed to give them that deep-tone they were looking for. Yet in one lesson they have been fixed up, and got on to an even scale. According to criticisms in the papers in the past, Instrumentalists believe "that to sing with a round even tone, with clear enunciation, one must possess such features from birth." An absolute fallacy, as Mr. Goodwin will show. It's placing oneself under the right master. That's the thing, and with development a small voice, with intellect and assiduous study behind it, may become one of the world's greatest artists. Mr. Goodwin instances his own case, for example, which from a small voice has assumed rather large dimensions, as many people have testified.

Press extracts of Mr. Goodwin's Concert, St. James' Hall, 22nd August, 1914. "S. M. Herald": The applause demanded extra items to the Programme, etc. "Sunday Times": "Arthur Goodwin's exceptional voice." "A fine Dramatic Baritone, of good quality, and well produced. His exceptional natural gift has had the benefit of careful cultivation, and with opportunity he should go very far. All his songs were enthusiastically received, and sung with good expression. An enjoyable concert," etc. "Splashes": "A voice of pleasant quality, warmly received. All his songs encored," etc. Bystander: A fine Dramatic Baritone. Warmly received. His Production and Enunciation were strong points." Mr. Goodwin wishes here to state that he was not in his best form on the night of the above concert.

All wrong voices corrected. Only earnest students taken. Those interested are requested to read Caruso's book, "How to Sing." Highest references. Clovelly or Waverley trams close to Studio, Zarita, Arden-street, Randwick.

WALL BEDS.
One Less Room for You to Build, and One Less Room to Sweep and Dust. One Less Room to Furnish.

Bedrooms are expensive to build. It's cheaper to buy an OSCILLATING PORTAL WALL BED than it is to build a bedroom. A Wall Bed in any room makes it a bedroom at night. For what that elaborate marble mantel cost you can have one fitted complete. The woman is the one that you must please. She is the one that decides which home she prefers. Do you know of any way that you can please her more than by CUTTING DOWN THE HOUSEWORK? We have solved the Servant Problem for many housewives.

Can you afford to build EXPENSIVE Bedrooms when an INEXPENSIVE WALL BED is what the Public demand? In America nearly 1,000,000 PEOPLE SLEEP in comfort on Patented Steel and Malleable Iron "Oscillating Portal Wall Beds."

Mitchell

BUILT TO ENDURE.

Of the thousands of Bate Cantilever Rear Springs in daily use on Mitchell cars the world over, not one has ever broken. Despite the rough roads of this country, not once has a part for replacement under our guarantee ever been called for. Six Mitchells have averaged 164,372 miles each—equivalent to thirty years' ordinary service. These facts demonstrate that you have in the Mitchell a car that is built to endure—a care that will give life-time service, at a minimum cost for repairs and attention. Write or call for full particulars.

THE CITY MOTOR CAR EXCHANGE,
Offices: Twyford House, 17 Castlereagh-street.
'Phone, City 10856.

NEW AND USED CARS, open and closed-in bodies, self-starters, etc, 2, 5, 7 seaters; also LORRIES, from 15cwt to 5 ton, including the best European and American Cars and Lorries. A written guarantee given with each Car we oversell. TURNER BROS., 24-26 Hay-street, overlooking Railway to Darling Harbour. Some on Terms. Your small Car taken in part payment.

NEW CARS DEPRECIATE FROM 25 to 50 per cent. the first year. A good Second-hand Car, with a written guarantee, bought at the right price, is a profitable investment, which, after years of service, shows only a low rate of depreciation, and is a much better proposition than a cheap new car. We have sold hundreds of cars all over the country, and can refer you to satisfied clients who are using cars purchased from us up to 10 years ago. We have a number of the leading makes of cars that we have taken as part-payment for new 6-cylinder cars at very reasonable prices. Some of these cars are only soiled. With these cars we can give a written guarantee as to their condition. Write to us, and we will send you full particulars. We do not buy Second-hand Cars, but can take your small Car in part payment.

HENDERSON FOUR-CYLINDER MOTOR CYCLES.

FOUR-CYLINDER HARMONY.

By blending the impulses of four cylinders into an unbroken, consonant stream, the HENDERSON Motor develops its masterful volume of power.

As it contrasts the 'cello's full tone with the drum's beat, the human ear senses the song of efficiency in the harmony of this Motor's operation. Energy which would be wasted in vibration is turned to productive usefulness.

More miles per gallon of gasoline.
Longer tyre life.
Longer chain life.
Less wear and tear.
Increased responsiveness, and more sensitive obedience to throttle.

The price which a master musician feels in his wonderful instrument is shared by the owner of a HENDERSON Motor Cycle.

THE TYRES THAT ARE DIFFERENT.

PALMER CORD TYRES.
PALMER CORD TYRES.

If you have tyre-trouble, due to weakness at the bead, fit Palmer Cord Tyres, and you will have no further trouble. At the bead, where most tyres are weakest, Palmer Cord Tyres are specially strengthened by looping the impregnated cords around "anchors" that are firmly embedded. These anchors cannot rust, and moisture cannot affect the tyres because there is NO CANVAS USED. Palmer tyres are British-made.

WITH FLYING COLOURS.

THE EXCELSIOR

and Sidecar, driven by Messrs. Park Bros., came through the 24-hours' Reliability Trial, leading practically all the way, first into every control but one, and first to arrive at the finish, Mount Victoria. As an individual win there was nothing else in it. Actual riding time, 18 hours. The only machine to finish with standard equipment.
Only five "EXCELSIORS" started—NOT A TRADE RIDER.
The winning "EXCELSIOR" is privately owned, and was privately driven and is a standard machine. This success, on top of the last two 100 mile course de circuit races at Hartley, and the last 100 mile T.T. at Goulburn, in which "EXCELSIORS" got first and fastest time in each case, leaves no doubt that it is the fastest and most reliable motor cycle.
To own a motor cycle with all these successes to its credit is worth something more than the other man owns. Full particulars free on request from

SATISFACTION.

Hillston, 4/6/17.

"Messrs. McIntosh and Sons, Ltd., SYDNEY.

Dear Sirs,—I have just arrived home from a long trip into the back country on the route of the Broken Hill railway line. The Buick took me through country after heavy rain that astonished the settlers in that part. I had advised myself as coming a week before the rain fell. My customers did not expect me on account of the bad roads. The going was very heavy, but we got there. Yours faithfully,

(Sgd.) "THOS. MACFARLANE."

DELIVERY.

We have several large shipments afloat, and we expect to make delivery commencing in two weeks' time. Those who realise they must have a car in the near future—or even next spring—are advised to book now, and the present shipments carry no increase of cost.

YOU MUST HAVE GOOD HEAD-LIGHTS,

BUT THERE IS NO NEED FOR THAT BLINDING GLARE WHICH IS FOUND WITH ALL HIGH-POWER ELECTRIC LAMPS.

THE WARNER NO-GLARE LENZ

IS A SIMPLE, CHEAP, AND EFFECTIVE MEANS OF OVERCOMING THIS OBJECTIONABLE AND DANGEROUS GLARE. IT CAN BE FITTED TO ANY LAMP IN A FEW MINUTES. IT DOES NOT DECREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR LAMP, BUT IT POSITIVELY IMPROVES THE LIGHT, AND ENTIRELY

ELIMINATES THAT BLINDING GLARE.

THEIR ADVANTAGE APPEALS TO EVERY MOTORIST—YOU CAN LOOK STRAIGHT INTO YOUR LAMP WITHOUT THE SLIGHTEST INCONVENIENCE.
SEE DEMONSTRATION LAMPS IN OUR WINDOW, WITH 32 C.P. 240 VOLT LAMP, AND STILL NO GLARE. STOCKED IN SIZES TO SUIT ALL LAMPS.

TO MOTOR TRADERS.

The Repairing of Motor Cars is one of the problems the Garage-owner finds a very difficult business to handle. The scarcity of skilled labour, the selection of high-grade Material, the heat treatment of modern Steels, the Special Machinery necessary for the production of intricate parts, the continuity of orders required to keep a regular staff employed, the variety of car parts required, are all difficulties that are not easily overcome. This is where we can help you to increase your business. If you know where you can get parts made, all you have to do is to put them in place; then the business is quite simple. We have specialised in this section of the Motor Car Industry for the past 16 years. We have increased our plant each year, until we have the largest and most complete plant in New South Wales for the production of Motor parts. We manufacture Crank Shafts, Axles, Change-speed Gears, Crown Wheels, Timing Gears, Rebore Cylinders, make Pistons, Rings, Valves, Camshafts, Springs, Worm Gears, Connection Rods, etc., etc., etc., all ready to be replaced in the car. Our Prices are right, and are low enough for you to make your usual trade profit. Goods taken delivery of at rail or boat, and returned without delay. Quotations given on receipt of drawings or samples by return. Special Prices to Trade. Complete overhauls if required.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA. PAIGE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

The popularity of the "PAIGE" Car is so great that the factories are 4 to 5 months behind with their orders. The term, "The Most Beautiful Car in America," was given to the Paige at the last New York Show, and it applies not only to the outside of the Car, but also to the inside. Paige Cars are selling among the class of people who require the best, and who have always sought and paid for the best.

One Gentleman, who has bought a Paige, has left his English Crossley Car, that has had very little running, with us for sale. We can sell you this Crossley with a new car guarantee for £850. Another Gentleman left his Talbot, for which he paid £750. It has only run a few thousand miles altogether, and we can sell it for £325. We have half-a-dozen similar bargains.

Our sales of "Paige" Cars have been built up by good results to the purchaser after many years of satisfactory service.

Paige Prices:—2-3 Passenger, £465; 5-6 Passenger, £475; 7-8 Passenger, £500 to £560.

Just a little extra, and you get a Paige. Write for Catalogue. We have a number of orders booked for "Paige" Cars by owners who wish to sell their present cars. Some have had very little use. They include Fiat, Renault, Talbot, Buick, Overland, Hupmobile, Brasier, Studebaker, Darracq, Cadillac, Crossley, etc. Call in and see them.

LARKE, HOSKINS, AND CO., LTD., AGENTS FOR RELIABLE REOS.

There are two standards of cheapness. There is the Cheapest Car to buy, and there is the Cheapest Car to maintain. REOS are not the lowest-priced Car, but they are by a long way the most economical in maintenance. You pay a little more money, but you get a Car that is sturdier—more comfortable to ride in—free from squeaks—ample power—safe—smart in appearance.

The upkeep test is the real test, and on upkeep REOS are the best value in Sydney.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR SHIPPING COMPANIES, GENERAL MERCHANTS, PRODUCE MERCHANTS,
MACHINERY MERCHANTS, INVESTORS, and OTHERS.

C. J. and T. HAM are instructed to sell by public auction, as above—
1. Land having a frontage of 30 feet 0½ inch to the south side of Collins-street by a depth of 164 feet 6 inches through to a right of way at rear, 20 feet to 25 feet wide, leading into Flinders-lane, together with the substantial bluestone building, with cemented front, thereon (No. 515), of four spacious floors.
2. Adjoining Lot 1, on the west.—Land 26 feet ½ inches frontage to the south side of Collins-street by a depth of 164 feet 6 inches through to right of way at rear, 20 feet to 25 feet wide, leading into Flinders-lane, together with the solidly constructed bluestone and brick building thereon, known as Nos. 517 and 519, comprising four floors, used as offices and stores.

The property possesses the great advantage of the higher level of Collins-street and the lower level of the approach from Flinders-lane, affording special facilities for utilisation of the Collins-street frontage (two floors above Collins-street) for office and showroom purposes, and the two lower floors (above the Flinders-lane level) for storage purposes, enabling the receipt and despatch of goods to be dealt with without interference or disturbance to the office and showroom section. The property adjoins the handsome building in occupation of the Adelaide Steamship Company, and is next door but one to the "Rialto," within the block in which are situated the magnificent buildings of the A.M.P. Society, the "Olderfleet," New Zealand Insurance Co., "Dudley-buildings," and "Robb's-buildings." It is the finest site available in this important shipping and mercantile centre, possessing the low depth proximity to railways and wharfs, and being in the heart of the grain and produce trade. THIS AUCTION AFFORDS AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY TO SHIPPING COMPANIES, MERCHANTS, EXPORTERS, and OTHERS of SECURING a LARGE or SMALL FREEHOLD in a VALUABLE and IMPROVING POSITION, with BUILDINGS that can be EASILY ADAPTED to REQUIREMENTS, and of WHICH EARLY POSSESSION CAN be OBTAINED. To be OFFERED as a WHOLE, or in SEPARATE LOTS, AS ABOVE.

ACCOUNTANTS,
BOOKKEEPERS,
CLERKS, AND ALL
OFFICE MEN.

Do you know what it means to obtain your degree as a QUALIFIED Accountant?

Have you given this question of qualification the attention it deserves from your own personal point of view?

Modern methods of business demand highly-trained men to keep the records and accounts. Qualified men are in demand all over Australia. There never will be enough of them.

Golden opportunities await the man of ambition and pluck who is prepared to study and qualify. There is no "royal road" to success in the Commercial World, but there is a "sure road," and that is through the Accountancy Degree Examinations.

No investment of your time and money can possibly bring greater or more permanent reward than the time and money you will spend in obtaining your Degree.

You cannot afford to put aside this question. You must decide now—or be prepared to take a "back seat" instead of doubling or trebling your salary in a few years.

Make up your mind now to go right into the "box."

Our advice and experience of 20 years in this work are at your service.

Since 1901 we have coached successfully 2350 candidates, more than all other results combined.

Over 80 per cent. of the 1916 men were coached by "H. and R." THERE IS A REASON.

Call or send To-day for "Guide to Accountancy"—a most interesting and valuable statement of the whole case.

EXAMINATION—JULY 21st.

Enter whole-heartedly on a course of training that will enable you to compete successfully in this important examination.

JOIN THE SPECIAL CLASSES AT STOTT AND HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE.

The supreme value of our training has been proved in previous Commonwealth Examinations—we give the results of the last four as evidence of the successes of our students:—

1912.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 14 out of 24, including top and second place.

1913.—Stott and Hoare Passes. 16 out of 29.

1914.—Stott and Hoare Passes. 9 out of 11, including 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th places.

1915.—No examination held.

1916.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 16 out of 24, including top place.

Remember, this is a "worth-while" examination, that confers distinct benefits in the way of good salaries on the successful candidates. Stott and Hoare's Business College does not enter students for examinations where success is purely nominal. Start your training with the College that helps its students to practical success.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ENROL.

FACTORS IN POSITION FINDING.

STOTT'S Business College is in a unique position to secure good appointments for its students.

The oldest established of Australia's Business Colleges, it has for over thirty-two years fostered a close relationship with the business community, and to-day enjoys its complete confidence.

The College's affiliation with the Underwood Typewriter Agency is also of highest importance. Not only does every machine sold call for an operator, but the agency, through its close contact with business houses, can and does exert a valuable influence on behalf of the College.

New Students May Now Enrol.

ALF. CROAKER and DAUGHTERS.

LADIES,
AUSTRALIA'S SWEET TOOTH grows more insatiable every time the sun comes up. The demand seems larger because there's no supply of sweets. Only good CHOCOLATES can be had by those who can make them. See our pupils' results after half a day's lesson.
IT'S A BRILLIANT SHOW.
And if you would earn money easily supplying the shops who have to buy, YOU WILL CALL AND VIEW. You are going to make some mistakes this year, but if you miss seeing us, it will be the BIGGEST MISTAKE EVER.
It seems uncanny for a pupil to take half a day's lesson and run away with a R.A. SHOW FIRST PRIZE this Easter in Sydney, and others all over the country who were Post taught. BUT THIS WAS DONE. This is because we offer picked works' recipes, bought the world round, at prices that stagger.
ALFRED CROAKER and DAUGHTERS, Station House, 790 George-street, Sydney, entrance Rawson-place. Take lift 1st floor, and you'll get a surprise view. ALL Do. Also at 325 Collins-street, Melbourne, 'Frisco, and London. Estab. 1890.
